SPLIT IN G. O. P. ON RUM HINTED BY WADSWORTH

MOVEMENT FOR FESS TO RESIGN POST SEEN

MANLY STAND ON DRY QUESTION DEMANDED

Britten Joins in Assault on Ohioan, Saying Leadership Has Brought Defeat.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

The Republican quarrel over what to do about prohibition, expected to continue until 1932, seemed definitely begun yesterday when former Senator Wadsworth, of New York, replying to Senator Fess, intimated that if the wet side is not taken there may be a party split.

Senator Fess' statement Monday was interpreted as a warning that there would be one if the wet side was taken.

The quarrel had generally been looked upon as inevitable, but there had been hopes on the part of some of the party leaders that it would not break out so soon, that it might possibly be deferred until the sun again had begun to shine on Republican fortunes.

Faces Battle for Post.

Now, the next move looked for and believed to be as irresistible as the following of one day upon another, is the demand from party wet sources for Senator Fess' relinquishment of the party chairmanship. Senator Fess' opening up of the question was highly displeasing in several quarters, and there were some grumblings that his days as chairman should be numbered if they were not.

Now that he seems to have definitely developed a quarrel, there will come, unless political history is to reverse itself, an audible drumming after his scalp.

"We want our party to be right upon the only fundamental constitutional issue that has arisen since the days of the Civil War and we will fight to make it right, split or no split," Mr. Wadsworth declared. His statement was issued through the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, of which Mr. Wadsworth is a director and a most active member since he became a wet martyr through his defeat in 1926.

Opinions of Wadsworth.

"Dr. Fess, the present Republican national chairman," the statement read, "says our party will be split if we favor repeal. But what if we oppose repeal? Does the senator think we can carry Massachusetts, Rhode Island, Connecticut, New York, New Jersey, Ohio, Illinois and a half dozen other States whose people spoke last week on this question?

"If we are to have a split (and I am not so sure of that), what kind of a split is better, a split caused by a straight-out, manly declaration on the fundamental importance of repeal, or a split caused by a half-hearted and transparently insincere adherence to prohibition? Does the senator hope to cajole repeal-Republicans, millions of good men and women, into an attitude of complacency concerning the thing which they regard as vital, just to make it easier for some local candidate to get by? No; this thing has gone beyond that stage."

Tuttle's Beating Involved.

On the question of which of the two, Senator Fess or Mr. Wadsworth, has the more party weight just now, the Ohio senator wins easily. Indeed, it would seem that Mr. Wadsworth and his fellow New York Republican wets are in decided disrepute just now because of the drubbing administered to their gubernatorial candidate who turned wet.

Senator Fess quits probably sees just such a fate in store for the Republican party if it does that.

The Wadsworth statement is important, though, because it shows just what Senator Fess has started.

The Ohio senator—Mr. Wadsworth's statement says "tears dim his sight," —uttered his dry warning, as a matter of fact, a day or so after the elections in a speech to Cleveland business men. That utterance got a most cold reception among party leaders, but there were no public rejoinders. Apparently the senator was moved to keep uttering until he did get one.

Offer to Lead Drys.

There is considerable speculation in political circles as to why Senator Wadsworth is doing this, knowing fully as he must what is to follow, knowing, indeed, that there will most certainly arise demands for his chairmanship again.

During the campaign there was a widely published story that the

Calvin Coolidge Says:

The declaration of seven Democratic leaders that they do not propose to engage in obstruction is an encouraging feature in national politics. It has been cordially received by Republican leaders, and so far as public statements are effective will tend to allay apprehension about political bickerings. The truce is too late to cure the present economic situation. The most that can be said for it is that our state is not so bad as it might have been without it.

If responsible leaders really mean that they do not propose to countenance artificial political effort by their party in the Congress it is of much importance. During the recent months there has been too much effort of that kind by both parties in Washington. We have had too much Government action, with attendant publicity, proposing to cure human illness which no government can cure and too much public opposition when there was nothing to oppose. The people want from both parties an effective and quiet conduct of public affairs. If the state of business and the election finally have impressed this on our officeholders we now can hope for improvement.

CABINET OF BELGIUM RESIGNS IN DISPUTE

Action Results Over Row on Use of Flemish and French Languages.

KING STUDIES DECISION

Brussels, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Premier Henri Jaspar and his cabinet today offered their resignations to King Albert, who reserved decision on acceptance.

The resignation was the culmination of a dispute concerning the use of the Flemish and French languages. Recently the government prohibited professors of the Ghent State University, which now uses Flemish, to lecture at its Ghent Institute for High Studies, where French is the language in use.

As a result of this decision the Liberal Federation met last night and repudiated the action of the minister of education, who was responsible for the university edict, and asked the five Liberal members of the cabinet to have the ruling withdrawn.

The five Liberals, however, had approved the measure in the first place and they decided to resign rather than to ask its withdrawal. A Catholic member then resigned, to mark the solidarity of the coalition cabinet, and Premier Jaspar took the resignatons of the entire group to the king.

Observers feel that should the crisis within the Liberal party continue the only solution will be a general election, with the linguistic question as the main point of the campaign.

The language question long has been troublesome in Belgium, although freedom to use either language is one of the principles of the constitution. Flemish, which is a Teutonic tongue, is spoken in the northern half of the country, while French is used in the Walloon provinces in the lower portion.

Cannon's Illness Halts Inquiry Into Charges

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 11 (A.P.). Bishop W. N. Ainsworth, chairman of the college of bishops, Methodist Episcopal Church South, said today a meeting of the committee appointed to investigate charges against Bishop James Cannon, jr., called for tomorrow, has been postponed because of Bishop Cannon's illness.

Bishop Cannon is confined to a Washington hospital and Bishop Ainsworth said his physician would not allow him to attend to any business. The chairman declined to discuss the charges, saying, "The matter is a church matter and is not going to be tried in the newspapers."

Man Plunges 40 Floors To Death by Suicide

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A plunge from a fortieth-floor window of the Hotel New Yorker today killed Walter Brownfelder, 36, believed to be an official of a Seventh avenue milk concern.

Police listed the case as suicide but no motive was apparent.

CHRISTMAS FUNDS AWAIT 9,000,000

Savings Checks Aggregate Around $700,000,000, Bankers Report.

TOTAL WILL SET RECORD

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—About 9,000,000 depositors, in the next few weeks, will receive from banks throughout the United States between $600,000,000 and $700,000,000 in Christmas Club savings checks, estimates compiled by the New York Sun indicate.

In many States these Christmas funds will be larger than ever before, bankers declare. The exact total of the various funds will be revealed later in the week, when the Christmas Club Corporation issues its annual report.

The National Association of Mutual Savings Banks today gave out figures covering seventeen States, in which 741,936 depositors will collect $35,573,391 in Christmas fund savings checks. School savings in these seventeen States showed a gain of more than $2,000,000 over 1929. Such accounts in New York this year aggregated $9,561,590. In 1929 the total was $1,856,580.

Lady Astor Figures In Parliament Tiff

Butt of Laborite's Quip in Battle on Child Labor Reform.

London, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Lady Astor, seldom far from the center of action on bills which hold her interest, figured in a brisk exchange between Conservatives and left-wing Laborites today during debate on a clause in the education bill raising from 14 to 15 the age at which children may leave school and go to work.

"You never earned a penny in your life," J. McGovern, a left-winger from Shettlestone, Glasgow, flung at her. A moment later McGovern, answering a Conservative member's assertion that parents were unwilling to keep their children in school an extra year, shouted, "That's a lie!"

There was a confusion of objections and the speaker, in wig and gown, was called in as a motion for McGovern's suspension was offered. It carried, 305 to 40. But the left-wingers, who never before had received as many as 40 votes on any motion, greeted the vote with cheers.

RECORD IS SET ON JONES LAW PROSECUTIONS

CALLED REMARKABLE SHOWING FOR PERIOD

Exceeds Third of Cases Handled First Year of '5 and 10.'

ROVER DENIES 'DRIVE' HAS SPURRED ACTION

Police Court Sends Up Grist of Cases for Disposal, His Explanation.

With the return of 13 more indictments by the grand jury yesterday, the District of Columbia made a new record for Jones law prosecutions, since addition of the unlucky number brought the total of such true bills reported by the present inquisitorial body to 83.

This is considered remarkable when it is taken into consideration that the total represents more than one-third as many as were returned during the entire first year the Jones "5-and-10" act was in operation, and in view of the fact the jurors have been on duty only since October 7 and have worked only five days a week during that period.

Then Led Entire Country.

The District of Columbia led all sections of the country in convictions under the Jones act from March 2, 1929, when the law became effective, to March 2, 1930. During that year, there were 116 convictions and 247 indictments in the District.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover and his assistant, Renah F. Camalier, who has charge of grand jury work, explained yesterday that the large number of indictments returned so far by this grand jury, which goes out of office December 31, is not due to any particular drive but to the fact all liquor cases, as well as others, in which defendants arraigned in Police Court or before the United States commissioner are held for the grand jury, are considered immediately.

In addition to the large number of Jones law indictments, the present grand jury also has returned seven in which alleged bootleggers were charged with violating the smoke screen law.

Refused Many Indictments.

During the same period, the grand jury considered 57 other cases involving liquor law violations, but refused to return indictments. Twenty-one of these cases then were sent back to Police Court, where the defendants pleaded guilty or were tried.

That, too, is a new departure in the last few weeks. Its purpose is to get the bootlegger and the rumrunner coming and going. If Police Court believes there is sufficient evidence to warrant holding a defendant for the grand jury, that disposition is made. But if the grand jury fails to indict under the Jones act, in cases where there is a preponderance of evidence that the Volstead act has been violated, defendants are sent back to Police Court for final disposition of

Prohibition in the Senate

Butts Tells How Cassiday Sold Him "Fifth of Gin" at Capital

First Delivery Made Via Employe of Senate Introducing Him.

Describes "Man With Green Hat" as Clean Cut, Well Dressed.

By ROGER BUTTS.

When I went up to Capitol Hill from the Prohibition Bureau on Monday morning, December 16, the present Congress had been in session about two weeks.

I was accompanied by W. H. Baldwin, a special agent under contract with the Prohibition Bureau, the same as I was. Mr. Baldwin was an experienced investigator who had worked for the Department of Justice and handled many assignments as a private detective. The Prohibition Bureau sent him along to introduce me to the proper parties and get me started on the right track.

Mr. Baldwin had had an interview with Vice President Curtis at his office and he assured me everything had been arranged to place me in the stationery room in the Senate Office Building.

We went into the United States Capitol Building first and called at the office of Col. Edwin P. Thayer, secretary of the Senate. His office is on the ground floor, just off the Senate chamber.

Mr. Baldwin introduced me to Col. Thayer and we had a little talk. Col. Thayer told me that since the Vice President had sponsored me as an employe in the Senate stationery room he was sure I would have no trouble getting along over there.

Col. Thayer then called in John C. Crockett, chief clerk of the Senate, and introduced me to him. Mr. Crockett then took me over to the stationery room in the Senate Office Building.

Capt. F. A. Parker was in charge of the stationery room at that time and there were three other employes there, Kremer, Johnson and Patterson. Mr. Crockett called them together and introduced me as a new employe on the temporary roll.

"Butts will be here for a couple of months," Mr. Crockett said, "to help you boys out during the Christmas rush."

It seemed to me the boys in the stationery room were rather

U. S. FUNDS TO FEED JOBLESS PROPOSED

SAYS PRECEDENTS EXIST

(Associated Press.)

Use of Federal funds to feed the unemployed was proposed yesterday by a Republican leader in Congress as the President's emergency committee fixed the number involuntarily dropped from the pay rolls of two industries at almost a million workers.

Chairman Woods of the employment committee said the automobile and construction industries are two and a half billion dollars each behind their previous year in gross business. Figuring 60 per cent of the four billion dollar total they paid last year for wages, and an average wage of $2,000 a year, Woods estimated at least 900,000 are out of work.

Senator McNary, of Oregon, the assistant Republican leader, proposed the appropriation of Treasury funds to meet winter distress. While not prepared to introduce legislation, Senator McNary said, he would "look with favor on any plan to appropriate adequate funds to be administered by the Red Cross for the relief of distress in America."

"I am just as much for the fellow who is without food as I am for the farmer without grain in his bins."

VIRGINIAN KILLED IN HIGHWAY CRASH

DETAILS ARE LACKING

Heath A. Melton, believed to be about 45 years old, of Richmond, Va., was killed late yesterday afternoon in an automobile accident reported to have occurred in front of Rippon Lodge on the Washington-Richmond highway, some 5 miles from Quantico.

The victim of the crash was rushed to the Marine Base hospital at Quantico, where doctors were prepared to give aid when it was discovered that the man was dead upon arrival.

Marine authorities had no information as to just how the accident occurred. A man named Harry Goldman, address not given, is reported to have been injured about the right arm in the same crash, but whether he was with Mr. Melton or not could not be ascertained.

Neighbors near the scene of the accident said they understood that Melton turned out to avoid striking a parked car and his machine crashed into another automobile going in the opposite direction. This story, however, could not be verified by any eyewitnesses.

Rite at Unknown's Tomb Followed by Speech on World Amity.

ARLINGTON CEREMONY BRIEF BUT TOUCHING

American War Mothers Raise Service Flag Over Capitol.

CLERGYMEN, LED BY AXTON, PAY TRIBUTE

Addresses by Pershing and Hurley Are Broadcast From New York.

President Hoover led the Nation yesterday in the commemoration of Armistice Day and in the utterance of pleas for lasting peace. In the name of 122,000,000 countrymen, the Chief Executive placed a wreath upon the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier as service men stood guard over the symbolic resting place of the country's war dead.

Strains from bugles floated over Arlington Cemetery as "Taps" was sounded, the echoes carrying toward the Washington Cathedral where homage was paid at the tomb of America's war President, Woodrow Wilson.

On Capitol Hill, where Congress declared war, the American War Mothers gave tribute to the sons and daughters who served in the World War and to the Unknown War Mother whose Unknown Soldier Son rests in the national shrine.

Message of President.

After simple services at the tomb, the President passed crippled veterans and the countless graves of the war dead to assert to the Good Will Congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship that America's duty is to seek new opportunities to insure the world against the horror and irretrievable waste of war.

In his address to the world alliance, President Hoover broadcast to the Nation that "the purpose of our Government is to cooperate with others, to use our friendly offices, and, short of an implication of the use of force, to use every friendly effort and all good will to maintain the peace of the world."

The simple tribute of the President was but one of the countless acts of homage paid by citizens of the District throughout the day.

Ceremony in Cemetery.

The President, accompanied by Mrs. Hoover, Secretary of the Navy Charles F. Adams, Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley, Gen. Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff, and their aids arrived at Arlington shortly before 10 o'clock.

At the amphitheater the party halted as the Army Band played "The Star-Spangled Banner." Then the President placed his wreath of yellow chrysanthemums. Mrs. Hoover placed a smaller bouquet. The ceremony lasted but three minutes.

Wounded war veterans from Walter Reed Hospital, some almost hopelessly crippled, hobbled to the tomb to lay a simple wreath, grown in the hospital greenhouses, at the base of the vault.

Mothers Raise Flag.

Sergt. Francis L. Larkin, whose leg was shot away in the World War, was aided by less incapacitated veterans as he placed the tribute.

Expressions of hope for continued peace came from Gen. John J. Pershing, who led the Nation's military forces in the war. "It is the duty of living veterans," he said, "to guide the destinies of this Nation that should war come it will find the American people prepared, materially and spiritually."

American War Mothers raised the service flag over the Capitol at 10:30 o'clock. Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired chief of naval operations,

Masked Bandit Seizes Girl In 3-X Murder Spot Holdup

Taxi Driver, Who Picked Up Red-Haired Beauty on His Night Off, Tells Police of Loss of Companion, Car and Cash.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A pretty red-haired girl, otherwise unidentified, was kidnaped early today by a masked bandit in the secluded section of Queens, where the mysterious "3-X" killer committed two murders several months ago.

Joseph Luisi, 30, who brought news of the kidnaping to police, is a taxi driver. Last night was his night off, so he borrowed his brother's sedan and went for a ride.

About midnight, while driving down Eighth Avenue, in New York, Luisi saw the pretty girl and invited her to go riding. Before they got to the point of exchanging names, Luisi had been robbed of $7, his sedan and his girl.

They had stopped riding about 3 a. m. near Bayside, Queens, Luisi said, about half way between the two places where "3-X" committed his murders. A man suddenly appeared beside the car. He was about 6 feet tall and wore a mask over his face.

Luisi recalled that Noel Sowle and Joseph Moyzinski had been slain by a mysterious assassin while sitting in parked cars with girl friends. At the man's command he hurriedly got out of the car and submitted to search of his pockets. The man took all he

Long Illness Is Fatal To T. Coleman Du Pont

Former Senator Was High in Councils of His Party.

Wilmington, Del., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—T. Coleman du Pont, one of the most prominent members of the Du Pont family of Delaware, and long identified with the national and State organizations of the Republican party, died at his home here today. He was 66.

Mr. du Pont was a former United States senator, former Republican national committeeman, former president of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., and was widely known as a financier and philanthropist. Death resulted from a throat affection of long standing.

For the last two years he lived in retirement, his business interests being looked after by his son, Frank V. du Pont, of Wilmington.

Soon after he became seriously ill two years ago he went South for several months, then underwent an operation on his throat in New York. He returned to the South, but for the last few months had lived at his country estate near Cambridge, Md. He was brought to his home here about a week ago.

Veterans' Tear Gas Closes Store Open Armistice Day

County Legion Commander Leads Sally After Munitions Are Obtained in Sheriff's Office; Patrons and Clerks Flee, Gasping for Air.

St. Clairsville, Ohio, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Angered over failure of a grocery store to close in observance of Armistice Day, a group of Belmont County World War veterans today hurled tear bombs into the place. Patrons and employes were forced to flee, gasping for air.

The platoon of soldiers, wearing steel helmets and carrying rifles, was led to the store by C. W. Fowler, commander of the Belmont County American Legion. He did not enter. Nelson McQuillan, a former officer of the Ohio "40 and 8," fun society of the American Legion, was among those who went inside.

McQuillan said the veterans "considered it their right to close the store on Armistice Day just the same as they would protest any attempt of any one to tear down the American flag."

After the bombing, McQuillan posted a notice on the window reading: "Closed for the day." Employes made no effort to reopen the store.

The bursting of the tear-gas bomb in the store created more excitement in this city than any event since the news of the signing of the armistice, a dozen years ago.

Staunton Hears Brig. Gen. Reilly

Special to The Washington Post.

Staunton, Va., Nov. 11.—World-wide peace and good will are still very distant illusions, in the opinion of Brig. Gen. Henry J. Reilly, O. R. C., Washington, Staunton's Armistice Day speaker. He said "the more I travel about the world, the more convinced I am of the absence of good will for us, and the more convinced I am that to command the respect of the world and to maintain peace we must have the power with which to command them."

Gen. Reilly asserted that "on the one hand we (the United States) are building business and lending money all over the world, capturing the commerce of other nations, and engendering general envy and dislike. On the other hand, we are going into diplomatic conferences and losing or giving away that which we need to protect the interests of our nation. If we want to keep what we want, we must have the power to command the respect of the world."

"What we need," said Gen. Reilly, "is a trained diplomatic service—and I mean that to include the consular service—a diplomatic service that is indoctrinated with the principles and the interests of this country, that will be able to meet foreign diplomats on equal terms, that will strive constantly to protect the interests of our nationals abroad, our commerce, and our rights at international conferences."

Radfield, but no charges were filed. The mayor said his proclamation calling for closing of all stores was not mandatory, but that he intended asking council to pass an ordinance requiring Armistice Day closing hereafter.

Civil authorities said they had no statements to make on the bombing.

The bombs were taken by the veterans from the sheriff's office. A deputy sheriff on duty there said he permitted them to enter the ammunition supply room thinking they desired material for a demonstration.

They marched straight from the court jail to the store, he said. Before forcing the patrons and employes outside with bomb fumes, a detachment of the soldiers wrecked the display in front of the store.

Legionnaire doughboys said they left the locking of the public in Gamma Hall to close the store. Officials said, had repeatedly refused to observe proclamations of the day.

CAPITAL OBSERVES ARMISTICE SIGNING

Wreath Is Put on Unknowns' Tomb in Behalf of School Children.

BUSINESS HALTS MINUTE

Exercises, in observance of the twelfth anniversary of the signing of the armistice were held yesterday by local fraternal, civic and scholastic organizations throughout the city.

Led by Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, and Stephen E. Kramer, assistant superintendent, the day's activities started at 9:15 a. m. with the placing of a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier in behalf of the District public schools. Daniel C. Pollock, colonel of the High School Cadet Corps, with cadet representatives from each high school, placed a wreath on the tomb in behalf of the Jamaica Plains (N. Y.) High School, in accordance with a custom established in 1925. Pupil representatives and principals from each school in the District attended the ceremonies.

War Songs Are Sung.

Under the auspices of the Bureau of Printing and Engraving Post, of the American Legion, employes of the bureau held exercises starting at 11 o'clock. The ceremonies included a salute to the flag, the singing of war songs and a number of short addresses by members of the legion. Following one minute of silence, taps were sounded concluding the program.

Large firms, members of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association, in all parts of the city, ceased activities at 11 o'clock and observed two minutes of silence in honor of the armistice.

At 12:30 o'clock veterans of the World War, with members of their families, attended the solemn high mass held in the Church of the Immaculate Conception. The Rev. Francis J. Hurney, who was chaplain of the U. S. S. Charleston during the war, officiated at the special services arranged in honor of Armistice Day.

Dances Are Held.

As the Veterans of Foreign Wars entertained at a dance at the Mayflower Hotel, the American Legion acted as host at another dance at the Willard Hotel. Many officials of the Government and ranking officers of the Army and Navy were guests at both affairs.

Headed by Dr. Edwin N. C. Barnes, the Canadian Club of Washington held an armistice dinner at the Cosmos Club. The dinner was given in honor of Arthur Meighen, former prime minister of Canada. Merchant Mahoney attended the affair, representing the Canadian Legation.

Ceremonies, lasting throughout the day, were concluded last night with a number of private dinners and dances by numerous veterans' organizations.

Under the auspices of the United Veterans of American Wars, employes of the Government Printing Office were entertained last night at exercises held in honor of Armistice Day. The program, arranged by unit No. 1 of the Veteran Order, was given in Harding Hall, assembly room of the printing office.

The selecting of the Unknown Soldier in France by Sergt. Edward Younger, the dramatic arrival in America of the dead warrior to whom a nation yesterday paid tribute, and the final burial in Arlington National Cemetery, were outlined by Judge Robert E. Mattingly, of the District Municipal Court.

Goff Pays Tribute.

Tribute to the war dead was given by Senator Guy Despard Goff in an address at Walter Reed Hospital. "Every effort is being made," he said, "to prevent another war, and it is asserted that there will be no future wars. Every one feels that another war can result only in disaster and calamity for all participants.

Senator Goff described the ideals of Americanism and said that it was the duty of the citizens to perpetuate those ideals.

Armistice Day was commemorated by the Advertising Club of Washington at the weekly luncheon meeting yesterday. Admiral Robert E. Coontz, retired, former chief of naval operations, and Paul P. Collins, war aviator and vice president of the Ludington Air Line, were the speakers.

In introducing Mr. Collins, James Hardy, president of the Advertising Club, referred to his war record as that of one of the outstanding American fliers in the World War.

Silence of Two Minutes Is Marked by Happenings

Bugler in New York Heard in Every Corner of the Land; Chimes Boom in London as King and Two Princes Lead Observance.

(Associated Press.)

Some things that happened when half the world was silent.

New York—A bugler, standing on the balcony of the Hotel Astor, sounded taps, radio carried the bugle notes to the far corners of the land.

Warsaw—An icy wind drove a cold rain down upon thousands of men, women and children who participated with President Moscicki and members of the government in the Armistice observance.

London—In Westminster Cathedral high mass was being celebrated. The cathedral clock boomed dully. Singing ceased. For two minutes the only sound was the solemn, laboring ticking of the clock.

New York—Every vehicle in every borough of New York got the stop signal at 11 a. m. All traffic lights turned red on four sides simultaneously and remained so for two minutes.

Ottawa—The Dominion of Canada has made the two minutes salute of silence a national gesture of respect to its 60,000 war dead. The silence was observed this year from the Atlantic to the Pacific.

London—as the chimes of Big Ben told the hour of 11, a group including most of the men who direct the destinies of the British commonwealth of nations stood at the cenotaph. His majesty the King was there, standing between his sons, the Prince of Wales and the Duke of York. Flanking them were the princes of the Indian states and the prime ministers of the dominions.

New York—Even the telephones were silent, with no calls being accepted during the two hushed moments. The Stock Exchange hubbub halted and the Wall street marts of money paused. In the Grand Central Terminal where so much of Manhattan's travel converges and diverges, all uniformed porters stood at attention in long lines. Thousands of travelers halted, hushed; and the notes of a bugle echoed through the far reaches of the station.

Liverpool—Lord Derby touched an electric button which unloosed a large union jack, permitting 12,000 Flanders poppies to flitter down about a cenotaph unveiled in honor of Liverpool's fighters who never returned from the war.

Van Moves Block Police Look for It

Virginia and Maryland Also Begin Search for Truck, Driven Around Corner.

Policemen of the District and nearby Maryland and Virginia spent a lot of time looking for a huge truck of the Merchants' Transfer and Storage Co., yesterday afternoon which had been reported stolen, only to learn last night that the truck never had been missing.

It seems that Robert Chapman, 1308 W street northwest, driver of the truck, parked it at Eleventh and U streets while he went into a store. He left his helper on the truck. Irate motorists behind honked incessantly because the street was partly blocked, so the helper moved the truck around the corner.

When Chapman emerged from the store, the truck, with merchandise valued at $7,000 on board, was gone. He notified police who in turn notified nearby authorities to watch for the truck. Meanwhile the helper was looking for Chapman. They finally got together, officials of the company told that the truck was safe and all this information was finally relayed to police who then relaxed their vigil.

Hunters Find Man Dead of Gas in Car

Baltimore Husband Leaves Notes to Wife and Family.

Special to The Washington Post.

Frederick, Md., Nov. 11.—Slouched in the rear seat of his automobile, which was filled with carbon monoxide gas fumes, the lifeless body of Robert H. Young, 32 years old, of Baltimore, was found in a woods near Ridgeville late yesterday afternoon by two hunters. The sportsmen noticed the car standing near the entrance of the woods, and upon investigation found that Young had attached one end of a rubber tube to the exhaust of his automobile, placed the other end in his mouth and turned on the engine. He had stuffed the cracks of the car.

Young left home early in the afternoon and drove to Ridgeville. At the latter place he turned off the State road and stopped about a mile on a side road. Two notes were found by his side. One read, "I love my family, but I can not stand it any longer." The second was written on the back of a photograph of his wife, and read, "May I meet you in heaven."

Justice Sherman P. Bowers, acting coroner, decided that Young had taken his life and deemed an inquest unnecessary. The family was notified and came to get the body.

V. F. W. Chief Hits U. S. Naval Policy

Tells Children There Will Certainly Be Another

Harrisonburg, Va., Nov. 11.—James E. Van Zandt, of Altoona, Pa., national chief of staff of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, in dedicating a flagpole as a World War memorial here today, decried the United States policy of scrapping its naval defenses and called upon citizens of the future to see that the country is better protected. "There certainly will be another war," he said. "The Bible says there always will be wars. We veterans hope that you boys and girls see to it that the defenses and training of the future are more adequate than we experienced in the World War."

Dedication of the flagpole on the war trophy plot at the Harrisonburg High School was the feature of the Armistice Day celebration here under the auspices of the Elon-Bowman post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, with Rockingham post of the American Legion cooperating. A parade preceded the exercises. The flagpole was a gift of the city school children in memory of World War service.

Capt. Edwin S. Bettelheim, national service officer of the V. F. W., praised the loyalty of Americans and called upon the children to carry on its high ideals in after life.

WILSON IS HONORED BY RITES AT TOMB

Bishop Freeman, Dr. Taylor Officiate at Service in Cathedral.

HIGH IDEALS LAUDED

Woodrow Wilson was one of the great peacemakers of all time and a courageous prophet who gave his life and strength that a Christian conception of international relationships might be maintained among the peoples of the earth, the Right Rev. James E. Freeman, Episcopal Bishop of Washington, declared at the annual service of commemoration of President Wilson's tomb in Bethlehem Chapel yesterday afternoon.

Mrs. Woodrow Wilson, wife of the former President, and other members of his family and close associates were present at the service. Through coast to coast broadcasts over both the National Broadcasting Co. and the Columbia Broadcasting Co. net work of stations, the service was available to millions of unseen listeners.

The Rev. Dr. James H. Taylor, pastor of the Central Presbyterian Church, attended by Mr. Wilson, assisted Bishop Freeman in the service, reading special prayers.

Wreath Placed on Tomb.

A wreath of orchids and Ascension lilies was placed on the tomb by a vested choir boy at the opening of the service. The two clergymen and the choir stood at one side of the President's tomb flanked by a color guard from the George Washington Post of the American Legion.

Other floral tributes were placed on the tomb by Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, personal physician to President Wilson, on behalf of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation of New York; Col. John Thomas Taylor, of the American Legion, for that organization; the Rev. Dr. Henry A. Atkinson, general secretary of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the churches, and others.

That the world has not yet realized the high ideals of Woodrow Wilson was pointed out by Bishop Freeman. Secret diplomacy, he declared, would not bring about world peace, but he held that such a demand from those upon whom the stern burdens of war fell, the peoples of the nations, could bring it about.

Bishop Freeman also stated that while the United States must legislate for its own people, "our course must ever take cognizance of world interests."

In Charge of Committee.

The committee in charge of the arrangements for this special Armistice Day service of commemoration included Mrs. Kate Trenholm Abrams, chairman; Mrs. Blair Banister, Mrs. Huston Thompson, Mrs. H. E. B. Bryant and Maj. Oliver P. Newman.

Among the clergy in the procession were the Rev. Dr. G. Freeland Peter, canon and chancellor of Washington Cathedral; the Rev. Raymond P. Wolven, chaplain to Bishop Freeman and Canon of Washington Cathedral; the Rev. John W. Gummers, of the Cathedral staff of clergy; while a noted visitor who also appeared in the procession of choir and clergy was the Right Rev. Leonard Stanley Kempthorne, Bishop of Polynesia, who is in Washington en route to his see in the Fiji Islands from the Lambeth conference.

The Truth About Some Important Prisoners

Locked away in dark and sunless vaults are billions of imprisoned dollars. Their release is as necessary to the Nation's financial health as red corpuscles are to the human blood stream. Release these prisoners—put them to work for us and we will soon find that the true situation is not one of depression but of progress and industry.

At a luncheon of the Lions' Club about a month ago the president called upon several members to talk about their business. Almost without an exception these men said that their business was ahead of last year and still on the upgrade.

Our own business, in the face of all this talk about depression, is as good as last year and last year was the best we ever had. We worked a little harder, maybe, but the real reason for our continued good business is the recognized STABILITY OF WASHINGTON REAL ESTATE.

Bring out some of those imprisoned dollars—it is your patriotic duty. Spend them as you will—you are helping the country at large. Invest them in Washington Real Estate and you will be helping yourself and your children to a future independence.

STATE GETS BLAME FOR CHICAGO CRIME

COURT RULINGS ARE HIT

Cleveland, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The city government of Chicago was in possession tonight of a new ground of defense for its difficulties in fighting crime—the theory that its crime situation is due to the handicaps placed on its municipal activities by the limitations of Illinois law.

Blame was put on the State statutes today by Prof. A. R. Hatton, of Northwestern University, in an address here before the national conference on government, which was attended by municipal officials from many parts of the country. His subject was "Breaking the Bondage of the City to the State."

Prof. Hatton explained that in Illinois the cities can not choose their form of government and the limitations under which the municipal authorities work.

Chicago Voters Tied.

"The voters within Chicago are tied down and hampered by a system of government so limited that it is only by the greatest effort that the voters can improve their local government in any particular.

"It is almost impossible to achieve any permanent good results. Home rule undoubtedly would end the Chicago situation," the professor said.

"The impression has gone abroad," the professor added, "that Chicago has gone through a period of degradation and is in corrupt hands. Such, however, is not the case."

Assumption by State courts of control over utility matters under the police powers of the State "if continued will end home rule," Prof. Hatton warned.

Unless the State and Federal courts change their attitudes on utility questions, they will bring about a condition leading inevitably to public ownership of municipal utilities, he added.

State Control Threatened.

Not only city but State control of utilities as well is jeopardized by decisions of the Federal Supreme Court in the O'Fallon Railroad and Baltimore Street Railway cases, Prof. Hatton said.

"The O'Fallon case went far enough, we thought, when it was ruled that the reproduction value now must be considered as a factor in arriving at a rate base," he continued. "However, the Baltimore case resulted in a ruling, the State law notwithstanding, that the value of a franchise must be included in a valuation for a rate base."

SMOKE HOPED CLEW TO MISSING AIRMEN

Search Pilot Sights It On Dundas Island but Fog Prevents Landing.

HIS RETURN IS PLANNED

Vancouver, B. C., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Smoke sighted near the southeastern end of Dundas Island, north of Prince Rupert, B. C., led Ansel Eckmann, searching for Pilot Robin Renahan and two companions missing two weeks, to hope today it was a clew to Renahan's whereabouts.

Fog prevented Pilot Eckmann from landing to investigate, but he planned to return. The United States Coast Guard cutter Cygan also was to visit the island.

Two Pacific International planes, forced to return yesterday after starting for Prince George, B. C., took off at 11 a. m. for that point and arrived three hours later to join in the search for Renahan, and also Pilot E. J. A. Burke and two companions, missing in northern British Columbia a month.

The rescue planes were piloted by W. J. Burrows and Harry Blunt.

Word came from Ottawa that the department of national defense would not object to United States Navy planes crossing the border to enter the search, although no request for such permission had been received from the United States.

Under command of Flight Lieut. L. H. Phinney and Flying Officer C. R. Dunlap, two Royal Canadian air force planes were cruising the northern coastal waters.

Pilot R. I. Van der Byle, who reached Prince George Sunday night from Vancouver, was due at Atlin, B. C., today, where he will be joined by Pilot E. L. Washon.

Text of Hoover's Speech At Good Will Congress

The address of President Hoover before the Good Will Congress yesterday was as follows:

Upon this day all thoughts must turn to our heroic dead whose lives were given in defense of the liberties and ideals of our country. Their contribution to these priceless heritages was made without reservation; they gave the full measure of their intelligence and energy and enthusiasm, and life itself, forfeiting their portion of further happiness—all that we and our children might live on more safely, more happily, and more assured of the precious blessings of security and peace.

A solemn obligation lies upon us to press forward in our pursuit of those things for which they died. Our duty is to seek ever new and widening opportunities to insure the world against the horor and irretrievable wastage of war. Much has been done, but we must wage peace continuously, with the same energy as they waged war.

This year 1930 has been rendered notable in peace annals in the achievement of the London Naval Treaty. That has disposed of one of those major frictions among the great naval powers—that is, competition in naval construction—and it has made a sensible advance in the reduction of warships.

The promotion of peace and prevention of war, however, can not rest upon the accomplishments of any one year. The outlook for peace is happier than for half a century, yet we can not overlook the fact that nations in many ways are always potentially in conflict. There are not only the accumulated age-old controversies and ambitions which are alive with prejudice, emotion, and passion, but you may be assured that there will always be an uncessing crop of new controversies between nations.

Good Will From Contacts.

Every shift in power, every advance in communications, in trade and finance daily increases the points of contact of one nation with another. The diffusion of their citizens and their property abroad increasingly penetrates and overlaps into the four corners of the earth. The many inventions of these citizens, their ceaseless energies, bring an hourly grist to our foreign offices of contested right or grievance. It is true that many of these contacts make for understanding and good will; it is indeed of the first importance to peace that these happy influences be cultivated and that the unhappy ones be disposed of with justice and good will.

The Kellogg-Briand Pact, signed a little over two years ago to further safeguard against the dangers from these conflicts, has already become a powerful influence in international affairs. Several further states have adhered to it since last November, bringing the total number of nations up to 58 which have renounced war as an instrument of national policy and have agreed to settle conflicts of whatever nature by pacific means. Five other states have expressed an intention to adhere, which will bring the total to 63, a figure comprising all but two nations.

By the recognition of this fundamental principle of peace and from the moral restraint that the covenant itself presents, this agreement has become one of the most potent instruments for peace which the world has ever forged for itself.

There has been much discussion as to the desirability of some further extension of the pact so as to effect a double purpose of assuring methodical development of this machinery of peaceful settlement, and to insure at least the mobilization of world opinion against those who fail when strain comes. I do not say that some such further step may not some day come about.

Stimulating and Appealing.

Such a formula would be stimulative and would appeal to the dramatic sense of the world as a mark in the progress of peace. But less dramatic and possibly even more sure is the day-to-day strengthening and buttressing of the pact by extension from one nation to another of treaties which, in times of friction, assure resort to well-tried processes of competent negotiation, of conciliation and of arbitration.

And we can in our own relations record great advancement in these fundamental but less dramatic supports to the pact during the two years since its signature. Up to the signature of the pact our country was bound by arbitration treaties to seven other nations. It was bound to 26 nations by conciliation treaties, both bilateral and multilateral. Since that time we have completed treaties with 15 more countries, and in addition we have signed further arbitration and conciliation treaties with 45 nations, of which 26 have been ratified and the others are either before the Senate or in course of presentation to it.

By these treaties of arbitration we pledge ourselves to the acceptance of the judgment of a disinterested third party in all controversies of a justiciable character. By treaties of conciliation we pledge ourselves to submit all other types of controversy to negotiations or the mediation of commissions which embrace representatives of disinterested nations.

It is our purpose to develop in every way the use of arbitration and conciliation agreements in our relations with foreign nations.

Other nations of the world have likewise been engaged over years in the building up of the machinery for pacific settlement of controversies. There are hundreds of arbitration and conciliation treaties existing directly between them. Indeed the covenant of the League of Nations provides for arbitration and conciliation among 54 nations of the world.

It is my belief that the world will have become firmly interlocked with such agreements within a very few years, and that it will become an accepted principle of international law that disputes between nations which it has not been possible to determine through the ordinary channels of diplomacy shall in future be submitted to arbitration, or to international conciliation commissions.

In the development of methods of pacific settlement, a great hope lies in ever extending the body and principles of international law on which such settlements will be based. The World Court is now a strongly established institution among 45 nations as a continuing body, performing and facilitating justiciable determinations which can only be accomplished sporadically under special treaties of arbitration. Its permanence is assured and from it there is steadily growing a body of precedent, decisions and acceptance of law in the formulation of which we should have a part, not alone in our own interest but in advancement of peace.

Freedom of the Seas.

A year ago I made a suggestion of a practical contribution in settlement of an age-old controversy of freedom of the seas. I proposed that food supplies should be made immune from interference in time of war, and that the security of such supplies should be guaranteed by neutral transport and management. I proposed it not alone upon humane grounds but that the haunting fears of nations who must live from over the sea might be relaxed and the sacrifices which they make for naval strength might be lessened. Our food supplies are assured, and it is therefore from us a disinterested proposal. It would make for prevention as well as limitation of war.

We, as a Nation whose independence, liberties, and securities were born of war, can not contend that there never is or never will be righteous cause for war in the world. Nor can we assume that righteousness has so advanced in the world that we may yet have complete confidence in the full growth of pacific means or rest solely upon the processes of peace for defense.

With the progress the world has made in the installation of the methodical processes for the settlement of controversies, the larger problem emerges as to fidelity to agreement to use these methods. The thought and anxiety of the world is rightly directed to the question as to what the nations of the world will do in case of a failure to use them. It is useless for us to say that we have no interest in such events.

Basis of World's Advancement.

Since our experience in the World War no one will deny the dangers which foreign wars bring to our shores or the interest we must have in the peace of the world at large. But I do not hold that our obligation in these matters lies wholly on the basis of self-interest. It is upon its moral and spiritual strength that the advancement of the world must rest.

Our basis of cooperation to preserve peace among nations must be different from that of the other great nations of the world. The security of our geographic situation, our traditional freedom from entanglements in the involved diplomacy of Europe, and our disinterestedness enable us to give a different and in many ways a more effective service to peace.

The nations of Europe, bordered as they are by age-old dangers of which we in the Western Hemisphere have little appreciation, beset as they are by long-inherited fears, believe that they must subscribe to methods which in the last resort will use force to compel nations to abide by their agreements to settle controversies by pacific means. We, in our great state of safety and independence, should make no criticism of their conclusions which arise from their necessities.

But we believe that our contribution can best be made in these emergencies, when nations fail to keep their undertakings of pacific settlement of disputes, by our good offices and helpfulness free from any advance commitment or entanglement as to the character of our action.

Cooperation U. S. Plan.

The purpose of our Government is to cooperate with others, to use our friendly offices, and, short of any implication of the use of force, to use every friendly effort and all good will to maintain the peace of the world.

The war that ended on this day twelve years ago taught us one thing, if nothing else, and that is the blessing of peace. When we look back upon its splendid valor and heroism then displayed, when we remember the magnificent energies poured forth by young and old, when we recall the marvelous exercise of the greatest virtues that glorify the human race—unselfishness, self-sacrifice, cooperation, both by men and women—we are looking not upon qualities which war creates but rather upon the traits of the human race which war makes seem more vivid by contrast with its own horrors. These same qualities are exercised, but are unsung and unheralded, in times of peace. Those who died displaying them would have displayed them living, and would have wrought their fruits into the enduring fabric of our peaceful destiny. We can only pledge ourselves, in honor of their memory, to the task of making ever more unlikely that our youth hereafter shall be denied its opportunity to devote its idealism and its energies to the constructive arts of peace.

HOOVER BIDS U. S. LEAD PEACE DRIVE

Adherence to World Court Urged by President as Effective Means.

KELLOGG'S PACT LAUDED

Without overlooking the possibility of war in the future, President Hoover yesterday appealed to the people of the United States to consider the worth of friendly efforts on the part of this Nation to preserve peace in the world. As means to this end, he suggested American adherence to the World Court; an endeavor, by the people of the United States, to understand conditions affecting international relationships in Europe, and adoption of the role of peacemaker wherever possible.

President Hoover's second Armistice Day address was the feature of the three-day Goodwill Congress of the World Alliance for International Friendship through the Churches. It was delivered at the Washington Auditorium.

Mr. Hoover also reiterated his suggestion, made in his first Armistice Day address a year ago, that food ships be made immune from interference in time of war and that the security of food supplies be made certain by neutral transport and management.

Influence of Pact Cited.

The Kellogg-Briand treaty, he said, already has become a powerful influence in international affairs, and is one of the most potent instruments for peace which the world has ever forged. Further development of this pact, to assure mobilization of world opinion against those powers which fail to live up to its provisions, he said, "would be stimulative and would appeal to the dramatic sense of the world as a mark in the progress of peace.

The World War, President Hoover pointed out, taught the United States the danger of involvement in foreign affairs and brought home forcibly the interest this country must have in the peace of the world at large. In this respect, he continued, this Nation is fortunate in that its geographical security, freedom from entanglement in involved European diplomacy and its disinterestedness enable it to render a different, and, in many ways, more effective service to peace.

Difficulties of Nations Outlined.

"The nations of Europe," he said, "bordered as they are by age-old dangers of which we in the Western Hemisphere have little appreciation, beset as they are by long-inherited fears, believe they must subscribe to methods which in the last resort will use force to compel nations to abide by their agreements to settle controversies by pacific means. We, in our great state of safety and independence, should make no criticism of their conclusions which arise from their necessities.

"But we believe that our contribution can best be made in these emergencies, when nations fail to keep their undertakings of pacific settlements of disputes, by our good offices and helpfulness free from any advance commitment or entanglement as to the character of our action."

Unknown Soldier Honored.

Preceding the address, delegates to the good will congress journeyed to the Arlington Cemetery where they placed a wreath on the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier. The Rev. James I. Vance, of Nashville, Tenn., presided at this ceremony. A brief address was made by Prof. Parker T. Moon, of Columbia University.

After the speech by the President, there was luncheon at the Willard Hotel followed by round-table discussions. During the early afternoon, these centered around problems of world cooperation on issues affecting world peace. Later, interracial problems occupied the attention of the delegates.

Speaking of the World Court, Prof. Philip C. Jessup declared that the court issue is not dead, and that American adherence, upon the basis of the Root Protocol, would safeguard the interest of the United States. He traced the history of the court and its reception in this country. Other speakers carried forward the thought of attainment of peace through world cooperation, especially by reduction of armaments and through religious understanding.

Racial Issues Taken Up.

The late afternoon was devoted to discussion of interracial issues as they relate to problems of international import. In this regard, Mr. Chao-Chu Wu, Ambassador of China, declared that his country, because, 100 years ago it was devoted to peace and unprepared for war, was helpless before stronger enemies and "had to sign away rights which impinge upon her sovereignty."

Dr. Robert R. Moton, president of Tuskeegee College, Tuskeegee, Ala., also spoke during these discussions.

Last night, war and religion met on common ground in a survey of the road to peace. Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan and Dr. S. Parkes Cadman spoke from the same platform at a mass meeting of the congress.

The forces of peace," said Gen. O'Ryan, have failed in reaching their objective largely because they lack unity of command. They are in competition, he pointed out, with the forces of war, which are unified, under a single governing head, and aiming for the same result.

Another Obstacle Exists.

He said, further, that the nations of Europe find it difficult to understand why they should disarm when the United States hold itself aloof from the restraints of the World Court and the League of Nations. Another obstacle to world peace, Gen. O'Ryan indicated, is the divergence between the viewpoints of America and Europe.

Dr. Cadman declared that the Treaty of Versailles "is a chronic source of agitation and unrest." Under its terms, he said, there is little likelihood armaments will be reduced or national animosities cast aside. As the ultimate solution of the world peace problem he put forward the plan "to cultivate by moral suasion that immovable belief in peace which has yet to be imbedded in the popular mind."

The congress will end its sessions today.

2 SLAIN, 2 WOUNDED IN ATTACK ON FARM

Victims Shot by Intruders While Dining; Robbery Believed Motive.

ASSAILANTS GET AWAY

Boscobel, Wis., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Patrick Gorman, 65 years old, and his son, Paul, 18, who came to Wisconsin a week ago from Huron, S. Dak., were shot to death and Cornelius and Stephen Horrigan were wounded in an attack on the Horrigan farm today.

The slayers, three men and a woman, escaped in an automobile.

Gorman and his son were killed instantly. The Horrigan brothers were taken to a hospital.

The Horrigans and the Gormans were at dinner when the men and the woman entered the house. The men, who carried revolvers, asked permission to hunt on the Horrigan farm. Granted the privilege, the quartet ordered all four at the table to put up their hands.

Stephen Horrigan dashed for another room and the intruders fired. Both Gormans fell dead. Stephen Horrigan was wounded, but he reached another room, where he obtained a revolver. He then fired at the attackers.

The intruders fled after Cornelius Horrigan had been perhaps fatally shot. Robbery is held to have been the motive for the attack.

Captain Snorts in Disgust After Rescue From Vessel

For First Time in Half Century at Sea, Grizzled Old Salt Returns to Port Without His Ship; Says Some in Crew Were "Scared."

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Capt. John A. McIver snorted with disgust as he strode down the gangplank of the fruit liner Aztec today with nine men rescued with him from the disabled schooner Dunham Wheeler.

The captain and his crew were taken aboard the Aztec last Saturday while mountainous seas smashed the Dunham Wheeler to bits off Cape Canaveral on the Florida coast.

For 50 of his 69 years Capt. McIver had followed the sea and this was the first time he had returned to port without his ship. But the snort of disgust was even more pointedly directed at his crew by the grizzled old down Easter.

"There was no mutiny," he said. "I know how to handle my men. I've got something in there to take care of them with."

He opened a handbag and displayed a marlin spike.

"But some of them were scared, all right."

The Dunham Wheeler, a five-masted vessel and largest of American sailing ships, put out from Los Pedras, Venezuela, on October 23 with an $80,000 cargo of fertilizer. Smooth seas were encountered until last Friday, when a gale sprang up and high seas lashed the vessel.

The wind tore six sails from the mast. The sea was running too high to permit the crew to bend new canvas, so Capt. McIver anchored in 12 fathoms of water, hoping to ride out the blow.

But the pumps could not keep up with the leaks and the schooner, having no wireless, sent up flares. The steamer Upshur, her own engines disabled, could not come to the rescue, but she flashed an S O S and brought the Aztec to the Dunham Wheeler.

Capt. Puglestadt, of the Aztec, ordered oil pumped on the heavy sea and the schooner's crew went down lines to a lifeboat. Capt. McIver was the last to leave his ship. He wore no life preserver, and he can not swim.

"Swim!" he exclaimed. "What good is there in a sailor knowing how to swim? You'll get drowned sure if you go to sea and know how to swim. I got into that boat and I never even got wet."

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Marcus Daly, jr., son of one of the early West's most picturesque figures, is dead. FORMER U. S. SENATOR DU PONT DIES AFTER LENGTHY ILLNESS

ily active in the affairs of the E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co.

T. Coleman du Pont emerged after two years from retirement, into which he had gone at the age of 37, to achieve his greatest business and financial success.

Although a member of the famous Delaware family that has been accumulating wealth from its equally famous powder works since the beginning of the nineteenth century, he had nothing to do with the powder industry until after he had won success and fortune in other lines.

Educated as an engineer, Mr. du Pont when a young man was especially interested in coal mining and upon completing his course at Massachusetts Institute of Technology entered the employ of the Central Coal & Iron Co., at Central City, Ky. Eventually, he became president of the company.

In 1893 he turned to the steel industry as general manager of the Johnson Steel Co., at Johnstown, Pa.

Returns to Mining Industry.

When he severed his connections with the Johnson Steel Co., Mr. du Pont returned to the mining industry as president of various coal and iron companies in Kentucky. Having amassed what he regarded as a sufficient fortune when he reached his 37th birthday anniversary, he retired from active business and went to live at Wilmington, Del., the home of his ancestors and of the great du Pont powder industry.

Two years later upon the death of Eugene du Pont, who had been head of E. I. du Pont de Nemours & Co., his brother had decided to sell the property. It was then that T. Coleman du Pont was persuaded to come out of his retirement and assume the management of the company. The du Ponts at that time controlled several other companies similarly engaged.

These were consolidated into one company, which was called the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Powder Co., with Coleman du Pont as president and general manager. The business of the new organization grew apace, so fast, in fact, that in five years it was referred to as one of the leading "trusts" of the country.

The business attained such proportions that it attracted the attention of the United States Government, which in July, 1907, brought suit to dissolve the corporation on the ground that it was operating in violation of the Sherman antitrust law. A decree was issued ordering the dissolution of the so-called "trust" and by agreement with the Attorney General the business was divided into the E. I. du Pont de Nemours Co., the Hercules Powder Co., and the Atlas Powder Co.

After reorganizing the company, Mr. du Pont resigned the presidency in 1914 and accepted the chairmanship of the board of the Equitable Office Building Corporation.

Thomas Coleman du Pont, of the fifth generation of his family in the United States, was born December 11, 1863, at Louisville, Ky., the son of Antoine Bidermann and Ellen Susan Coleman du Pont. He was known generally as Coleman du Pont. The original member of the family in this country was Pierre Samuel du Pont, a French statesman and political economist, who landed at Newport, R. I., January 1, 1800. It was the latter's son, Eleuthere Irenee du Pont, who established the powder works near Wilmington in 1802. Alfred Victor du Pont, a son of Eleuthere, was Coleman's grandfather.

After his academic education at Urbana (Ohio) University and Chauncey Hall School, Boston, Coleman du Pont was graduated as a civil engineer at Massachusetts Institute of Technology in 1884. On January 17, 1889, he married his cousin, Miss Alice du Pont of Wilmington. They had two sons and three daughters.

GENERAL MOTORS MAINTAINS WAGES

Head of Corporation Says Cut Would Only Delay Prosperity's Return.

OPTIMISTIC ON FUTURE

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Announcing that the General Motors Corporation has maintained salaries and wages, President Alfred P. Sloan, jr., said today that a reduction in the wage scale would not only delay the return of more normal times but unnecessarily limit the future prosperity of the Nation.

In a letter to stockholders accompanying the nine months' earning statement, previously made public, Mr. Sloan said that in his opinion "it is important for industry to appreciate the fact that the country's prosperity is founded on a high wage scale."

"The broader the margin that exists between the daily wage and the necessities of life," he continued, "the more the individual has available to purchase additional products and enjoy profit by his leisure hours. This development of purchasing power creates wealth which, in turn, reacts and reacts throughout our whole industrial situation."

Summarizes Business Situation.

"General Motors has not reduced either salaries or wages, and it is my hope that no readjustment of that character will be necessary," he said. In evaluating the present position of General Motors weight must be given to the fact that "it recognizes as a major industrial purpose the importance of doing its part in maintaining purchasing power through periods of adversity."

Summarizing the business situation, Mr. Sloan said: "I feel that there is no occasion for losing faith in the principles and policies of the corporation; neither should we lose faith and confidence in each other, nor in our industrial leaders.

"On the contrary we individually should do the most we can to reduce the discomfort and suffering which follow all economic readjustments. Finally, we should discharge our responsibilities, whatever they may be, in such a manner that when the tide turns, and that is only a question of time, we shall be better able to enjoy and appreciate the bigger opportunities that have yet to come to us."

Sees Opportunity Presented.

Mr. Sloan emphasized the opportunity presented to industrial management to "inject into business a different type of thinking and a different appreciation of the problems that have existed for a number of years past."

Mr. Sloan explained that had not the corporation realized over a year ago that a different trend of industrial activity was developing and started then to readjust its operating policy in line with a different order of things, it would have been impossible to report as favorable an earnings position.

Mr. Sloan disclosed that the General Motors stockholders have increased 12,242, to 261,417 between August 16 and October 31, and viewed this growth "in a period of economic changes as an indication of increasing public confidence."

Detroit, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—William J. McAneeny, president and general manager of the Hudson Motor Car Co., said today that much of the current depression will be removed when the employment curve turns upward.

His statement followed announcement that 1,000 men had returned to work this week at the Hudson plant here, making a total of 2,500 men added to the pay roll within a week. Another 1,000 men will be rehired next Monday, he added.

Official and Tammany Man Called in Hearing

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A city official and a political leader were ordered today to appear as witnesses next Monday in the trial of Martin J. Healy, former deputy city commissioner and Tammany lieutenant, on charges of office selling. The special grand jury investigating alleged bribery in connection with the appointment of former Magistrate Ewald heard ten witnesses today. It was indicated that tomorrow's star witness would be Mayor Walker.

Subpenas were handed to Charles S. Hand, the mayor's former secretary, and John Mara, a Tammany leader, to testify at the Healy trial.

Policemen's Time Lost On Texas Guinan Writs

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Several uniformed policemen, who hung around Texas Guinan's Club for eight nights until 5 a. m. in order to hand summonses to the manager, were just wasting their time, it developed today.

The summonses charged the management with violating the curfew law and operating a cabaret without a license.

Magistrate H. Stanley Renaud dismissed all eight of them today on the ground that La Guinan's place is a private club and therefore not compelled to operate under a license nor close at 3 a. m.

15,000 Jobless In City Claimed

Labor Union Chairman Adds 10,000 to List First Reported.

An army of unemployed totaling not less than 15,000 in Washington was estimated yesterday by R. A. Dickson, chairman of the executive committee of the Central Labor Union, in refuting the claim in published reports that the jobless here aggregated only about 5,000 persons.

"Had the true facts of the unemployment situation in the city been investigated, it would have been immediately ascertained that among the union building tradesmen alone there are a great number more than 5,000 unemployed," declared Mr. Dickson.

"The number of people unemployed that are not affiliated with a labor union can be ascertained by making a house-to-house canvass or have every person unemployed notify some bureau. I do not believe either of these courses were followed. Had this been done, I certainly believe it would have been found that there are double the amount of people unemployed that are not affiliated with a labor union. This in itself would bring the figure to 15,000 and over."

Smith Directs Relief For Idle in New York

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Former Gov. Alfred E. Smith today assumed his duties as chairman of the welfare council's coordinating committee on unemployment.

Mr. Smith received a telegram from Col. Arthur Woods, chairman of the President's emergency committee, congratulating him on organization of the committee here. Mr. Woods said development of an adequate New York program would have great influence throughout the country.

GOVERNMENT FUNDS TO FEED IDLE URGED

McNary added. "We have justly been trying to take care of the farmers. We have precedents in the relief we have extended to foreign nations and to the people in the various States who have suffered from the drought and unseasonable conditions."

Legislators believe that unemployment, with a variety of suggestions for immediate and permanent relief, will be the first subject to engage the attention of Congress. Reports from eleven widespread communities brought the President's committee a picture of local leaders handling their own situations.

President Hoover called both Woods and Secretary Lamont to the White House, conferring with them simultaneously. He is expected to go into the unemployment problem in his message to Congress.

A new estimate of unemployment, revising the April census count of 2,500,000, was given to Woods and Lamont yesterday, but an error was discovered in it, necessitating a recheck. Woods said he would announce the figures later.

Senator Wagner (Democrat), of New York, author of unemployment bills now before Congress, gave notice he would introduce a resolution proposing investigation of the feasibility of unemployment insurance.

A heartening condition observed by Chairman Woods was the sensitivity of the people to the situation.

"There is this striking difference between now and 1921," Woods said. "I notice, right along, there has been a realization that public works must be speeded, and there has been an effort by communities to take care of their own people."

SCHOOLS WILL TAKE CENSUS OF JOBLESS

Registration Will Be Made Saturday Morning, Ballou Says.

URGE BUILDING PROJECTS

Public schools of the District will be open from 9 o'clock until noon on Saturday to take a census of residents of the District of Columbia out of employment, it was announced yesterday by Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou.

School officials have arranged to have the schools open for this purpose in response to a request of Frederick A. Delano, chairman of the Commissioners' committee on unemployment. The commission has announced that every man and woman desiring to register for employment should go to the nearest schoolhouse in the District.

Principals of junior and senior high schools and supervising principals have been asked by Superintendent Ballou to make all necessary arrangements for the census. Supervising principals will decide today whether to keep open all elementary schools. This may not be necessary, as a registration place in a given area may be supplied through a junior or senior high school.

Will List Registration Places.

A list of the schools where the unemployed may register will be released today or tomorrow. Teachers and school officers are being asked to volunteer their services Saturday morning so that they may be assigned to various schools.

With the view of speeding up the school construction program to help relieve unemployment, school officials yesterday prepared a list of fourteen school building projects now pending which will be sent to the District Commissioners. The School Board voted at a recent meeting to ask the Commissioners to expedite construction of school projects.

Projects Under Way.

The projects and the approximate date of their completion are: Gordon Junior High addition, February 1, 1932; Powell Junior High addition, February 1, 1932; Stuart Junior High addition, February 1, 1932; Hugh M. Brown Junior High School, in the Northeast, February 1, 1932; Roosevelt High School, August 1, 1932; Congress Heights addition, September 1, 1931.

The approximate date of completion of the remainder of the list is September 1, 1931: Young Platoon School, Northeast; Deanwood addition, Whittier addition, Broad Branch Road, Wesley Heights school, to be named the Horace Mann; Crosby Noyes School, at Tenth and Franklin streets northeast; the Anthony Bowen School addition and the Western High School athletic field.

Smith was found guilty of fatally shooting Mrs. Maggie Smith October 20. He was said to have been intoxicated at the time of the slaying.

Twenty-five national guardsmen were sent here yesterday from Glasgow by Gov. Sampson on a request of Circuit Judge J. C. Carter. Even Akin, jailer, had informed the judge threats had been made to lynch Smith in event he was acquitted. There was no demonstration when the jury brought in its verdict today.

Just one of those twists of life—here was a man losing friends, failing to advance and indifferent toward the world—just slipping day by day.

WHY the change? This man reasoned that it must be his general health condition. So he started taking S.S.S. tonic regularly—he began to feel better, and after a short time everything began to look brighter—the old time enthusiasm for work took hold—doubt and suspicion faded out—faith in himself was restored. GRAFT QUIZ TO CALL POSTOFFICE CHIEF Brown to Be Subpoenaed in Inquiry Into Sale of Offices in Georgia.

POLITICIAN IS HELD

Atlanta, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—United States Attorney Clint W. Hager announced today that Postmaster General Walter F. Brown will be subpoenaed to testify in Federal court here when John B. Dove is brought to trial on charges of soliciting funds on promise to secure Federal offices for the donors.

The announcement was made after C. E. Westbrook had sworn out a Federal warrant charging Dove with promising to obtain for him the post of internal collector here, upon receipt of $1,000.

Before filing the criminal charge, Westbrook had instituted a civil suit against Dove, asking return of $975 of the $1,000 he said he paid for the office, and an additional $2,575 for damages and attorneys fees.

Already Under Indictment.

A Federal grand Jury yesterday indicted Dove on 13 counts for accepting $500 for an offer to obtain for Ernest Berry Denson the postmastership at College Park, an Atlanta suburb.

District Attorney Hager said he expected an early trial of the cases, but said the subpoena for Postmaster General Brown would be forwarded to Washington for service at the cabinet minister's convenience.

In the civil court action Westbrook charged that Dove told him his standing with the administration was such as to give him the privilege of recommending the internal revenue collector here.

In a statement published by the Constitution here today Dove described himself as a "former member of the executive committee of the J. W. Arnold Republican faction in Georgia." In the statement as published the assertion was made that Dove accepted the $500 alleged to have been given for the College Park postmastership, and that he turned it over in Washington to "a representative of the Postmaster General" to be used for the Republican national committee.

The statement said "this is no news to the administration at Washington."

Refund Attempt Alleged.

"Mr. Benson and I have been trying to get this money back for more than a year," the statement continued.

"The "Mr. Benson" referred to is John Park Benson, alleged to have made the $500 payment for the College Park potmastership for his son, Ernest.

"I wrote James Francis Burke, attorney for the national committee, about it," the statement went on. • • • "This is a premeditated scheme that Rose's faction may still continue to collect funds."

Josiah T. Rose is collector of internal revenue here, and is head of one of the Republican factions in the State.

ROBSION'S LOSS GAIN FOR FARE CUT FIGHT

Failure to Pass Street Car Reduction for Pupils Was Laid to His Opposition.

TWO-CENT RATE WANTED

Defeat of Senator Robsion (Republican), of Kentucky, for both the short and long terms in the Senate from that State, may mean enactment of the law providing for the payment of a 2-cent car fare by school children.

Senator Robsion will not be one of the "lame ducks" in the forthcoming session. His recent defeat at the polls was complete.

The importance of his defeat, so far as the 2-cent car fare bill is concerned, is due to the fact that it was his opposition to which was attributed failure of action on the proposal at the last session.

John J. Noonan, who is independently wealthy but who has conceived it to be his duty to fight for the children of the city, has been the principal sponsor of the 2-cent fare bill. He fought for the measure for several years, but Senator Robsion defeated his efforts in the last Congress.

Enactment of the 2-cent car fare bill is of little importance to the street car companies, if the statements of their executives before a Public Utilities Commission are to be taken for their surface worth.

Both the Capital Traction and the Washington Railway & Electric Co. have been put on record by their presidents as willing to accept the reduced car fare for school children, but they warned the commission that they would hold it responsible for untoward decreases in their revenues.

GIRL IS KIDNAPED BY MASKED BANDIT

had, the $7, and directed, "Now walk away."

The girl started to get out of the car as the masked man got into the driver's seat, but he ordered her to remain where she was. He started the car and as he drove away Luisi heard the girl scream.

Earlier in the night a man described as the same 6-footer had robbed another man whom he found in a parked automobile with a girl. The man, whose name was not revealed by police, said he finally prevented the abduction of his fiancee after the robber had started to drive off with her.

The man said the robber yielded to his pleadings and drove off with the car after robbing him of a small sum of money. The car was found by police a few blocks from the place where Luigi and his girl had parked.

The police scoured the neighborhood in vain for Luigi's car or a trace of the girl. They said descriptions of the bandit did not tally with the reported appearance of the "3-X" slayer.

"We do not want another war," declared the Prince amid a storm of cheering. "We must not even contemplate one and, above all, we must

ELIMINATION OF OIL WASTE ADVOCATED

Donovan Tells Petroleum Institute He Believed Curtailmen Legal.

URGES EARLY ACTION

Chicago, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Former Assistant Attorney General William J. Donovan today said he did not believe thhe antitrust law would obstruct the proposed agreement of producers to limit oil production.

Although he cautioned that he did not undertake to anticipate the decision of the Attorney General, Col. Donovan told executives at the annual meeting of the American Petroleum Institute that they should not hesitate to go to the Government with a curtailment plan.

An agreement to maintain a stable condition to overcome business disasters and depressions which come from overproduction, Col. Donovan said, could be made a "very persuasive argument" before a court, and he added that it would seem to be in the public interest to maintain a stable production which would prevent the needless waste of an essential national resource.

Concerning the institute curtailment plan which was submitted to Government authorities last year, Col. Donovan said the oil men should not consider the Attorney General's opinion an absolute rejection of thier plan.

As he read the opinion, Col. Donovan said, the Attorney General had merely ruled that he had no power to grant immunity from the antitrust laws, but he did not register an opinion as to the legality of the proposal.

Overproduction was attacked from another angle by the institute's president, E. B. Reeser, of Tulsa, who reminded his fellow oil executives that the simply stated rule which every man who is both an oil and a business man should follow is "to produce no more crude nor refine any more products than he can currently sell at a profit."

MEXICO CITY FALL KILLS U. S. ATTACHE

Second Secretary of Embassy, Edward P. Lowry Served in World War.

HIS WIFE IS NOTIFIED

Mexico City, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Safely through flying knives and zipping bullets slipped Edward P. Lowry, soldier of fortune and second secretary of the American Embassy here, but today he died in a prosaic fall following a meeting of good fellowship.

As a veteran of much warfare Lowry attended an Armistice Eve meeting of the American Legion last night, bantering and making merry with others who were dodging high explosives twelve years ago.

Early this morning he left, and as he was going out leaned over a banister to speak to a friend in the patio below. He slipped, falling 30 feet to the mable floor and dying instantly.

Tonight the body lay in a funeral chapel here pending the arrival tomorrow of Mrs. Lowry by airplane from Brownsville. She was located at Baton Rouge while on her way to Mexico City.

The funeral will be Thursday, but the place for burial has not been decided Mass will be said at the Church of the Holy Family at 9 o'clock tomorrow morning, probably by Archbishop Diaz, who was a personal friend of the diplomatic officer. The Mexican government probably will take charge of the funeral.

The archbishop, many diplomats, government officials and American residents called today at the embassy to express their condolences.

Lowry entered the consulare service at Havana in 1921, giving his home as Lancaster, Wis. Shortly afterward he came here, and after seven years of consular service was transferred to the diplomatic service as third secretary at the embassy here! n 1928. Six months later he was raised to second secretary.

Prior to this he had served ten years in the United States Army, rising from private to major; as a major in the Persian Gendarmerie, and as a colonel in the Lithuanian Army, following the World War, in which he had served under the American flag for fourteen months.

NO ENTANGLEMENTS.

In his general observations concerning America's desire to "wage peace" by persistent search of means for preventing war, President Hoover voices the united wishes of his countrymen. In his reiteration of the fact that the United States occupies a unique position, and that its basis of cooperation to preserve peace must be different from that of other great nations, he performs a public service. The unique nature of the United States Government makes it impracticable, if not impossible, for this country to enter into alliances for any purpose. No alliance has ever been made since the Constitution was formed.

In cooperating with other nations in the effort to make world peace permanent the United States must walk warily. It could encourage misunderstanding, injustice and war by making mistakes in international engagements which might appear on their face to be innocuous. When it is borne in mind that the majority of nations still believe in military alliances, with war as the ultimate policy, the danger of committing the United States to unwise agreements becomes more apparent. Mr. Hoover alludes to the European conception of war as a means of compelling nations to keep the peace:

> The nations of Europe, bordered as they are by age-old dangers of which we in the Western Hemisphere have little appreciation, beset as they are by long-inherited fears, believe that they must subscribe to methods which in the last resort will use force to compel nations to abide by their agreements to settle controversies by pacific means.

A moment's consideration ought to convince any American that the United States can never subscribe to these methods. If this country should agree to act with others to punish a war-making nation, it would be compelled to accept the verdict of other nations as to the identity of the aggressor. The nations rendering this verdict might be secretly leagued together to destroy another. The alleged "aggressor" might prove to be a people striking for their independence, as the Americans struck in 1776. What a spectacle it would be to see the United States bound hand and foot by an engagement to make war against a people struggling for their independence against tyranny and oppression!

There are peoples approaching the point where they are ready "to assume among the powers of the earth the separate and equal station to which the laws of nature and of nature's God entitle them." No treaty binding the nations to punish an aggressor should stand in the way of this natural right, and the people of the United States will never agree to sign such a treaty. Mr. Hoover rightly reminds the country that there can be righteous wars; and a treaty to suppress such a war would be a crime against humanity.

The United States must remain its own sole judge as to the nature of war waged by others; to decide for itself whether its interests are involved; and to be free from prior commitments as to belligerency or neutrality.

The object of European powers in asking the United States to agree to "put teeth" in the Kellogg pact is to array the United States on their side in advance of war. Some of these powers are holding inchoate republics in subjection. Syria is admitted by the League of Nations covenant to be practically ready for independence; but if Syria should begin a war of independence, and should obtain help from a strong friend, as the United States obtained help from France in the Revolution, the United States under the proposed treaty would be compelled to strike down Syria and engage in war against its ally. The proposal to "put teeth" in the Kellogg pact, in short, is a proposal to commit the United States to go to war, possibly against a people struggling for independence.

George Washington's solemn warning against becoming involved in foreign politics more aptly applies to today's situation than it did to his own time.

MUSCLE SHOALS SOCIALISM.

Insurgency's most popular bugaboo, the power trust, has been revived while the assembly of Congress is still nearly a month off. Crusaders are pretending to read into the recent election a mandate of the people to crush the monster. The first blow is to be struck by reviving the Norris bill for Government operation of Muscle Shoals.

Senator McNary, chairman of the committee on agriculture, has given notice that he will call the conferees on the Norris bill together and attempt to break the deadlock which developed during the last session. Apparently the Senate conferees will use high pressure methods to convince the House conferees that they have ignored the will of the people. They will point to the reelection of Senator Norris, advocate of socialistic measures, and to the defeat of Representative Reece, who sponsored the measure to make use of Muscle Shoals without putting the Government into business. But the House may be expected to stand by its guns, and pay no attention to the views of cliques in Nebraska and Tennessee on a subject that affects the interests of the entire country.

Suppose all the people of both these illustrious States were in favor of putting the Government into competition with its own citizens? That would be an absurd conclusion from the results of the election, but it would be still more preposterous to attempt to force the United States into a socialistic venture to satisfy the selfish whims of a faction.

Muscle Shoals itself is not the crux of the issue. To allow a costly plant to remain idle while men are in need of work and the country is in need of the products it could manufacture is a stigma upon any government. But there is a bigger question involved—that of the Government engaging in business. Advocates of the Norris plan are using Muscle Shoals in an effort to socialize the power industry. It appears that they will try to take advantage of the bogus power issue and unemployment to foist their quackery upon the country.

There has been no change in sentiment so far as Muscle Shoals is concerned. The American people are unalterably opposed to competition from the Government in business. President Hoover may be expected to veto any piece of legislation that is sent to the White House with that end in view. And there is no hope of getting such legislation through Congress by a two-thirds majority.

DESTROYING DISTANCE.

Capt. Frank Hawks had little more than returned to New York from his record-breaking flight to and from Havana than Capt. Roy Ammel set his plane down on France Field in Panama in the first nonstop flight from New York to the Isthmus. Capt. Hawks cruised down to Havana, a distance of 1,400 miles, in 8 hours and 41 minutes flying time, and came back in 8 hours and 3 minutes flying time. Capt. Ammel covered the 2,189 miles between New York and Panama in 24 hours and 35 minutes.

Flights such as these point the future of the airplane. Traffic between the United States and Cuba and between the United States and Panama is heavy despite the fact that to those pressed for time the distance of these countries from centers of population makes them to all intents and purposes inaccessible. But the airplane destroys distance. It is the agency that will open up vast new areas to hurried humankind.

Capt. Hawks and Ammel are good pilots. The former has been much in the public eye of late. Wherever he goes in his Whirlwind-Travelair he seems to break a record. Capt. Ammel, by virtue of his Panama flight, joins the list of air notables.

TO BAR OUT RED IMPORTS.

Senator Oddie, of Nevada, has announced that he will introduce a bill at the coming session of Congress to prohibit the importation of goods into the United States from Soviet Russia. In view of the growing seriousness of this problem it may come to a climax during the short session of Congress.

The Soviets' program of underselling goods of capitalistic countries is a subtle method of making war. The American manganese industry, which is highly important from the standpoint of national defense, has been virtually ruined by Russian imports. Lumber and pulpwood are allowed to enter into competition with American products in spite of strong evidence that the Russian materials are produced by convict labor. Reports of the Department of Commerce show that sausage casing, matches, glue and gelatin are also coming into this country at prices calculated to demoralize the market.

American trade is further affected by the dumping of cheap Russian substitutes in foreign countries. Canned and rubber goods from American factories are being undersold in Europe. Agricultural implements and sewing machines are being turned out for export by factories confiscated from American companies by the Communists.

To make export dumping possible the Soviet dictatorship has impoverished and enslaved the entire working class. The peasants are coached in the belief that when they have destroyed capitalism the millennium will be just around the corner. The Russian people are being exploited in a scheme to upset the world's economic structure during the current depression.

Most of the European countries have already taken steps to protect their industries from Soviet vandalism. They were forced into action because the Communist regime was dumping upon their markets many times the volume of goods that it was buying in return. These nations have recognized the Soviet Government, and the bolshevists no longer feel constrained to bribe them with orders. The United States does not recognize the right of Stalin, his henchmen, spies and executioners, to enslave the Russian people. Therefore this country is "favored" with orders for machinery to install in Soviet factories, so that they will be able to turn out cheap products and ruin the American market.

American producers must be protected against the Soviet wrecking organization. The value of temporary trade with an avowed enemy is negligible in comparison with the damage that may be done to American industry. The Communist regime has forfeited the right to any consideration by civilized nations. Every country ought to close its ports to both the underpriced goods and the Communist propaganda emanating from Russia.

STAND BY THE RED CROSS.

The crimson emblem of the American Red Cross that is now displayed calls to mind pictures of disaster and distress, of refugees huddled in the shadow of crumbling levees, of pale victims stretcher-borne from an explosion-wrecked interior, of a community laid waste by a tornado or an earthquake, for it is in surroundings such as these that the emblem of the Red Cross assumes its largest significance and it is with disaster that the emblem has come to be most intimately associated. But the Red Cross is more than an administrator of disaster relief. Day after day its representatives prosecute prosaic tasks, ministering to the needs of former service men and their destitute families, training volunteers in the principles of home hygiene, nutrition and sick-room care, producing bandages, surgical dressings and clothing, and building up a corps of trained first-aid workers. The Red Cross is continuously at work in the service of the unfortunate and the distressed.

The thirteenth annual roll call of the Red Cross is under way. The official relief organization of the Government now asks the people of America to provide it with funds so that it may carry forward its work during the coming year. This year of all years it is necessary that the response to the call be generous. Distress threatens to stalk the land this winter; the Red Cross will be called upon to render larger service than in normal time for the relief of unemployment and drought victims.

Last year the local chapter of the Red Cross, besides rendering disaster relief, assisted 1,232 veterans and their families with food, clothing, fuel, rent and furniture. It awarded 250 certificates in life saving and 286 in first aid. Its nurses rendered service during parades and public gatherings. Its production group turned out almost 6,000 garments and 75,000 surgical dressings, shellacking 112,000 pages and transcribing almost 6,500 pages of Braille print for the blind. Its motor corps transported veterans and others almost 16,000 miles. This work was made possible by funds contributed in last year's roll call. Only 50 cents of each contribution is transmitted to the national society; the balance is retained by the home chapter for its local needs.

Last year 29,482 Washingtonians joined the Red Cross. This year the Washington quota is 40,000 members. In a city with 305,000 adult population this is a conservative quota. President Hoover says: "The Red Cross is today the expression of the national will, the national sympathy, for all those overtaken by catastrophe of storm, of flood, of famine. Its call to charity is mandatory on the heart of the Nation." Washington will respond to the roll call, not as a duty, but as a privilege.

THE STAY-AT-HOMES

From the New York Times.

After an election it is customary to speak of what the voters did at the polls. An examination of the results last week in seven important States confers the responsibility for the success of candidates more upon those who stayed away from the polls. They, it would seem, had more to do with the downfall of Republicans and the success of Democrats than their fellow-citizens who did the balloting.

A study of the voting statistics at hand, contrasted with those of 1928, shows not only changes in party allegiance. Allowing for the natural shrinkage from the vote in a presidential year, still the difference is unusual. New York, for example, cast 2,893,671 votes in the presidential election of 1920, when women first exercised the right of suffrage. Two years later 2,525,718 went to the polls to choose between Alfred E. Smith and Gov. Nathan Miller. In 1928 the number of New Yorkers who went out to vote for Roosevelt or Ottinger, was 4,234,822. Last week only 2,813,293 troubled to decide between Roosevelt and Tuttle. And while there were about 370,000 less Democratic ballots cast than in 1928, the Republican falling off was something over 1,000,000. Whenever the Republicans suffered their misfortunes last Tuesday the story is the same. They were deserted by the stay-at-homes; and the figures don't prove that the States they lost will necessarily be Democratic next time.

To illustrate conspicuously what happened, Connecticut, Illinois, Kentucky, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York and Ohio have been selected. State-wide contests in these States in 1930 were carried by Democrats, save in New Jersey. Roughly, the Democratic total in these States was 5,751,039 as against a Republican total of 4,136,819. Two years ago the Democratic standard-bearers on the State tickets polled 6,320,367; the Republicans, 7,209,653.

What a falling-off was there for the Republican candidates — 3,072,834, approximately—in two years! The difference downward in the Democratic total was, also approximately, 568,428. In the seven States over 3,600,000 voters who had made choices in State-wide races in 1928 did not vote in 1930 at all. And this, despite the fact that to a crop of new voters is ascribed by the observers much of the revolt against dry candidates. In Kentucky, which had no State election in 1928, the figures for 1928 for United States senator have been compared with those for the same office in 1930. The effect of this is only to reduce the actual number of absentees this year in the seven States.

In the wake of a golden sunset and a warning breath of winter enters by unwary windows and forgotten doors,
It is an excellent idea to postpone a little longer the first serious struggle with the furnace and heap an armful of logs and kindling into an open fireplace.

RUSSIAN NEWS.

Complaints are sometimes made that so many British newspapers do not maintain accredited correspondents in Moscow. But in Russia today there is no place for a responsible correspondent of an independent newspaper, says the London Times. When the Times sends a correspondent to Russia it will be to supply its readers with honest and unbiased information, and such information can clearly be neither gathered nor telegraphed by a correspondent working under an arbitrary censorship and an all-pervading system of espionage. There is no discrimination in this matter, as is sometimes supposed, between Russia and the rest of the world. If similar conditions were ever to prevail in Italy, for instance, or in Turkey, the correspondent of the Times would instantly be withdrawn, as correspondents have sometimes been withdrawn from foreign countries in the past. It is not the least significant indictment of the present regime in Russia that its leaders are afraid to let the world know the truth.

JUST FOLKS

SMART.

They used to think him rather dull and surely very slow,
He never went to places when his purse was running low.
He never purchased costly things for which he couldn't pay
good old-fashioned way.

The clever boys around him played the market and went broke.
They sneered at codes of honor and thought decency a joke.
They tried short cuts to fortune; tore their marriage vows apart
And the crazier the notion was the more they thought it smart.

He raised his little family and owned his house and lot.
He never had to wonder would he eat or would he not.
He lived untouched by scandal; went to work from day to day,
And was content to prosper in the good old-fashioned way.

As time went on the clever boys were scattered far and wide.
Some found they couldn't make ends meet no matter how they tried.
And most of them admit it now—
since pride has had its fall—
The lad who stuck to decency was smartest of them all.

There May Be a Worm in a Ripe Peach, But It Isn't the Worm That Ripens It.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

WHILE the great war was in progress a certain small-town man made a small fortune by imposing on the confidence of a miller. The price of flour was advancing rapidly. The man didn't want any flour at any price, but he ordered many carloads, for delivery some weeks later, and when the delivery date arrived he completed the transaction by accepting the miller's check for the amount of his profit and left the flour where it was.

When the Government took a hand and the price of flour dropped the man found himself obligated to accept a great quantity at a price considerably above its value on the date of shipment. He didn't accept it, however, nor did he accept his loss. He placed his property in his wife's name and invited the miller to bring suit.

Do you think transactions of that nature, whether the loser pays or defaults, are essential to the prosperity of the United States?

Wall street brokers say they are.

When the stock market was established its sole purpose was to afford a market for stocks—for shares of incorporated business. Brokers were agents who bought and sold stocks for customers and charged a commission for their service. They bought and sold actual stock—not moonshine.

That was necessary, legitimate, honorable.

After a time these brokers and other men with money began to gamble with stocks—selling stock they didn't have in the hope of buying it at a lower figure when called on to deliver it—buying stock they didn't want, in hope of taking a profit instead of the stock when the price went higher.

Nobody in the hinterland knew or cared much about it, for stocks were owned only by rich men. The brokers gambled with one another. It was a case of dog eat dog and nobody else was greatly disturbed.

But now every great industry in America has thousands of shareholders. American Telephone & Telegraph, for example, greatest of all businesses, has 500,000 shareholders who have an average of 30 shares each, and no one person owns more than seven-tenths of 1 per cent of the stock.

The savings of the millions are in stocks. To gamble in stocks is to gamble with the property of the millions.

There must be a stock market where stocks can be bought and sold, but gambling in stocks—buying and selling imaginary stocks on margin without intention to deliver or accept actual stock—is no more essential to America's prosperity than poker is.

If that is true, and you know it is true, why jeopardize the savings of millions merely to make gambling easier and fatten the commissions of brokers?

Modification—Just Talk.

Houston Post-Dispatch.

Predicting what President Hoover will do has fallen into the same category with predicting Texas weather. However, he has not yet withdrawn or modified his characterization of prohibiton as a noble experment, and at least until he has done so it seems hardly reasonable to anticipate his recommendation that the Volstead law be withdrawn or modified. And even if he should so recommend, that doesn't mean it would be done by a jugful.

It looks as though the country will go on talking and arguing about prohibition for another two years at least, and probably longer. And by the time it does come to a real showdown, the wet and dry wings of the two major parties may have swapped sides; or else maybe a third prohibition party of formidable strength will have developed.

Compromise, Insurgent Style.

New York Times.

The conservatives of the East and the insurgents of the West are to be reconciled. This is a simpler task than it looks. As the insurgents won't yield and don't care a rap for concord, the only "compromise" that can be arranged is the unconditional surrender of the Old Guard and the East. On power, farm relief, the flexible provisions of the tariff, the tariff itself, on almost all public questions, the insurgents, except Senator Borah, can be "placated" by letting them have their own way. If the La Follette serum is a medicine which the conservative Republicans will not take, then so far as other than noncontentious matters are concerned there can be little or no agreement on legislation. Each wing will flap separately. Consonance and restoration must be sought at their source, among the voters.

On the eve of election the Arkansas City Traveler made elaborate predictions of the outcome nationally in many States and in Kansas, and hit it very well except at home. Truce Is Only a Promise.

Wall Street Journal.

If the adjournment of politics is still only a promise and not a thing accomplished, there is more than one reason for hopefulness. One of the newly elected Democratic senators (Bankhead, of Alabama) takes this refreshingly sane and sound position:

"I am opposed to securing the organization of the Senate by any understanding with any others than Democrats on a legislative program."

That is, Senator Bankhead rejects the idea of allying his party with insurgent Republicans on the basis of a division of the spoils. It is a fair inference that he will resist another coalition with senators of so profound a misunderstanding of the country's affairs as that just proclaimed (again) by Senator Brookhart.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Census Bureau Chief Discusses Factors Entering Into Comparison of Present Wages With Those Paid Before Age of Machinery.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Your editorial of November 9, entitled "Cause of the Crash," is an interesting one; but in making the comparison between conditions in 1849 and in 1929 you failed, in my judgment, to give proper weight to one important factor, and entirely overlooked another. The first of these is the enormous increase in the mechanization of industry which has taken place during the past 80 years. The manufacturer of today has a heavier investment in equipment—much heavier in comparison with the value of his output—than that of his predecessor in 1849. This means that the proportion of his receipts which must be used to pay interest on investment in plant and equipment is considerably larger, and that the proportion properly chargeable to wages is correspondingly smaller. This factor you mentioned casually, but it is really an important one.

Secondly, as to salaries. The total expenditure for wages in 1929 was $11,271,016,618. The expenditure for salaries in 1929 has not yet been determined, but it may be estimated, using the 1927 figures as a basis, at about $3,350,000,000. The addition of this estimate to the wage item gives a total of $14,621,000,000, which is equal to 21.4 per cent of the value of products. The difference between this percentage and the corresponding one for 1849 (23.2), is no more than might reasonably be expected considering the increased mechanization of industry.

It should be explained that the questionnaire used in taking the census for 1849 called for data on the average number of "hands" employed and the amount paid to such employes. Instructions accompanying it directed the manufacturer to report the "average number of each sex employed during the year in the manufacturing business." No provision was made for separate report of the number of salaried employes and the amount of their salaries, as distinguished from the number of wage earners and the amount of their wages; but it is likely that most manufacturers reported all their employes as "hands" and included salaries with wages, while a few may have omitted any data for salaried employes and salaries. The number of salaried employes as distinguished from wage earners was relatively much smaller 80 years ago than it is now.

A comparison between the total wages paid as reported for 1849 and the combined amount of salaries and wages as reported for any recent census year would be much more reasonable than one based on wages alone. The comparableness of the 1849 figures with those for recent years is also affected by the fact that the earlier figures include data for various hand trades and neighborhood industries, such as blacksmithing, carpentering, dressmaking, &c., whereas the recent manufactures-census figures do not include data for such lines of activity.

I refrain from expressing any opinion, either official or personal, in regard to whether the wage earner of the present day is receiving his fair share of the value created by his labor. I merely call attention to the fact that the census figures do not afford an adequate basis—or, indeed, any basis—for the claim that the wage earner of 1929 is underpaid as compared with his predecessor of 1849.

Lawyer Kissenger Expresses a Few Novel Thoughts as to Prohibition in a "Mongrel" Nation.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: While I do not hold a brief for the drys, being somewhat moist myself, I am prompted to believe the Methodist Board of Temperance is correct in its surmise that the fate of the Hoover administration depends to a great extent on the success of its efforts to enforce prohibition.

Where prohibition is not enforced it is due to greed, treason and treachery to the American uniform and to the American flag. The voters in isolated sections merely voted their conviction that if beer is to be had they prefer to have it served by slot machines, a la Berlin, rather than by shot machines, a la Chicago. In spite of the tomtoms of Raskob and Curran, John Barleycorn was not returned from Elba in the recent elections. The people passed up the appeal to their appetites wherever a chance was given them to vote for men of caliber and performance. You can't make a full-dinner stein look like a full-dinner pail to hungry men. The people are more interested right now in where their next meal is coming from. Illinois decided that that is a job for the sterner sex.

Neither Franklin Roosevelt nor J. Hamilton Lewis gave to booze the credit for their landslides. Roosevelt, having in mind the drys in the Southland, said:

"I attribute my big lead to my water program. I have favored State development of water power sites in up-State New York. Other things merely aided in piling up my great majority."

J. Hamilton Lewis, also having in mind the drys in the Southland, said:

"I attribute the results of Tuesday's election as the evolution and execution of the new generation in politics and government, which calls for less privilege to the selected favorites in power and more grant of opportunity to the masses to enjoy freedom and the rewards of their industrious life."

I do not know what the report of the Wickersham commission will be, but let me say that privileges that may be properly exercised by pure breeds may discomfit the mongrels. Just because the Swedes can drink temperately is no reason for believing that the polyglot American hybrid of this age can go and do likewise. Scramble the blood stream of a race and you scramble its purpose. Already in America the cross-blood puzzles threaten to outnumber the cross-word puzzles. Mongrel races can't think temperately. Neither can they act or drink temperately.

SOVIET LAYS PLOT TO OTHER POWERS

Overthrow of Russ Regime Called Aim of Five Nations Named.

TREASON LAID TO EIGHT

Moscow, U. S. S. R., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—From a dossier of indictments and purported confessions in the hands of the people's commissar for justice there emerged today Soviet charges of an international plot to overthrow the government and to parcel out some of the country's most valuable natural resources among the nations which fringe her borders.

Eight Russians, said to be anti-Soviet, are in prison under charges of high treason, the punishment for which is death. The alleged confession of one of them—the counter-revolutionist, Ramain—names a group of outstanding figures in half a dozen nations as coconspirators.

Sir Henri Deterding, British oil magnate, is named as one of those who aided in financing the preliminary revolutionary campaign. Former Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand of France are called "archconspirators," and the name of Britain's "Lawrence of Arabia" is the final dab of color in the picture.

Elaborate Plot Reconstructed.

From Ramain's purported confession the government has reconstructed the elaborate plot. It was hatched in Moscow and Leningrad, fed with foreign capital in Paris and supported by active sympathy from Great Britain, France, Poland, Finland, Roumania, and other "capitalist" nations, it is charged.

There was to have been a diplomatic "incident" on the Roumanian border, and Roumania was to have declared war. In quick succession, Poland, France and England were to have followed her example.

An army of 600,000 men under the White Gen. Loukomsky was to have marched on Moscow, gathering strength of numbers as it went by enlistment of discontented peasants, while simultaneously an army under the White Gen. Deniken moved on Leningrad.

France Was to Supply Arms.

France was to supply arms and ammunition and the British fleet was to steam into the Baltic and the Black Seas, seizing the Crimea and Leningrad. All this, planned last summer, the Soviet government asserts, broke because of discord between France and Italy and the uncertainty of Germany's attitude which induced the plotters to delay their first open attack.

The revolutionists planned to install a "bourgeois democratic republic" and in return for their support their foreign allies were to share some of Russia's richest sources of wealth.

Britain was to have the Caucasian oil fields, France other valuable concessions; Poland was to share the Ukraine with France, and other allies were to be rewarded proportionately.

The new government was virtually decided upon, with Ramain as its most likely head, the alleged confessions said.

"French Institution" Mentioned.

In the background of the preparatory plotting, the Soviet government charges, was a "trade industrial committee" with headquarters at Paris through which exiled Russian financiers passed a million gold rubles into the revolutionary treasury via "certain high officials of a certain French institution at Moscow."

The indictment on which Ramain and his seven associates are held, and the alleged confessions of the conspirators avoid mention of names, but it was implied that the only "French institution" at Moscow is the French embassy.

Through the "institution" the government charges, Poincare and Briand played their important parts in the plot. Other foreign allies contributed their assistance through the "trade industrial committee" at Paris.

The eight prisoners, four of them educators and the others engineers, are to be tried at a special sitting of the Soviet supreme court on charges of high treason, counter-revolutionary activities and espionage, the punishment for any of which is death.

French Officials Amazed.

Paris, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Government representatives today expressed astonishment at dispatches from Moscow saying that agents of former Premier Poincare and Foreign Minister Briand had been acting in concert with Russians charged with treasonable acts against the Soviet Union, declaring such allegations were utterly without foundation.

In authorized quarters it was said Foreign Minister Briand had no connection whatever with any groups of Russian agitators. So far as former Premier Poincare was concerned, it was pointed out that he is no longer in power and it was out of the question that he was involved in any such affair.

State Beer and Wine Amendment Proposed

(Associated Press.)

An amendment to the Volstead law to permit States to determine the alcoholic content of beer and light wines for sale will be sponsored at the coming session by Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri.

Cochran said yesterday unless Congress takes early action on the question it would be the issue in 1932.

"My view is," Cochran said, "if we can present an amendment that will not be construed as a vote for or against beer and light wines the chances for favorable action toward modification would be brighter."

Brazilian Attack Inquiry Is Asked

McKellar Wires Stimson Concerning Slaying of U. S. Missionary.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 11 (A.P.)—Senator K. D. McKellar, of Tennessee, announced today he had wired Secretary of State Stimson, requesting an investigation of the report that Brazilian savages had killed two Methodist missionaries, the Rev. Arthur Tylee and Miss Mildred Kratz, and the Rev. Tylee's baby.

Reports to mission headquarters at New York said the three were killed and the Rev. Tylee's wife, the former Miss Ethel Canary, of Memphis, was wounded.

"Full reparation should e made," Senator McKellar said. His telegram asked the State Department to seek further information concerning the fate of the mission.

(Associated Press.)

The State Department yesterday instructed the American Consul General at Sao Paulo to make a full report regarding the slaying of Rev. Arthur S. Tylee, Miss Mildred Kratz, and Rev. Tylee's baby daughter, and the wounding of Mrs. Tylee by Indians in Jurusna, Brazil.

BUTTS TELLS OF BUYING GIN

suspicious. Mr. Crockett told them not to ask me any questions about my being in there. He covered up the matter of my status as well as he possibly could to make it easy for me to operate. He cooperated in every way. So did Col. Thayer. He gave Capt. Parker orders, without revealing my status, to help me get started in the office work. This all happened the first day, Monday, December 16.

I felt satisfied that first day that the stationery room was an ideal place in which to do my real work as an "under cover" agent.

The Senate Office Building is a handsome marble structure built around three sides of a large city block. It is four stories high with enough office space to provide quarters for the 96 senators and the various committees. The corridors run parallel with each side of the square block and the offices of the senators open from both sides of these corridors.

The Senate stationery room is at the extreme northeast corner of the building on the ground floor. In the back of it it has high windows looking out across the court around which the building is constructed.

Has Clear View Across Court.

From this vantage point I could see the windows of scores of senators' offices, and had a clear view across the court to the open block on the east side of the square. I had been told at the Prohibition Bureau that was the place where "the Man in the Green Hat" parked his car every day when he came to the Senate Office Building to get his orders and make deliveries.

I went right to work in the stationery room getting onto the ropes as fast as I could and making myself useful in general. Capt. Parker asked me what I could do and I told him I had taken bookkeeping in high school and also a business course in accountancy. So he put me to work keeping the accounts of the 96 senators who have an allowance for the stationery, pencils, pens, scratch pads, paper and other supplies they get from the stationery room.

In addition, I took my turn with the other boys waiting on senators and their secretaries at the counter. Among the firs senators I waited on were Senator Waterman, of Colorado, and Senator Deneen, of Illinois.

I had never had any contact with big men like that before and at first I was a little nervous. This wore off very soon and each day I did my share with the other boys waiting on the senators and their secretaries and filling their orders as they came in for supplies.

During the first two weeks I stuck closely to the routine work of the stationery room, reporting promptly at 9 o'clock each morning and working through until 4:30 in the afternoon. I had been instructed by the Prohibition Bureau to do this in order to make my associates in the Senate stationery room believe that was what I was there for.

By this time the boys in the stationery room seemed to have more confidence in me and I was ordered to get busy on the bootlegging case.

Inquires About Cassidy.

In the course of waiting on customers in the stationery room I had made a good contact with another employe of the Senate. He liked to visit and seemed to be friendly so a few days before New Years, I said to him:

"Do you know this fellow the newspapers call "the Man in the Green Hat?"

"I certainly do know him," my friend replied. "He is up here every day doing business in the building. I see him making his rounds nearly every afternoon."

I told this fellow I would like to have a little something for the holidays to make a little "whoopee." My friend said he would introduce me to "the Man in the Green Hat" the next time he saw him in the Senate Office Building.

Meets Man in Green Hat.

Two days later I first met "the Man in the Green Hat." My friend ran into him in one of the corridors of the Senate Office Building. He told Cassiday he would like to introduce him to a friend of his who wanted to give him a little trade.

Then Cassiday came right up to the counter in the stationery room where I had been waiting on senators and their secretaries. I took a good look at him to see how he checked up with the personal description I had received of him from the Prohibition Bureau.

Cassiday impressed me as a clean-cut, well-dressed fellow who made a very good appearance. He had on a dark blue suit, a tan topcoa and a tan hat. (I asked my friend, the Senate employe, later how come he did not have on his green hat.)

My friend said to Cassidy: "I would like to have you meet my friend, Mr. Butts. He is an employe of the stationery room and would like to get one-fifth of gin for this evening."

One-fifth of gin is one-fifth of a gallon and is a little less than a quart the way bootleggers at Washington sell it.

Cassiday Takes Liquor Order.

Cassiday shook hands with me and said he would have the liquor over in about an hour's time. He looked me over and seemed a little uncertain about selling to me on so short acquaintance. He asked me whose patronage I was on and I told him Col. Thayer's. He claimed he knew the colonel and seemed to take what I said all right, but he did not deliver the order to me personally the first time.

That afternoon he brought it up to the Senate Office Building and delivered the fifth of gin to the Senate employe who had introduced me to him. He charged $3, which was about the average price gin was bringing in Washington at that time.

Made Reports Daily.

I was making daily reports in writing to the Prohibition Bureau on my work in the Senate Office Building and I covered the incident of my first meeting with Cassiday in detail.

I was also able to report to the bureau that Cassiday was making the stationery room a regular stopping place on his rounds of the Senate Office Building.

After I had met him I noticed him coming into the stationery room about every other day, talking with the employes and making telephone calls. He would get in touch with his customers from the stationery room and take their orders. He seemed to be doing a right smart business in the Senate Office Building. I would watch him, listen in, and get all the information I could regarding his activities.

Tomorrow Butts will tell in detail how he and another agent working under orders from the Prohibition Bureau laid a trap for "the Man in the Green Hat," in order to break up bootleg liquor sales to senators and their secretaries.

U. S. PROPOSES ARMS CUT PLAN AT GENEVA

Would Limit Land and Air Forces With Publicity on Expenditures.

GIBSON MAKES OFFER

Geneva, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Direct limitation of land and air armaments with full publicity as to expenditures, weights and numbers was proposed before the league's disarmament commission today by the American Government.

Hugh S. Gibson, the American representative, in support of his contention that the American plan would be the most "effective means of attaining disarmament," said:

"Our military effectives will be definitely limited and full publicity given to expenditure for their pay and maintenance. Our naval material and personnel will be definitely limited by treaty. There remains only the question of material for land and air forces. As regards this we have expressed our readiness to accept what we consider the strictest method of limitation, namely direct limitation with full publicity as to expenditures, weights and numbers."

Opposes Budgetary Restriction.

In reiterating America's opposition to any plan of limitation by budgetary restriction, Mr. Gibson declared, "It is easier to conceal the application of a dollar than it is the existence of a rifle."

He told the commission, however, that the United States had no objection to a convention which committed other nations to the plan of budgetary restriction and left the United States free to exercise its scheme of direct limitation.

This suggestion of twofold draft was received with great interest by the entire membership of the commission. The British representatives, who have been advocating the budgetary plan, said informally they welcomed the American proposal and thought there was a good chance of formulating some such twofold treaty.

It was generally recognized in league circles that Europeans are not greatly concerned over American armaments and would not object to the United States employing its own plan of direct limitation with full publicity.

U. S. Does Not Stand Alone.

The United States, however, is not alone in its objection to the budgetary scheme. Japan, Russia, Holland, Sweden and Germany are more or less insistent on direct limitation by enumeration of materials, and probably Italy would prefer direct limitation also. It was recalled that a majority of the commission at a former session rejected the plan of direct limitations and the issue was not reopened today only after long discussion.

Before Mr. Gibson's speech today, Italy's representative, Gen. de Marinis, and Lord Cecil, of Great Britain, outlined their views of what they regarded as the vital need for the limitation of land armaments.

Gen. de Marinis declared that if the commission desired to obtain a positive reduction of armaments it would be necessary to consider the question of existing stocks of materials.

"This," he said, "is a matter which is disturbing public opinion and it ought also to disturb the members of this commission. It would be unacceptable for us to sign a convention which ignored existing stocks of war material which we consider should be regularized."

Hope for Agreement.

In concluding his remarks, he said: "I think we should not despair of reaching an agreement in regard to a system which would give the various states sufficient assurance and allow us to realize a reduction of armaments which would be both just and effective."

He added that while he felt full publicity would be of much value, he believed thorough limitation could not be obtained unless the governments agreed to budgetary limitation. This budgetary limitation, he said, should be employed to compare a country's expenditures from year to year rather than to compare one country's expenditure with another.

FATE OF INDIA LIES WITH CONFERENCE

Federation May Be Outcome of Parley Which King Will Open Today.

GRAVE PROBLEMS AWAIT

London, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The destiny of a country nearly as large as the United States, crowded with 350,000,000 persons of conflicting racial strains and religious beliefs is at stake in the Indian round-table conference which King George will inaugurate in the royal gallery of the House of Lords at noon tomorrow.

His address and its import may be the most momentous of his reign, for no conference of modern times—not even the five-power naval parley, which the king opened in the same great hall last January—has been weighted with such responsibilities regarding the future of the British Empire.

Federation May Come.

Out of it may come a United States of India within the British realm. But the torrent of Indian problems is far more complex than that which the American States faced in their federalization, for the inhabitants of this vast Asiatic territory speak 222 languages and are divided into 2,300 castes and subcastes.

Moreover, dotted over the face of India lie more than 500 autonomous states whose ruling princes owe allegiance to the British King-Emperor, but whose domains are outside the governing system of British provinces in India. The millions of Indians in these states are not British subjects.

For weeks 86 delegates—57 from the British provinces, 16 from the autonomous Indian states (including 9 ruling princes), and 13 members of the British Parliament—have been assembling in London.

Merely Stress Problem.

But their informal preliminary negotiations have served only to emphasize the tremendous problem they face in achieving the goal of responsible self-government for India, and tonight, on the eve of the meeting, no agreed program for procedure has been reached.

The only thing in common in this medley of races, tongues, castes, and creeds is the English language, which all speak and which is the only means whereby all of India's clashing forces can voice their differences. Thus, Hindus, Moslems, Buddhists, Parsees, spokesmen of the "untouchables," Indian women, and members of the British Parliament will debate in a common tongue.

Crown, With Jewels, Found in Leguia's Safe

Lima, Peru, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A gold crown, presented to Augusto B. Leguia several years ago by a group of women, was among the many valuable articles found in the safe of the deposed president when it was opened today by the police.

Rich jewels, important documents, together with the many decorations presented to Leguia by foreign governments and which made him one of the world's most decorated men, also were in the safe. It was opened on order of the sanctions court, which is examining charges of improper conduct in office against the deposed president.

Reichstag Will Publish Record of Reparations

Berlin, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Reichstag foreign relations committee tonight decided to draw up and publish immediately a record of all German reparations paid to the enemy countries of the World War.

This will serve as a basis for definitive settlement of reparations questions and is intended to prove Germany has made greater sacrifices toward liquidating war damages than should be expected of her "in view of the historical refutation of Germany's war guilt, on which the Treaty of Versailles was founded."

Producers Discuss Soviet Manganese

Groups Will Ask Treasury for Embargo Against Importations.

Discussions of the effect of Soviet dumping of manganese ores on the American market occupied the attention yesterday of the final session of the American Manganese Producers Association, meeting at the Mayflower Hotel.

During the course of the convention, J. Carson Adkerson, president of the association, reported the filing of a 43-page brief with the Treasury Department, in an effort to secure an embargo on the importation of Soviet manganese. Although hearings were held by the Customs Bureau of the Treasury Department August 11 and September 9, it was reported that no action has been taken so far on the association's request. Treasury Department representatives attended all sessions of the convention.

The convention, a 43-page brief, setting forth the case of the American producers of the ore, was presented to the Treasury Department in an effort to secure an embargo on the importation of Soviet manganese.

A high point of the day's meeting was an address by A. A. Djakeli, president of the Societe Industrielle Internationale, owners of the Georgian manganese mines from which the Soviet product is being produced. M. Djakeli told, through an interpreter, of his experiences with the Soviet government as a manganese operator and of the final loss of the Georgian properties and the necessity put upon him and his colleagues of fleeing the country to escape arrest when the mines were seized.

Another feature of the day's session was the presentation, by Gregory G. Bernardsky, president of the American Observer, of a resolution recently adopted by the Association of Americans of Russian origin. This resolution expressed the association's sympathy with the aims of the manganese producers and expressed its recommendation of an embaro cutting off importations of all commodities from Russia.

70 to Be Deadline In Salvation Army

Generals Will Be Retired Automatically Then, by New Ruling.

London, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Generals in the Salvation Army hereafter will be retired automatically when 70 years old, the commissioners in session here decided today after the most vigorously debated meeting of the conference.

One faction, it was reported, held out for 73 as the age of retirement, but capitulated to the majority. Gen. Edward J. Higgins, head of the army, ordered all the delegates to refrain from discussing the meeting for publication.

In an official announcement, however, he explained that the new retirement limit will be applied to women as well as men and that the rank of general is the only one to which a retirement age does not already apply.

Commander Evangeline Booth, as spokesman for the United States contingent, outlined her policies for regulation of the army's internal affairs at a session this evening. The policy of secrecy, however, prevented any details of her recommendations from reaching the public.

Wafd Celebration Banned.

Cairo, Egypt, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The government today banned a Wafd meeting scheduled for Thursday in celebration of Independence Day.

The government expressed the opinion that the Wafd leader, Saad Zaghlul Pasha, uses such occasions to preach revolution.

their cases. Under this system, the fact a person charged with a liquor violation is not indicted, does not mean that the matter is at an end. There is still the possibility of prosecution in Police Court.

Involve Only Few Charges.

Indictments under the Jones act involve only sale, transportation and third-offense possession. All other violations of the prohibition enforcement statutes come under the jurisdiction of Police Court.

The thirteen persons indicted yesterday are Elizabeth Contee, Sam Contee, Frank Mangum, Charles Wesley Lee, John Lyons, Thomas Marshall, William Niland, Benedict Smith, Paul Beach, Richard Newberry, Thomas Bales Quantrillo, Irving Rosenberg and Alfred Cloud.

Those whom the grand jury refused to indict on liquor charges are Bromley Hunter, Antonio Cologero, Irving L. Trunbull, Silas Jefferson, Charles Winfield Anderson, David Weltzman, Ida Deltzman, Rosa Johnson, Herman Johnson, James Hunter, William H. Yarbrough, Walter Hunter, William Boswell Wade, Delilah Wright and Alfred Smith.

WADSWORTH INFERS G. O. P. DRY RIFT NEAR

senator had been broached with an offer to lead the drys, to take the place of Wayne B. Wheeler, whose grave out there at Columbus, is unmarked. Senator Pess dismissed the story at the time with the statement that he was not considering resigning as Republican national chairman.

It may be that he is thinking differently now. After all that was not a very successful campaign he conducted, though it could have been much worse. But anyway, it has never been thought that Senator Fess would continue as chairman for the 1932 campaign.

It is not at all improbable that he has something like the dry leadership up his sleeve. It is a good opportunity for a good man.

Britten Joins Attack.

Representative Fred A. Britten, chairman of the committee on naval affairs, also joined the assault on Senator Fess with a statement that "When Senator Fess says that 'prohibition is here to stay,' he is talking for himself and not as chairman of the Republican national committee.

"If Senator Fess is so blind or so intolerant that he cannot analyze the desires of millions of voters in progressive northern States, the national committee should elect another chairman before the arid senator further depresses his party."

Mr. Britten termed Senator Fess' leadership of the committee as "colorless and void of the slightest comprehension of political strategy. It is a leadership which has brought defeat."

Dry Law Statement Denied by Mackintosh

Information contained in a copyrighted article in the Washington Herald yesterday morning to the effect that President Hoover's Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement is prepared to recommend modification or repeal of the dry laws was flatly denied yesterday by Judge Kenneth Mackintosh, of Seattle, Wash., a member of the commission. Statements in the article were attributed directly to Judge Mackintosh.

In his denial of the article, Judge Mackintosh said that a statement issued by the commission last Saturday covered the matter fully. The Saturday statement said, in part: "The commission has reached no conclusion which are ripe for publication at the present time. Any statements in advance as to the contents of the report or the recommendations made are purely conjectural."

Cuba Will Inquire Into Death in Riot

Partial Martial Law Kept by Troops in Santiago.

Santiago De Cuba, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Audiencia Court of Oriente Province today appointed a special judge to investigate yesterday's disorders, which resulted in the death of one student and the injury of two score others.

While troops continued to maintain a partial state of martial law here and forbade further gatherings of Communists, Nationalists and normal school students, Dr. Burget Quintero, the special judge named by the Audencia, took depositions from the eight persons arrested and remanded them to the military barracks, where they have been confined since last night.

Plane and Choice Cargo Of Liquors Confiscated

New Orleans, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Prohibition officers here today were notified by telephone from Columbia, Miss., that Sheriff Walsdorf there had confiscated an airplane, presumably from Michigan, heavily laden with choice liquors.

Sheriff Walsdorf told the Prohibition Department he had arrested the operators of the plane and asked what charges should be filed against them. In prohibition circles, the opinion prevailed that the shipment was intended as Christmas cargo for New Orleans bootleggers and that the plane had stopped at Columbia for refueling.

Fog Forces Giant Plane Down.

Victoria, Spain, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Lost in a dense fog, the giant Junker plane, G-38, landed at the local airport this afternoon on its flight from Lisbon to Bordeaux. The crew planned to spend the night here, resuming their flight to Bordeaux tomorrow morning.

Actors Storm Theater After Five Obtain Jobs

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Worthington Miner, director of A. H. Woods' forthcoming play, "The Five-Star Final," reached the Eltinge Theater here today to find a full-fledged mob scene awaiting him.

At least 2,000 actors, actresses and would-be performers were there looking for jobs. Last night Miner had engaged five actors for the new play. The fortunate five told their friends and the crowd of job seekers was the result. Two policemen were stationed at the theater for the rest of the day to keep another crowd from gathering.

Now Millions of Adults, too, check Colds

To relieve that "stuffed up" feeling in the head, snuff Vicks up the nostrils; also melt a teaspoonful in hot water and inhale the steaming medicated vapors.

2 WAYS at once

Mothers were first to appreciate the modern method of treating colds externally, because it avoids the constant "dosing" so upsetting to children's delicate stomachs.

Now millions of adults, too, prefer Vicks for their colds, because, just rubbed on, it brings relief two ways at once:

(1) Its medicated vapors, released by the heat of the body, are inhaled direct to the air-passages, loosening the phlegm and easing the breathing.

(2) At the same time, Vicks acts through the skin like a poultice or plaster, thus helping the inhaled vapors to break up the congestion.

Powells Home With Memories Of Trip Abroad

Journey Through Russia Provided Material for Book and Lectures.

"JOURNEY'S END" is open again and Lieut. Col. E. Alexander Powell, author, traveler and lecturer and Mrs. Powell are at home, happy to be at leisure and to consider in retrospection one of the most delightful and, at the same time, most trying of their numberless journeys abroad. For counterbalancing the charm of mystic lands of southern Europe, visited on their tour, is the memory of Moscow and Leningrad.

Sailing from New York on July 3, Col. and Mrs. Powell and their daughter, Miss Bettie Powell, set out upon a pilgrimage to lands little written about, both Col. Powell and Miss Powell in search of material for additional books they will write this winter and for a series of lectures. Col. and Mrs. Powell arrived in Washington by motor from New York on Monday night. Miss Powell will be in Syracuse for a week as the guest of her grandmother, Mrs. Northrup. They crossed on the Vulcania, having sailed from Lisbon.

Bright memories of several delightful days in Hungary, where they were guests of Hungary's Minister to the United States, and Countess Szechenyi at their estate; of brilliant days spent in Roumania where they were entertained by Queen Marie and where Col. Powell had an audience with King Carol, of a brief visit made by Col. Powell to the King of Albania—all these probably will merge into the kaleidoscope of interesting experiences indexed through years of travel. But the visit to Russia—that, Mr. Powell declares, will remain forever a nightmare of tragedy.

Arriving in Moscow in the evening, they were charged $7 for a cab to their hotel. They were ushered, after much delay, into two dirty rooms and during the eight days of their stay in Russia found it necessary to subsist upon black bread and tea. The meat is impossible and fresh vegetables lacking. One sardine costs 75 cents; a pound of terrible butter, $5. One evening they visited the White City with a high-born Russian, who, explaining his shabby shoes, outlined the method by which every one in Russia secures each article of clothing by coupon. No coupon would be issued to this gentleman until October and one "makes one's footwear last," he laughed.

After a brief stay in Leningrad, the trio of travelers flew to Riga, "clapping our hands in delight and relief as we crossed the Russian border, with horror behind us and the light of civilization before us," said Mrs. Powell.

In addition to motor journeys through the Balkan countries the travelers visited Germany, Oberammergau, Austria, Poland and passed some time at Lake Como, going on to Paris for a week and to England, where they motored before returning to the continent for continued motor trips through Spain, France and Portugal. They were delightfully entertained in Portugal by the American Minister, John Glover South, who, it will be recalled, seconded the nomination of Herbert Hoover for President. The visits to Portugal and Russia were Mrs. Powell's first glimpse of those countries.

The little-trod trails of Europe visited by the Powells this summer will form material for Col. Powell's book, which he may name "The Places Where Nobody Goes." Intensive study of economic conditions in Europe will also supply fresh copy for a more serious volume he is contemplating.

Miss Powell, who has achieved distinction as a lecturer in the field of international politics, will fill an engagement in Milwaukee in the near future. Although generally the youngest speaker on the platform, Miss Powell's success has been marked because of her fresh and vigorous viewpoint. Globe trotters for twenty years, Col. and Mrs. Powell and their daughter propose in future to spend their winters in Washington.

The Hungarian Minister, Count Laszlo Szechenyi, arrived in New York last evening with two of his daughters, Countess Cornelia and Countess Alice. They were met by Countess Szechenyi and the other members of the family who returned to this country several weeks ago and have been with Countess Szechenyi's mother, Mrs. Vanderbilt. The family will come to Washington today to open the legation for the season.

Senator Henrik Shipstead, of Minnesota, will speak on "Future National Legislations" in a radio address on Saturday from 9:30 until 10 o'clock.

MISS NANCY AMBLER JENNINGS
Is the daughter of Capt. Lewis Wise Jennings, U. S. N. and Mrs. Jennings.

Argentine Ambassador To Arrive Here Tonight.

The new Ambassador from Argentina, Senhor Manuel Malbran, who arrived in New York yesterday on the S. S. American Legion, will come to Washington tonight. He stopped over to attend the luncheon which is being given in his honor today at India House. He was greeted in New York by the charge d'affaires of the embassy, Mr. Pablo Santos Munoz.

Rumor says that the length of the new envoy's term of service in the United States is doubtful. The recent revolution brought the Conservatives into power in Argentina and members of that faction have never held sway for any length of time. The results of the next elections will probably tell a different story. Mr. Malbran, of course, is a Conservative.

The Secretary of State and Mrs. Henry L. Stimson will have as their guests for the week-end, Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Lee Loomis, of Tuxedo Park, N. Y., who are expected in Washington on Friday.

Dr. and Mrs. Julius Klein Are Greeted In Istanbul.

Dr. Julius Klein, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, and Mrs. Klein, who are making an extended tour of Europe and the Near East, in the interests of American trade, reached Istanbul on Monday after a brief visit at Angora. That afternoon Ambassador Joseph Grew presented Dr. Klein to President Mustafa Kemal Pasha in a special audience. Other ministers and Fethi Bey, leader of the Liberal Republicans, attended a dinner given by the minister of commerce and also a luncheon given by Ambassador Grew.

Dr. and Mrs. Klein will proceed at once to Palestine, visiting Smyrna, Adana, Mersina and other commercial centers in southern Turkey.

Mrs. Edward Everett Gann is expected to attend the Silversmith Fashion Show at the Willard Friday.

Among those who have attended the show are the Secretary of Labor and Mrs. James J. Davis, Representative and Mrs. Clyde Kelly, Dr. Luther Reichelderfer, Mrs. Walter R. Tuckerman, Mrs. John Connelly, Mrs. William Wrightson, and Miss Charlotte Childress.

Among those who will preside at the tea table today at the show are Mrs. Frank Barrows Freyer, wife of Capt. Freyer; Mrs. Spencer Ilsley, Mrs. W. D. Wrightson and Mrs. John G. O'Connor.

Mrs. J. R. Deeble Arrives In New York to Embark.

Mrs. J. Riley Deeble, who has been visiting in Washington for several weeks, went to New York last night, where she will be the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James H. Ottley, before sailing for Europe, November 22.

Mrs. Deeble will go to Barcelona to visit her other daughter, Miss Elizabeth Deeble, who has been arranging tours for Americans in Spain, an enterprise which she inaugurated herself. Mrs. Deeble's third daughter is Mrs. Joseph Molloy, who before her recent marriage, was Miss Dorothy Deeble. She is making her home in New York in the apartment which her mother occupied last winter.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Hamilton have as their guests at their home in Spring Valley, Mrs. Robert Pogue and Mrs. Charles Iredell, of Cincinnati. Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton will entertain at dinner tonight for a small company, who have been invited to meet their guests.

Mrs. Delos A. Blodgett and her sister, Mrs. Charles G. Mathews, will be at home on Monday afternoons for the remainder of this month, after which they will leave as is their custom to spend the winter at their home at Cocoa, Fla.

Col. and Mrs. Henry M. Morrow will entertain at an informal supper party this evening at their home on Biltmore street in honor of Col. Morrow's brother and sister-in-law, Col. and Mrs. William Morrow. The supper is one of a series that they are giving.

Lieut. Comdr. Paul Richmond will entertain at a small dinner preceding the first Navy and Marine Corps dance to be given at the Willard Friday.

Mrs. Sydney C. Neale is in New York, where she is the guest of her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Gregg C. Birdsall, jr., who are receiving congratulations on the birth of a son yesterday morning. Mrs. Birdsall was formerly Miss Sydney Neale, of Washington.

Plans Made To Welcome Count Volpi

Italian Financier to Visit Capital Next Week and Be Embassy's Guest.

Members of the Italian Embassy staff are busy with preparations to receive one of their most distinguished countrymen, Count Volpi di Misurati, former Italian minister of finance, who will arrive in the Capital next Tuesday for a visit of several days.

Count Volpi is at present in New York, where he arrived recently, accompanied by his secretary. He will remain in the United States for a month. He declares that he is in this country on a private mission.

Count Volpi is chairman or director in twenty of the largest Italian public utility and industrial corporations and has come here primarily to confer with American banking and public utility executives who are interested in his companies. He came to this country five years ago as minister of finance, when he headed the Italian delegation which effected a settlement of the war debt.

Count Volpi will be received by President Hoover next Wednesday, and that evening the Italian Ambassador, Nobile Giacomo Martino, will give a dinner in his honor at the embassy. The party will probably be "stag," for Mme. de Martino is still in Italy and will not return to Washington until the first part of December.

The ambassador entertained at dinner last evening for the staff of the embassy in celebration of the birthday of King Victor Emmanuel and also in commemoration of Armistice Day.

Mrs. Clarence W. Grosner, of Massachusetts Avenue Park, is spending a week in New York and is at the Ambassador Hotel.

Miss Francesca McKenney and her cousin, Miss Frances Miller, of New York, have returned to Washington after passing several weeks at Hot Springs, Va., where Miss Miller's parents had a cottage for the fall season. Miss Miller will go to New York today.

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Hodges Are Stopping at Willard.

The former treasurer of the Republican national committee and Mrs. William V. Hodges, have arrived in the Capital for a short stay and are at the Willard.

Mrs. Alfred C. Miller, of Forest Hills, Long Island, will arrive this week to be the guest of Col. and Mrs. Ralph Kingman. Mrs. Miller is coming to attend the debut of Miss Katherine Kingman, daughter of Col. and Mrs. Kingman, who will have her formal coming out party on Saturday afternoon at the War College.

Wives of the commissioners of the Interstate Commerce Commission held a luncheon yesterday at the Carlton. Mrs. Clyde B. Aitchison, Mrs. Ezra Brainerd, jr., and Mrs. J. B. Campbell were in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Patton Wise Slemp, who has been the guest of her mother, Mrs. Fred Dennett, during Mrs. Dennett's recent illness, returned Sunday to her home in Kentucky.

Mrs. Dennett will spend the winter at the Cairo.

District's Dietetic Group To Give Card Party Friday.

The District of Columbia Dietetic Association will hold a card party in the lounge of the Dodge Hotel on Friday evening. Miss Elsie Fitzgerald is acting as chairman in arranging the card party, and assisting her are Miss Lurena Perrine, Miss Ruth Atwater, Miss Blanch Fitch, Miss Mildred Parker and Miss Grace Hunter.

Dr. and Mrs. Franz Matsch arrived in New York yesterday on the Olympic, from Vienna, where they make their home. Mrs. Matsch is the former Miss Lillian Hendrick, daughter of Mrs. David S. Hendrick, of Washington. Dr. and Mrs. Matsch and their young son, Franz Thilman Matsch, will come to the Capital for a visit of several weeks before returning to their home in the Austrian capital.

Mrs. Hendrick makes her home with her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Royal S. McKenna. She will entertain for Dr. and Mrs. Matsch, although they will reside at a hotel during their sojourn here.

The Commissioner General for Australia, Mr. Herbert Brookes, and Mrs. Brookes will arrive in Washington on Saturday and will be the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Brookes at their home in Chevy Chase. This will be the farewell visit of Mr. and Mrs. Brookes to Washington, as they will sail for Australia in December.

Capt. and Mrs. Edward C. Dorin, who have been in California for the summer and early fall, have returned to Washington and will be at the Highlands for the winter.

Arts Studio Will Open on Rural Estate

Mrs. Andrews and Son to Display Quaint Wares Starting Today.

Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews and her son, Mr. Eliphalet Frazer Andrews, will open today their Studio of Arts and Crafts on their estate near Seminary Hill, Va. Within the cozy little chapel, built years ago by Mrs. Andrews for a neighborhood church, friends will be received to examine the objects of burnished copper and of handwrought iron that gleam in the light of an open fire, or they may mount the quaint staircase to the "choir loft," where hang textiles and embroideries from the looms of mountain folk or the Philippine Islands.

The new venture marks but one more turn in the long path of endeavor in the arts engaged in during the years by Mrs. Andrews, author, portrait painter, caricaturist, and widely known for her clever silhouettes. As for her son, Mr. Andrews' work in the arts has received wide recognition. Inheriting his talent from his father, the late Eliphalet Frazer Andrews, painter and head of the Corcoran School of Art, young Mr. Andrews is now devoting much time to wrought-iron work as well as architectural design. The chapel, which will house the collection of fine things, has been rebuilt by Mr. Andrews, whose inherent good taste has made of the interior a fascinating setting for his art.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrews and their children make their home at Vaucluse, where the studio stands and where Mrs. Minnigerode Andrews spends much time. Mrs. Emily Sproul von Huhn will be in charge of the studio as hostess and manager. Acquainted with the history of the divers lines of art represented in the collection, Mrs. von Huhn has a "story" for each piece.

A large group of friends made the pilgrimage to the new studio on Sunday to examine the objects placed there.

The Charge d'Affaires of the Netherlands, Mr. L. G. van Hoorn, will leave Washington next week for New York, and will sail on November 21 for the Netherlands to pass two months' vacation. The Minister, Mr. J. H. van Royen, with Mme. van Royen, is now on the West Coast, and will return to Washington on the day that Mr. van Hoorn sails.

CONDÉ NAST, NAME-GATHERER

JUST WHAT IS THE PUBLISHING BUSINESS?

Before embarking on the publishing business I had thought of periodical publishing as something very grand—even very mysterious. But a little clear thinking led to the conclusion that such a publisher is only a name-gatherer; that the publishing business, analyzed to its basic elements, resolved itself into nothing more nor less than a Name-Brokerage Business.

The publisher fills a certain number of pages with reading matter, drawings, and photographs. He, so to speak, baits his pages with such editorial matter as he believes will attract either a great number of readers, or a specific class of readers. He then offers these pages to the reading public at a price considerably lower than his cost of gathering and manufacturing them.

At this stage of the enterprise, the publisher has no profit—indeed, he has a very considerable loss; but he then turns to the advertisers and merchants of the country, in the manner of a Name-Broker, and says:

"I have gathered together a list of names. Access to these names will enable you to promote your business. I will let you have such access to them. When I am sending my editorial message to these names, I will permit you, for a consideration, to include a page in which you may deliver to them your own message about your merchandise."

I then discovered to my amazement, that among the thousands of periodicals and newspapers published at that time, there wasn't one whose editorial pages were actually so baited as to attract and segregate the key-people of the United States.

Then and there, I determined to offer to the American public editorial pages so baited with reading matter, drawings, and photographs, as to attract and gather into one compact group, the several hundred thousand or more people in this country who were the most cultured, the most traveled, and the most affluent—the people, in short, whose names constitute a list of those likeliest to have the widest variety of wants, and the money with which to gratify them—a "matched pearl" list of names, as it were—which, to my surprise, no other publisher or name-broker had up to that time ever attempted to gather into one list.

How fundamentally sound was this early theorizing, how thoroughly consistent has been the baiting of the editorial pages, is perhaps indicated by the success of VOGUE, VANITY FAIR, and HOUSE & GARDEN as Name-Gathering Magazines. In order to estimate my capacity and success as a Name-Gatherer, I have always—whenever and wherever I could find a list of any group of citizens who had become locally or nationally prominent—made a comparison of these with the names registered on our magazines' subscription lists, to determine how many of them are readers of these periodicals. Here is the latest check.

Checking up on a Name-Gatherer

The most recent comparison of this nature has been the checking of the names of the Board of Directors of the Chase National Bank. This has disclosed the fact that the editorial bait offered in VOGUE has been such as to induce 56 of these 82 Chase Board Directors to buy VOGUE—that's a 68% coverage. The editorial bait offered in VANITY FAIR has been such as to induce 46 of these 82 Directors to take VANITY FAIR—that's a 56% coverage. The editorial bait offered in HOUSE & GARDEN has been such as to induce 48 of these 82 Directors to take HOUSE & GARDEN—that's a 59% coverage. In brief, 65 of these 82 Directors, as shown in the list printed here, take regularly one or several of these Nast magazines—that is a total coverage of 80%.

Looking at these periodicals as one group, we discover that the aggregate coverage is amazingly complete—that 150 copies of the Nast magazines go every month of the year into the homes of this outstanding company of 82 Chase Bank Directors.

Not every community in the United States can boast the world's largest bank, but it can boast its own key people—and it is similar key people in every community that the Nast Publications reach with a high percentage of coverage—a compact phalanx of 340,000 of the most select and distinguished names in the United States, representing the greatest collective purchasing power in this country.

When I am sending my editorial message to these names, do you, at the same time, want to send along your message about your merchandise?

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. W. A. EVANS

To the limit of space, questions pertaining to hygiene and prevention of disease will be answered in this column. Personal replies will be made to inquiries, under proper limitations, when return stamped envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease.

WHAT GETS THE LEANS?

SOME people seem to be naturally of the lean and hungry kind and nothing they may do makes any great difference. Others are lean while passing through certain periods—for example, the rapid growth period of adolescence—and at other periods are normal in weight, or even fat. Then some are lean because of certain glandular disorders. The general impression is that leanness means disease or poor health, or a bad outlook; and, on the other hand, the belief is general that fat, sleek people, like fat, sleek steers and hogs, are in prime physical condition. This opinion has considerable foundation in truth, but in spite of that is about 80 per cent erroneous.

A study of weight in respect to life hazards, made by Dr. William Muhlberg, makes out a good case for the underweights. They have against them an increased tendency to consumption. This is especially true of underweight men and women during the years of adolescence and up to age 30. In older people it is of less importance. Perhaps most of those who are consumptives and underweight at ages beyond 30 are underweight because they are infected with tuberculosis and this interferes somewhat with nutrition even before it becomes apparent as consumption. Underweight people are also unduly subject to pneumonia, especially if they are much underweight.

Most of the people who suffer from the manifold minor complaints of low blood pressure are underweights. As a rule, such people live to a ripe age and escape serious diseases as they travel along the way, but they are generally uncomfortable as they do so and they do not get much out of life. As a rule, also, the underweights are worriers, they are irritable, and gloom besets them.

This is pretty nearly a catalogue of the special ills of the underweights. It is a shorter list and a less formidable one than that chalked up against the overweights. When an insurance examiner finds a person underweight he is on the qui vive to find some acute wasting disease. He inquiries closely as to the length of time this underweight has continued, whether the weight is falling, what is the cause. But if the answers to these questions are reassuring he recommends the risk to his company. He advises them to sign up this man quickly and for all the insurance he can afford to carry, for he is a good risk and will live to pay many premiums.

Jane Interprets the Mode

A striking green, silver and black lame (lah-may) evening gown from Talbot is worn beneath a gold and black lame (lah-may) evening coat, with luxurious black fox collars and cuffs.

New York, Nov. 11.

IN one of the old faiths it is said there was a prayer, uttered by the male of the species upon arising, which gave thanks to his Deity that he was a man, or rather, if I remember correctly, that he was not a female.

We just heard about this lately, and simply had to permit ourselves a few giggles, before telling you about it.

For while we try not to be obnoxious about it, there are so many times when the laughter and the joy of being a female will not be stilled—and then, as you can readily understand, we buy ourselves a frock.

Ah, why go on! Aren't men the darnedest—?

Fashion French: Parure (pair-roor)—attire, collars and cuffs, a set; Passe (pass)—brim (of a hat); Passement (pass-monh)—lace, metallic; Patron (pat-ronh)—pattern; Patte (pat)—tab, strap.

Just the thing you've been waiting for! The very identical thing you've been trying to think of so long to give millions of your friends for a gift! What? We-l-l-l, you wouldn't know much from the name if I told you, though you'd guess a lot of things in the right direction—so I'll tell you. The Hot Water Bag Hidey! And what is it? Just the most attractive cover for that hot water bottle that never seems to be wanted out in public, and always is there. The Dare Department of The Washington Post has this leaflet for you, so just send your stamped, self-addressed envelope for it right away, and make up lots of them for very special gifts.

• • • •

"Lapin" being rabbit, and nothing more, what then is "taupe?" "Taupe," my dah-rlings, is moleskin, and moleskin is a lovely if inexpensive fur that is seen here and there for trimming.

• • • •

No, you can't always wear those popular jewelled clips everywhere on your costime that you would like to. For instance, the clips that you might wear clipped to a bag flap could be worn in lieu of buckles on your opera pumps, or decorating the strap of evening sandals—but these same clips might bite big holes in your dress, and would not stay securely in your hair. Dress clips have a finer pin than shoe clips, and hair clips have special arrangements for keeping them in place.

• • • •

Striking, indeed, was Talbot's green, silver and black lame (lah-may) evening gown, with its wide plain shoulder strap and the softly flaring flounce that breaks the severity of the dress midway between the tightly molded hip and the wide, graceful hem. And what more original than to wear over this a gold and black lame (lah-may) coat, which ends in its own flaring flounce, and which has soul-satisfyingly luxurious collar and cuffs of soft black fox?

Only in the Sunday Washington Post, in the Capital, can you find Dare's weekly fashion letter.

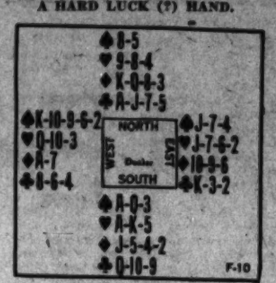
A HARD LUCK (?) HAND.



With the above hand in Auction Bridge South would obtain the contract with a bid of one No Trump.

In Contract South would bid one No Trump (with a count of 16, he is not strong enough to bid two), North would bid two No Trumps, and South three.

When the hand was played at Contract, West led the Ten of Spades (the correct lead from King-Ten-Nine and others) and South won with the Queen. South then finessed the Club Queen and East's King won. East returned his partner's Spade, and South ducked once and won the third round with the Ace. Three more Club tricks and one Heart were won by Declarer; but then a Diamond was led as Declarer with two Spades, two Hearts and three Clubs was short of game. West won with the Ace of Diamonds and cashed his two good Spades, so the adversaries took three Spades, one Diamond and one Club, saving game.

Was it hard luck or bad play?

THE CORRECT PLAY.

It was bad play. There were two cards that Declarer had to dislodge in order to make game—the Ace of Diamonds and King of Clubs. If the King of Clubs was held by West it could be caught, if by East it could not; but if it was held by East and allowed to win before the Ace of Diamonds was played, the adversaries would save game if West had the Ace of Diamonds. With the Ace of Diamonds out of the way first, game was assured regardless of the location of the King of Clubs.

Consequently at trick 2 Declarer should have led a Diamond instead of a Club, continuing that suit until the Ace played. When the Ace of Diamonds won, Spades would be led; Declarer should hold up once and then take the Club finesse, the failure of which would be harmless. Played in that way, Declarer loses only three tricks.

GOOD NEWS, BRIDGERS.

We are pleased to announce we can now renew the offer of Milton C. Work's great Contract and Auction booklet entitled the PLAYING PROBLEMS. Bridgers who received copies from previous offers are most enthusiastic over it.

PLAYING PROBLEMS presents 18 hands, the complete auction and contract bidding for each hand with reasons for each bid, the answers to every question and the reason for each answer in complete detail.

PLAYING PROBLEMS which will be of much greater value to the auction and contract player than many high priced text books, is not for sale. It has been prepared exclusively for readers of this newspaper by special arrangement with Mr. Work. One copy will be mailed to you upon request if you send self-addressed stamped return envelope, together with 6 cents in stamps to defray part of the cost of printing and handling this 48-page booklet. Requests not complying with these conditions will be ignored.

What Today Means to You

"SCORPIO."

IF November 12 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 10 a. m. to noon, and from 8 p. m. to 10 p. m. Nothing of an important or a compromising nature should be attempted between the hours of 2 p. m. and 3:30 p. m.

There are liable to be signs of dissension on this date and differences with relatives and friends. It will be necessary to exercise great self-control, as only such an attitude can overcome the dangers of strife to which you will be subjected.

A child born on this November 12, although disappointing in its years of infancy, will develop into a person of determination and concentration. It will also be blessed with patience and a keen and an active mind, and considerable executive ability in the home or office.

Your nature is a strong one, and you are very emphatic. You have a deep love of knowledge, not superficial, but fundamental—and science in all its branches makes a strong appeal to you. Gifted with a number of talents—all of which you should cultivate to the nth degree—you are imaginative and poetical and sentimental. Your power of concentration is very strong, so is your will. You impose the latter more freely on yourself than on others.

The "fly in the ointment" is that curiosity predominates in your make-up, and you are a wee bit too fond of gossip to make a safe and reliable friend. You must learn to appreciate the advantages of a still tongue.

Your disposition is a merry one, and, as an entertainer, you are interesting and congenial. You are extremely affectionate, but are not so conservative with this kindly attribute as prudence dictates. Your tastes are cosmopolitan, rather than individual.

The signs denote that not until middle life will you come into your own, and there is a nebulous indication that some unexpected and good fortunes may befall you at that time. You are unduly optimistic, and in your cock-sureness that everything will come out all right, you never take or make precautions for unexpected contingencies. While always hoping for the best, it is wise to prepare for the worst. In this way success is attainable, while defeat does not necessarily spell failure.

Wives of Tomorrow

By FRANCES M'DONALD

The Lonely Years.

A GREAT many women have written in on the subject of the inevitable loneliness that comes when youth's first flush of triumph has passed and the years begin to stretch in lengthening shadows down the long gray road ahead. Bachelor freedom seems a little less than the perfect thing it was when every day was holiday and the world was young.

"Marry and make a life for yourself," one woman advises.

"You can not really live single-handed," declares another.

Do you happen to be trying to live "single-handed?" And how is it going to end? Do you feel sure that you will never feel as Molly feels when she says: "I know now it was just plain conceit. No one quite suited. Each man had some fault. I must have thought I was perfect. Well I would stand for a good many faults now, but no one clamors for the privilege of sharing my declining years. I am only 38 and do not look it, but 38 might as well be 88. It is all my own fault in my case as I was warned. But in many cases I think girls are not properly trained. They think they can have proposals at 40 as easily as at 20. They should be taught that they can't and won't."

Elizabeth, being a philosopher, finds consolation in the thought that not all companionship is happy. And not all people who married in hope live and die in thankfulness. Elizabeth's story is interesting because it is the story of so many girls who "get the habit of saying no."

"Loneliness? Don't mention it. If there is a more lonely person on this earth than I am I doubt it. Only 30. Have not had a date in two years. Had four proposals the year I was 19. One man waited five years for me to decide that I did not want him. I look at his wife and children now and know all about loneliness.

"I went with him two years. Why I ever refused him is a mystery to me. All I can see is that I had formed the habit of saying no. He had no faults, a lovely disposition toward women, although cold toward men. He made a success of everything he touched. Is now in the real estate business and getting richer every day. But best of all he and the girl he married are the happiest people in the world. They drive past in the car and the children are always laughing and so are they. I am always in the depths after I see them.

"Of course, I am not morbid about it all. I know that perhaps we might have been very miserable together. Not every couple get along as they do. He and I might have been very unhappy. Two of my friends who married boys I refused have been wretched. And after all, a quiet life of loneliness is better than a life of battling and vexation, trouble and strife.

"However, I believe that girls should be assisted in making up their minds about marriage. That is one thing that I think is a great help in columns such as yours. I believe a great many girls and women are helped in making decisions just by seeing things down in black and white. I used to really try to figure out every angle in deciding about marrying, but I was not helped to a wise decision. Now, if a girl in the same predicament came to me for advice I would say, 'Take him and make a life for yourself.' Why did no one say those words to me? Oh, well, somehow the years will pass, but, oh, how different those years might have been. ELIZABETH."

Now, you bachelor girls, what do you think of that? And what are you going to say when Old Faithful and the box of chocolates arrive tonight and the same old discussion starts? Are you going to keep on saying "No, I guess I like my freedom?" Or are you going to think of Elizabeth and all the thousands of Elizabeths and bowl the man over with a large-sized yes?

Have you a problem? If there is something constantly on your mind, you have a problem, and should come out and discuss it. What is it? We have the answer. You need not sign your name.

MARTHA WASHINGTON GERANIUM.

THESE last two seasons the Martha Washington geranium (pelargonium) has been grown in such large numbers that we find these rather old, but really decorative, flowers in our most exclusive shops. In this day of apartments, where space is limited and decorations colorful, the florists have had to accommodate their activities to propagating plants that take up little space and at the same time fit in with the popular demand for color. So among other things they have once more brought to the fore the pelargonium.

This geranium does not bloom so profusely as do the other members of this rather large family of plants, but it is a case of "quality rather than quantity," for the flowers of this variety are much larger and finer than those of the more common geranium.

If you have one of these plants that has been blooming most delightfully all summer, remove the old flower stalks and set the plant in the sun to ripen its wood, and gradually withhold water, giving the plant a complete rest. About December 1 prune it into shape, removing all weak and soft shoots; shake the soil from its roots and repot the plant into the same pot.

During the midwinter months give it only a small amount of water. As it grows pinch out the shoots in order to get a well-shaped plant; also take out any weak branches that may start.

In February, as the buds begin to develop, discontinue pinching out the branches. As soon as the plant has set its buds and they begin to show color, begin feeding it liquid manure, a half cupful every three weeks. Do not use strong manure for this purpose. Also water the plant once every day. This, you will note, is quite different from the treatment required by other geraniums, which must be kept a trifle potbound on the dry side and never given food.

The Martha Washington geranium is prone to attacks of red spider and also of the aphids. The way to prevent these insects from really harming your plant is to syringe the plant continually with nicotine. It will repay you to make this routine treatment, spraying thoroughly once each week.

BAKED CARAMEL CUSTARD.
(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

One quart of milk.
Five eggs.
One-half cup sugar.
One-half teaspoon vanilla.
Four tablespoons caramel sirup.
One-quarter teaspoon salt.
Butter.

Heat the milk slightly with the sugar, salt and caramel. Be sure the caramel is entirely dissolved before this mixture is poured into the lightly beaten eggs. Add the vanilla. Pour the mixture into custard cups and add a small piece of butter to each. Bake in a pan surrounded by water in a moderate oven. Test by placing the point of a knife in the center of the custard and if it comes out clean remove the cups of custard at once from the hot water. The custards may be served either hot or cold with caramel sirup if more of the caramel flavor is desired.

Sugar can be caramelized easily by placing it in a heavy skillet over slow, even heat, and stirring it constantly until it melts and becomes a heavy brown sirup. As soon as it reaches this stage take it from the fire at once, and use it for flavoring and sweetening the custard.

Ball Climaxes Armistice Day Program Here

Dignitaries Cooperate in Making Colorful Dance Success.

With all the sparkle and brilliance lent by the ceremony of a military dance, the Armistice ball last night at the Mayflower definitely inaugurated what promises to be a gay and thrilling season. In a setting where color mingled with the stir and excitement of military airs and where notable folk moved among the dancers or chatted in flag-hung boxes, the ball got under way to mark the climax of Armistice Day and form the outstanding party among the ten that have been given previously by the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Flowers and brilliant lights, flags and martial airs settled comfortably into the background of the evening which was climaxed by the arrival of the Vice President, Mr. Charles Curtis, and his party about 9 o'clock. To the fanfare of drums, the party, including also the Vice President's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Everett Gann, and Mrs. Charles P. George, was escorted to the box. The Secretary of War and Mrs. Patrick J. Hurley also were in the Vice President's box, as were Senator and Mrs. Henry J. Allen, Mrs. Harris, Maj. Charles Demonet and Maj. John M. Eager.

Everywhere one turned the national colors added brilliance to the scene. Even the "buds" were in frocks of red or white or blue, and were accorded special escort to their boxes. Palms and autumn foliage formed a background for the flags of all nations, and over the President's box hung the national flag.

Many men were in uniform and in the boxes were veterans of the World War, enjoying the party which was arranged to do them honor. In a scene of gayety and brilliance these were the only reminders of the struggle which ended twelve years ago.

Stationed in the long corridor was the Overseas Drum and Bugle Corps to escort the honor guests to the large ballroom, where they were received by members of the floor committee, headed by Admiral Robert E. Coontz, vice commander of veterans and honorary chairman of the committee on arrangements, and the commander in chief of the veterans, Mr. Paul C. Wolman, who came from Akron, Ohio, by airplane to attend the ball.

Also in the receiving line were Mrs. Coontz, Admiral and Mrs. Frederick Bullard, Maj. Gen. and Mrs. Herbert C. Crosby, Col. and Mrs. D. P. Pepplow, Maj. James W. Boyer, and Capt. and Mrs. Edwin S. Bettelheim, jr.

Among those who had taken boxes were the Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Charles Francis Adams, Mrs. Jacob Leander Loose, Mrs. Frank B. Noyes, Mrs. Goff, wife of Senator Guy D. Goff, Mrs. Thomas F. Walsh, Mme. Paul Lesinoff, Mr. William Phelps Eno, Col. and Mrs. U. S. Grant 3d, Mrs. Daniel Wing, Judge and Mrs. Eugene O. Sykes, Mrs. Henry Alvah Strong and Mr. Joseph P. Tumulty. Many of those taking boxes had turned them over to the use of World War veterans.

A few minutes before 10 o'clock the blare of drums heralded the arrival of Gen. John J. Pershing and shortly afterward Mr. Henry L. Stimson, Secretary of State, entered to the fanfare of trumpets. Later, the Secretary of State, the Secretary of War and Gen. Pershing gave short talks, which were broadcast.

Gen. John J. Pershing's arrival signified another successful phase of the ball and soon he was surrounded by friends as the general dancing began. In the glittering background formed by the evening dress of the guests and uniforms of many in the boxes the dancers moved to the excellent music while flags fluttered and additional groups entered the ballroom. A feature of the ball was a program by local theater artists who gave their services in the interest of the veterans.

The debutantes added greatly to the success of the ball, disposing of a number of tickets in the popular younger set group of the Capital. Miss Margene Musser, debutante daughter of Col. and Mrs. R. C. Musser, headed the group to attend the ball and among those who were with her were Miss Ruth Gullion, Miss June Cushing, Miss Lucille Swift, Miss Virginia Glazebrook, Miss Katharine Kingman and Miss Elizabeth Edson.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE.

Why He Reads.

Studies which have been made of children's reading indicate that a child reads for three reasons.

He reads or asks to be read to because of a wish to explore the world beyond that of his immediate concrete experience; because he may satisfy cravings unfulfilled in real life; and because he likes to imitate his elders.

The natural curiosity concerning things beyond children's immediate experience gives us our opportunity to open through books worlds of knowledge which it would take them years to acquire in real life, and which they might otherwise never acquire at all.

Folk tales and fairy stories may be regarded as satisfying the wish fulfillment motive. They tell how right conquers might, how the youngest and weakest wins immeasurable wealth and lifelong happiness through some magic trick or the intercession of a fairy godmother.

The instances of effortless gratifications with which this sort of literature abounds obviously bring to the child in fantasy what he can not hope to acquire even in part until after long years of effort.

The wish fulfillment motive offers opportunity for experiences of beauty, and release from the difficulties of being a child.

The child brought up in a home where the grown-ups read a good deal naturally accepts books as a source of pleasure. His own ability to read and enjoy books makes him feel, too, that he is growing up, since he is about to do what grown-ups do.

Obviously a child will only develop proper reading habits in a home where grown-ups set him a good example.

Your Name

WHAT DOES IT MEAN?

By HARRY A. DEFFERARI, Ph. D.

THE family names "Watt," "Watts," "Watson" and "Wattson" mean "the son of Walter." "Wat" was the popular shortened form of "Walter" in England, especially during the thirteenth and fourteenth centuries. "Walter" is ultimately of Teutonic origin, and means "mighty army." Various forms of the above family names occur with a great variety of spellings in the earliest English documents.

The family name "Maybee" (also spelled "Maybie" and "Mabie") is a variation of the personal name "Mabel," and is therefore one of the relatively few family names which are based on the names of women. "Mabel," in turn, is a shortened form of "Amabel," which is of French and ultimately of Latin origin, and means "lovable" and "amiable." However, in a few cases the above family names are found as variations of the Celtic "Mab," which means "the son" or "the youth." A certain Agnes Mabb is mentioned in an English document of the year 1879.

The family name "Doran" is a modern shortened form of the original Irish "O Deoradain" which means "the descendant of Deoradan." "Deoradain" was an old personal name meaning "the exile" and "the stranger." It is especially common in Leinster.

The family name "Vogt" is of German origin. It means "overseer," "bailiff," and "steward."

ACID CONDITION

the common cause of pain and discomfort after eating--

GET RID of your dread of pain after eating. Eat without fear of "indigestion," sour stomach, disagreeable gas or headaches.

When your food ferments, "disagrees," lies like a lump in your stomach, it's a sign of too much acid. You need not resort to crude methods—take instead an anti-acid that will correct the condition. Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

A spoonful of this pleasant-tasting, soothing fluid neutralizes many times its volume of acid. It restores the proper alkaline balance to an acid-soaked stomach and bowels—assists these organs to function as they should.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia is what you need when a bad breath, coated tongue, headaches, nausea or biliousness indicates an over-acid condition. Take a spoonful today and for several days and see how it sweetens the system. You won't be nearly so liable to colds or sickness. All drug-stores—in 25c and 50c bottles.

KOTEX

WHY do you suppose our outstanding hospitals, staffed by world-famous surgeons, make it a point to specify Kotex? There's more than one reason!

In the first place, it is hygienically safe. In the second place, it is amazingly absorbent—and that is vital for all surgical purposes. Actually—think of this—Kotex is five times as absorbent as the finest surgical cotton! The material of which it is made (Cellucotton—not cotton—absorbent wadding) is laid layer upon air-cooled layer. And each one of these delicate layers is a quick, complete absorbent in itself.

Because it is so absorbent and because it absorbs scientifically (not just in one concentrated area, but all over) Kotex naturally stays soft. It is guaranteed to stay soft longer than any other sanitary pad.

13,000,000 pads to hospitals alone

To give you an idea of the great weight of hospital approval in back of this first of all sanitary pads, the hospitals of America bought 13,000,000 Kotex pads during the first nine months of this year. Then, added to this number, they bought 2,500,000 pounds of Kotex absorbent—which is enough to make 80,000,000 more pads.

Hospitals need the best. So do you. Safety, security, good health demand it. Why should you be content with anything else when you can buy Kotex everywhere?—at all drug, dry goods and department stores. You ask for it by name. Simply specify: Kotex.

KOTEX IS SOFT . . .

1 Not a deceptive softness, that soon packs into chafing hardness. But a delicate, downy softness that lasts for hours.

2 The Kotex filler is far lighter and cooler than cotton, yet absorbs 5 times as much.

3 In hospitals—Kotex is the identical material used by surgeons in 85% of the country's leading hospitals.

4 Deodorizes . . . safely, thoroughly, by a special process.

5 Disposable, completely, instantly.

Regular Kotex—45c for 12
Kotex Super-Size—65c for 12

The NEW KOTEX BELT

CHAPTER 38.

Ten minutes later found Inspector Linscott posting his two aids and going blithely up in the elevator with the accommodating surgeon. They rang and waited. As, after several minutes, there was no response to their repeated ringings and knocks, the inspector began to look anxious. He was meditating on his next action, when the porter, alarmed by the disturbance, arrived on the scene.

"Can you let me in here?" asked Linscott, explaining quickly his errand.

"I can, sir. But Mr. Bentley left about fifteen minutes ago, sir," was the answer.

"And where's his valet?"

"Valet? He had none, sir. Not that I knows of!"

"Damn!" muttered the crest-fallen inspector. "It must have been that message of yours." He turned to the surgeon.

"But I didn't give any hint——" he started to protest.

"The fellow's an astute devil! He doesn't need a hint. The mere fact of your coming again made him suspicious. But now we are here we may as well go in and have a look." He motioned the porter to unlock the door.

The porter promptly obeyed and, leading the way, turned up the lights. They found themselves in a comfortable sitting room. It was the usual bachelor's apartment, well furnished, but with the customary additions of personal taste. There were elks' horns on the walls and over the doors and large photographs of Canadian scenery. Over the mantel was a small collection of weapons, such as Canadian trappers might have, which included a half-dozen of knives. Evidently Donald Flint, alias Morris Bentley—for he was now sure that they were one and the same—had retained a sentimental attachment for the country of his birth, where he had spent so many years of his life. One would think these fellows would like to forget the place where they committed their crimes and would keep such reminders out of sight; but no! There was evidently some fascination for them in souvenirs of violence, which doubtless exercised a curious hypnotic effect over their possessors. On the table was a half-used box of cigars, a half-dozen pipes and a tobacco pouch, evidently forgotten in their owner's haste to make good his escape.

But there was no time to lose. In silence the small party proceeded into the bedroom. Here everything was in great disorder. The bed showed that it had recently been slept in. The covers had evidently been flung aside with violence. The chest of drawers, all of which were open, had been ransacked and some of their contents strewn about the floor. It was quite clear that their owner was in a desperate hurry to get away. Seeing a telephone by the bed, Inspector Linscott suddenly bethought himself and, going up to the small table, picked up the instrument.

"God!" he exclaimed. "The fellow has cut the wire!"

He rapidly scanned the desk on which the instrument had been standing. Then searched the drawers. From one he drew forth an envelope with a smothered exclamation. Sir Phineas leaned forward to read over his shoulder:

"Donald Flint, Esq., Curzon street, London, W."

"That proves he's your man! I thought so when you came to me!" The surgeon's voice rang with a new note of excitement.

"I wish it told me where he had absconded to," was the answer. After a moment's thought the inspector added: "We'd better be getting up to Curzon street. Something tells me that is where he went from here, though how he hopes to escape my men. . . . I can drop you on the way or you can get a taxi just outside. There is a stand near the Strand. You've no idea how I appreciate the help you've been in leading me to this lair!"

The porter, who had been watching and listening in amazement, now asked: "If Mr. Bentley comes back here, what shall I do?"

"Nothing," Linscott answered good-naturedly. "I'll leave a couple of my men to attend to him. But he won't come back. Never fear!" There was a ring of confidence in the inspector's voice. "He left here in a hurry, and he left for good, if I know anything about desperate men. I'll leave a man on guard just outside the door."

The inspector gave his men rapid directions, and after a hasty farewell to the surgeon was in a taxi speeding toward Mayfair. The surgeon stood staring wistfully after the departing vehicle. His latent sense of adventure had been stirred in the half hour he spent with the inspector, and he would gladly have foregone dinner for the privilege of pursuing the adventure to its finish.

Linscott stopped his taxi around a corner, out of sight of the entrance to Flint's house, and giving the man an exorbitant tip, hurried up to a stranger who was loitering not far from the house.

"Has any one gone in?" he asked in undertone.

The nondescript idler replied, "No, inspector; no one but a lame beggar——"

"A what? When?" interrupted the inspector excitedly.

"About ten minutes ago, a lame beggar. He must have been all right, for I saw Jim speak to him and then let him go in." Jim was the other idler who was lounging immediately in front of the entrance.

"Is the place surrounded?"

"Entirely, sir. There's twelve of us."

"Very well. You draw nearer," he ordered. "I have a burning desire to see this lame beggar."

"There he comes now," replied the other as a stooped man with a long beard and colored muffler came up from the basement of the house on crutches. "He's probably a relative of one of the servants . . . ."

His explanation was falling on vacant air. By this time Inspector Linscott was facing the lame beggar and eyeing him narrowly in the low light of the street lamps.

A shrill whistle rent the night air. There was a scuffle and several shots. A scream . . . then a moan. And the beggar was lying handcuffed on the ground, surrounded by Inspector Linscott and several of his men.

"Trapped, by God!" muttered the prostrate man. "Curse you——"

"Yes, my man, trapped! A trappet trapped! High time, too!" Then, changing his voice, Inspector Linscott turned quickly to the assisting men:

"We'll take him right down to the station. A couple of you hunt up his car and bring it around. It must be near. He's never walked any distance in his condition."

It was a sullen, silent man who rode between the inspector and one of his men in his own limousine driven by his own bewildered chauffeur, who, guided by a policeman's pistol, directed the car to headquarters.

And it was an exultant inspector who rode beside him.

Robin was free! He had been free for almost two months, but even in that time had not actually accustomed himself to the sense of safety which the days of incarceration had so rudely torn from him. The feeling of exultation remained; he walked on air, as it were, and often repeated to himself: "Free! Free! Free!"

This hot August morning he was seated at his desk in his room in Mecklenburg Square, very much as he had been seated on that morning which seemed so long ago, when Lady Dorothy had first called on him and issued the thrilling invitation. He was writing a poem. He had written many poems, both while confined and since, as if a spurt of creativeness were released by his trouble. The reception given his last book had also acted as a stimulus. He would smile mockingly whenever any one congratulated him on its success and remark: "It takes a sojourn in jail to make the public appreciate one's work!" But the kindness of the critics had really touched him more than he admitted, and he was determined to show them and the rest of the world that he could write better poems as well as act the man!

He paused in his work and reviewed in retrospect the last weeks. He had been released the morning after the capture of Bru'n Peters, alias Donald Flint, alias Morris Bentley. Lady Dorothy, accompanied by Lady Gwendolen, had met him at the jail, and he had been driven to his room in London in the same limousine which had brought him to the fatal week-end. The nightmare was over, but for Robin it would never be over. It had left an indelible impress on his mind, and from time to time he would relive those days of humiliation and agony

Jobless Wife Says Mate Developed Hate for Her

Because she gave up her job, Mrs. Sarah A. Silliman, of A street northeast, near Seventh street, told the District Supreme Court her husband developed a "violent hatred" toward her. This statement was made in a suit for limited divorce filed yesterday in District Supreme Court by Mrs. Silliman against the husband, Walter B. Silliman, said to be a practicing dentist of New York avenue northwest, near Ninth street.

The couple was married February 26, 1927, according to the wife's bill. Until March, 1928, she asserts, they lived happily. At that time, she says, she gave up her position and alleges that since then she has been in fear that her husband would do her bodily harm. Attorney Martin F. O'Donoghue appears for the woman.

Hollywood Screen Life

By HUBBARD KEAVY.

Hollywood.—L. A. Howland has a business without competition.

He collects research photographs and "insert material" such as wine lists, hotel labels, telephone books, newspapers—one of the many offshoots of picture making.

GARY COOPER

Each studio could not afford to have a department devoted solely to finding out what French hotels or Russian railway stations look like, or the name of a business street in Sydney, Australia. So Howland's one-man bureau, only one of its kind, does this work.

Howland as a movie executive saw the need of such information because so many technical inaccuracies were committed. He decided in 1921 to gather such material.

He spent the better part of a year traveling abroad, buying telephone directories, time tables, maps, photographs, railroad tickets, marriage licenses, and the like.

Now, when a studio is planning to build a replica of London's Charing Cross Station, it phones Howland for the photographs he has of that place. With these views as guides, carpenters and painters reproduce as much of Charing Cross as is required.

Outposts.

An "insert" in a motion picture is any printed matter necessary to the story and reproduced on the screen. It maybe anything from a Chinese time table to a Persian check stub.

Howland has correspondents all over the world who are continually sending him new material and pictures. If the dock front at Versailles undergoes a radical change, a photographer sends a picture of it to Hollywood.

In Howland's files are approximately 15,000 photos and 7,000 insert pieces, representing an investment of nearly $25,000.

Busy.

Take it from Gary Cooper, a movie star is kept busy. In the last ten months he has made 29 personal appearances, attended 52 dinners, had 75 interviews and made 20 tests.

Tests are taken before each picture is started to determine the proper color of make-up and the photographic values of costumes, and to try out other players who may play opposite the star.

Gary has worked in seven pictures so far this year, spending about 100 days before the cameras.

IN THE PLAYHOUSE

By JOHN J. DALY.

INSTEAD of going straight into New York, Mr. David Belasco took his new play, "Tonight or Never," over to Baltimore after its premiere in the Belasco Theater last week. This time next week the play, with Miss Helen Gahagan as its star, will brave the elements of Broadway.

* * * *

Mr. Gilbert Miller, head of the House of Frohman, is in Washington for the week, watching the preliminary practice marches of what amounts almost to an all-star cast in "Marseilles," the latest play by Marcel Pagnol, author of "Topaze." Next week Mr. Miller sponsors the engagement of Katherine Cornell in "Dishonored Lady," an old-established success that is rated by Burns Mantle and other authorities on the drama as amongst the best ten plays of the 1929-1930 season.

* * * *

Mary Boland has a new play, written for her by Paul Osborn. Called "The Vinegar Tree," it has as its setting a country house in nearby Maryland—one of those gorgeous old colonial places out in Montgomery County, where the young bloods gather for week-end parties. The play, now in Hartford, Conn., will be taken into New Haven tomorrow night for the edification of Yale students and then on into New York. Maryland has not been so represented in the theater since the days of Mrs. Leslie Carter, who played "In the Heart of Maryland."

* * * *

Before making its onslaught on the Nation's Capital, Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" is entertaining audiences in Baltimore town this week. After the Saturday night closing the company will move over to Washington, starting the week's engagement next Sunday night in the National Theater. An old favorite of the music halls, Mr. Will Mahoney, who danced his way to fame at Keith's on Fifteenth street, heads the "Sketch Book" cast. Incidentally, this is the only revue on the road.

* * * *

Ed Wynn, who was here not so long ago in "Simple Simon," is having an unusual experience—playing to good business in his old home town, Philadelphia. To uphold the tradition that a prophet is without honor, and a comedian without profit, in his own land, the Philadelphians usually turned cold shoulders to Edward and his presentations This time, however, they have come to see the light—that their head man in the comedy field is about as funny as any on the stage. Washington, paying the highest prices of the season, sent Mr Wynn away happy.

* * * *

An unusual happening took place on Broadway last night. A play that had run an entire season, closed and went on the road, came back to the street of streets. This was John Drinkwater's "Bird in Hand," which had 500 performances at various theaters to its credit. The Shuberts had intended to send the play here, but made other arrangements. In its return engagement, "Bird in Hand" goes back to Broadway with a cast made up of actors and actresses who appeared in two road companies sent out last year—another innovation

* * * *

Mr. L. J. Fosse, manager of the Auditorium, having cleared the floor after the great industrial exposition setting forth the glories of Washington, is now getting ready for the arrival of John Philip Sousa and his band—next week. It seems that, after the Passion Play rolled up records at the Auditorium box office, Mr. Fosse decided to put the house back on the theatrical map. So he has booked many attractions, all the way from prize fights to concerts—and the Sousa engagement leads the list.

* * * *

"School Girl," a novel written by Carmen Barnes, and which had quite a sale in high school circles, has now been made into a play and will take the Ritz Theater, in New York, by storm on the night of November 19. After that there are the motion-picture rights, if Mr. Will Hays lends a willing ear.

Stormwater Sewers Are to Cost $11,600

Plans for stormwater sewers in Quincy street northeast, between Twentieth and Twenty-second streets, and in Perry street northeast between Twenty-second and Twenty-fourth streets, were approved by the District Commissioners yesterday at an estimated cost of $11,600.

The two lines of sewers will contain a total of 1,140 feet of two-foot and three-foot pipe. It is proposed to construct the sewers in advance of the paving of Quincy street between Twenty-first and Twenty-second street, and of Perry street for the entire distance of the proposed sewer, in accordance with the Highway Department's paving schedule.

Radio Principle in Tiniest Hearing Aid
The principles of radio are now applied to a new aid for the deafened, called Trutonophons. German inventive genius has turned radio principles to the use of those who suffer from poor hearing. The result is the smallest, most effective hearing aid now known.
All but the stone deaf can now look forward to effortless hearing. Even whispers become audible. For Trutonophons is different from any past or present aid for the deafened. It incorporates every desired feature that the deafened have ever wished for in a hearing aid.
Trutonophons, a new development of the Deutche Akustik Gesellshaft of Berlin, Germany, is of vest pocket size, no bigger than a watch, but more rugged and durable. It is one hearing aid that is perfectly noiseless in operation. It reproduces neither body vibrations nor extraneous noises yet it is so powerful as to provide true-to-tone hearing for even the severely deafened.
Trutonophons truly provides relief. It provides comfortable hearing in church, lecture hall, in theatre and in concert hall, and it is absolutely guaranteed. Entire apparatus weighs 4½ ounces.
The manufacturers of Radio Trutonophons make no exaggerated claims or statements — they want you to test Trutonophons yourself. Compare Trutonophons with any instrument you have ever used, at the office listed, or in your home.

TWO MEN INDICTED; MURDERS CHARGED

One of Causing Death by Burning, Other of Killing Wife.

AUTO DEATHS CHARGED

Two first degree murder indictments and two true bills charging manslaughter in connection with deaths by automobiles were features of report of the District grand jury made yesterday to Justice Oscar R. Luhring in District Supreme Court.

Twenty-seven indictments were returned and in 17 cases presented indictments were not returned.

James Hickson Williams, alias Jesse H. Williams, Negro, who last week was indicted four times on charges of arson in connection with fires at three apartment houses and a dwelling-store, was indicted yesterday on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of Miss Jessie Cammack. The woman was burned to death on the night of October 3 when the Denver apartments, at 1419 Chapin street northwest, was partially destroyed.

Roy Bradley, Negro, was indicted on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of his wife, Sadie Elizabeth Bradley, last May 17 at a house on A street northeast near First street.

Melvin J. Knott is accused of manslaughter in connection with the death September 25 of William Palmer, a Negro boy. The boy is alleged to have been struck and killed by Knott's automobile at the intersection of First and N streets southwest.

A manslaughter charge is contained in an indictment against Raymond Percy Leinear. He is alleged to have struck down and fatally injured Leland Oscar Wright on the night of October 1 on Blair road, near Varnum street. Wright died the next day.

Hotel Cashier Indicted.

Meredith Nichols, night cashier at the Wardman Park Hotel, was named in an indictment charging embezzlement from the United Realties, Inc., operators of the hostelry. The bill charges that Nichols appropriated $90 of the hotel's funds September 22, 1930.

Louis Williams, Negro, was named in two indictments charging assault with a dangerous weapon and assault with intent to kill. One indictment charges the Negro with having snapped a loaded pistol in the face of Policeman Charles Clay, jr., of the Seventh Precinct.

Assault With Intent to Kill.

Charges of assault with dangerous weapon and assault with intent to kill also are contained in an indictment returned against Calvin Chattman, Negro, former watchman at a new building being erected on Georgia avenue northwest, south of W street. Chattman is alleged to have shot John Smith, Negro, former workman on the building, last October 21, when the former is said to have intruded in an argument.

Three white men, Nathan Sondheimer, Joseph H. Pier and Charles A. Garner, are charged with housebreaking and larceny in connection with the theft of five automatic pistols from the storehouse of the 200th Coast Artillery at Water and O streets southwest last August 28.

Snatching Pocketbooks.

Alleged to have snatched the pocketbooks of two women on the night of November 1, John Byrd, Negro, was indicted twice by the grand jury.

Roland Dorsey and Thomas LePage were indicted on a robbery charge in connection with the holdup of S. Dracos on the night of November 2 in front of 740 Ninth street northwest. The two men are alleged to have struck the victim over the head with a bottle and to have robbed him of $27.

Police Investigate Kidnaping of Girl

Little Hope of Solving Case Reported by Child, 10, Held by Officers.

Police last night were still investigating, with little hope of finding a solution, the story told by Bessie Thompson, 10 years old, 582 Minnesota avenue northeast, that she was kidnaped by two strange persons Monday afternoon, taken for a long ride and then put out of the automobile on Benning road.

She was found there by her teachers, Miss Elizabeth Clark and Miss Laura Buff, following a report by Mrs. Willis Shapiro, the girl's foster mother, that Bessie was missing. The girl's father, Franklin Thompson, lives at 315 Thirteenth street southwest.

According to the girl's story, as told to Lieut. D. J. Cullinane, of the Eleventh Precinct, she was seized as she was returning to school after the noon recess, placed in a car with a man and woman, forced to eat candy, peanuts and some "pasty" stuff. After a long ride she was released.

Quake Lasting 3 Hours Recorded at Georgetown

Frederick Sohon, director of Georgetown University Seismological Observatory, announced yesterday that records of his instruments showed an earthquake occurred Monday lasting more than three hours.

The disturbance began at 9:03:25 a. m., with the second wave at 9:06:40 a. m. The greatest motion was at 9:52 a. m., and the end of the visible readings appeared at 12:30 p. m. While the location could not be definitely determined, it was thought the disturbance centered about 6,000 miles from Washington in a southwesterly direction.

U. S. APPRENTICES TO STICK TO TRADE

PAID TO LEARN PRINTING

Government Printing Office apprentices henceforth must confine themselves strictly to printing as a trade, at least while they are in training, and their pursuit of law, medical or any other professional studies is taboo.

Public Printer George Carter issued a verbal order to this effect to curb a tendency which, he declared, was manifest in the Government Printing Office, where several apprentices are enrolled at local universities and colleges for studies, particularly in law.

"The order goes into effect immediately, but inasmuch as some of the apprentices already are pursuing their professional studies and have paid for their tuition in several cases they will be allowed to continue at school until the end of this scholastic year next May or June," he said.

"The Government is paying these young men to learn the printing trade and we don't intend to have them trying to become lawyers or doctors at the same time. We don't propose to have any jack-of-all-trades in the office. We hold the belief that their acceptance of pay to learn printing tends to become an act of accepting money under false pretenses when they turn to professional studies also."

BALLOU OUTLINES SCHOOLS' GROWTH

31 New Buildings and 36 Additions Built in Last 10 Years, He Notes.

HELD AS UNPARALLELED

Washington received 31 new school buildings in the last ten years and 36 additions to schools, according to the seventh chapter of the annual report of Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou, made public yesterday.

Of the new buildings, 22 were elementary schools, 7 were junior high and 2 were senior high. Of the additions, 29 were for elementary schools, 5 were to junior high schools, 2 were to senior high schools and 1 was an addition to the vocational schools.

The ten years covered are from July 1, 1920 to June 30, 1930. The tabulation prepared by Dr. Ballou shows that during this period, the elementary schools received 366 new classrooms and 18 assembly gymnasiums. On the basis of a maximum standard of 40 pupils per class, the classrooms constructed by elementary school pupils have provided accommodations for 14,640 pupils. etived cmfwy bgkq awok awod awdw

For 13,000 High School Pupils.

Facilities were provided for 6,950 senior high school pupils and 6,100 senior high school pupils. Eight classrooms were added to the vocational school system. In making these figures public, Superintendent Ballou draws attention to the fact that the use of certain schoolhouses has been abandoned during the 10-year period, so that the new construction does not represent a net increase in the capacity of the public schools.

The schoolhouse construction noted is said to be without parallel in the history of the schools of Washington. The achievement is attributed by Superintendent Ballou to the unified efforts of the community and those governmental agencies connected with legislation and appropriations.

"The movement to secure more adequate schoolhouse accommodations was begun early in 1920 and has received more attention during the ten-year period than any other school matter," Superintendent Ballou observes in the latest installment of his report.

Began From Survey in 1920.

This movement began with a survey of congested conditions in the schools in 1920 and was followed by congressional hearings in 1922 and 1923, and culminated in the enactment of the five-year school building program act in 1925.

Other agencies to whom Superintendent Ballou expresses gratitude for the rapid progress in school building are: An enlightened and united public, active leadership of the school authorities, a sympathetic Board of Commissioners, "wise counsel" of the Bureau of the Budget, and "helpful, painstaking examination of school needs followed by recommendations for unusually large appropriations by the committees of Congress."

Christian Science Lecture Is Given

London Speaker Talks on "Absoluteness and Omnipotence."

A lecture on "Christian Science: The Omnipotence of God," was delivered last evening in Third Church of Christ, Scientist by Ralph B. Scholfield, of London, England. Mr. Scholfield is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist in Boston, Mass. He was introduced by Clarke F. Hunn, First Reader of Third Church, under whose auspices the lecture was given. The lecturer said in part:

"Let us see now how Jesus used his knowledge of the absoluteness and omnipotence of God. The most outstanding feature of the accounts of his life in the Gospels is undoubtedly what are called the miracles, or what we may, term his control over evil, disease, and material conditions. If we were to take out of the Gospels all the works of the Master there would indeed be no evidence left that he proved what he taught, or that his teaching would really save from sin, disease, and death. That he preached the omnipotence of God there is no doubt.

"As Christian Scientists, we are convinced that his great works were no mere spectacular or supernatural exhibitions, but that they were done to illustrate the fact that God, Spirit, or Love, can be subject to no material conditions whatsoever; that is, that God is omnipotent and absolute."

Doctors Say Alcoholism Caused Death of Man

Samuel Baseman, 53 years old, said to live at 402 H street northwest, suddenly became ill while at 401 Massachusetts avenue northwest, where he was employed, yesterday morning. He was rushed to Casualty Hospital, where he died shortly afterward.

According to staff physicians, the man's death was caused by alcoholism, and the coroner later issued a certificate of death which was attributed to that cause. The deceased is a brother of Walter Baseman, of 217 H street northwest, who was notified by police of the death.

If the Goofus Gluck starts moaning in the morning
Then you know that it will hail before the night,
For a Goofus Gluck is born with a sympathetic corn
Which hurts him when the weather isn't right.

The Gluck knows when it will be fair and warmer
And when and where the lightning bolt will strike,
As he foretells the tempest's roar whene'er his corn gets sore
Goofus papers print his forecasts every night!

Baby Mine

POP SAYS THERE ARE TWO SIDES TO EVERY QUESTION AND THE MAN NEXT DOOR IS WRONG ON BOTH OF THEM.

SPORTS The Washington Post. SPORTS

WASHINGTON: WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 12, 1930. 15

EASTERN TROUNCES CENTRAL, 18-0, IN SERIES UPSET

Westbrook Pegler Says

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—If I know the end of an era when I see one, this is what I would call the end of an era in sport when Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney fade out together, when Tilden loses the singles championship and Babe Ruth decides, after seventeen years in baseball, to play one year more and quit. Also, Bobby Jones will be withdrawing from the big tournaments starting next summer, so that by the end of 1931 five of the greatest athletic showmen in the world will have come and been and gone.

Yes, if an era is what I think it is, that is the tail of an era dragging itself off the yard at the present moment, and a very robust, walloping era it was, to be sure.

I wonder if there are any more such eras coming and, if so, when. I like my eras big and boisterous, and I am going to be hard to suit until another squad of champions comes along together to clang the welkin and stir the partisans as those boys did.

Showmen, Both, But Utterly Opposite Types.

It was curious about Tunney and Dempsey. Both were showmen of strong personality and utterly opposite, and they happened into their rivalry at a time when this country was so rich that common laborers were burning their wages in the streets like dead leaves to avoid the excess profit tax. They drew a couple of million dollars in Philadelphia, and within a year they were back in the ring in Chicago, fighting before $2,600,000 worth of trade.

They hated one another and they broke off still hating and all even. Tunney pasted up Dempsey's face in the first fight, but in the second one, Dempsey sat him down and also made him cut and run. They divided the money about evenly, so, in a sense, they were necessary to one another in two big business deals and, maybe, ought to be friends. But I don't believe they ever will be and certainly hope they won't. That would be a betrayal of the millions who took up their respective hates for them and hated back and forth on their behalf.

People Hate Dempsey Because of Admiration of Tunney.

People hate Dempsey to this day, who never even saw the man, merely because they admired Tunney, and vice versa. It would be a mawkish end to a drama of two good hates, and from an artistic standpoint, it would be quite wrong if the lads should ever have their picture taken crunching thin toast and sipping tea poured from the same pot. Let them hate as long as they live and live as long as they are able to hate, and, as Mr. Tunney himself might phrase it, curst be he who first yelps "Hold, enough."

The Babe's home run record has been pretty thoroughly debunked. They gave him an oversized golf ball to paddle and he paddled it for 59 home runs one season and 60 in another. There were several reasons and some lucky accidental causes for this change in the bouncing ingredient in the ball, all of which have been exposed long since, but the fact always will remain that this naive walloper, up from a reform school in Baltimore, paddled the same ball that some 400 other major leaguers were swinging at and paddled it on an average 100 per cent harder.

Babe Replies for Benefit of Analytical Souls.

When he first began to bounce these golf balls over the outfield barriers some learned minds endeavored to analyze his swing in terms of rhythm, impact, leverage and precision, but the Babe, on his part, merely said, "I hit 'em big or I miss 'em big." At any rate, he changed spiritually and socially as he progressed in his trade. A wild, carousing John L. Sullivan kind of youth when he first arrived, he spent a few seasons and a quarter of a million dollars having a hilarious time, then cooled off, took some thought of the obligations of one so popular, and became a very Babbitt of a public figure.

He can make a harmless address at a public meeting now; he is very substantial in the commercial sense, and his social character is such that the reform school of which he is an alumnus need never deny the Babe as one of its old grads. Incidentally, the Babe's absolute honesty about his beginnings is not the least of his charms.

Tunney Given Mara Suit Verdict

Crowd Grasps Hand of Fighter; Hoff Suit Now Looms.

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Gene Tunney saved the largest purse but one of his entire career today when a jury in Supreme Court ruled in his favor and against Timothy J. Mara's suit for $526,812.42 for alleged breach of contract.

The verdict for the retired heavyweight boxing champion, delivered by Justice Hatting after an hour and a half of deliberation, saved Tunney a quarter of the two-million dollar fortune he piled up in the ring, a fortune in which Mara claimed he was entitled to share because he had contracted orally with Gene in 1926 to help him get a title fight with Jack Dempsey and to "advise, cooperate and assist" him through his ring career.

Excitement as Jurors Return to Court.

There was excitement in the courtroom as the jurors who have been listening to testimony since October 30 filed back into their seats at 1:10 p. m. Tunney, taut and stern, sat with clenched hands at his counsel's table. Mara was not in the courtroom.

Joseph Goldberg, foreman of the jury, rose to answer the court's question as to whether a verdict had been reached.

"We find for the defendant," he said, and Tunney leaned back and sighed.

The crowds that had waited in the corridors brushed attendants aside and stormed the retired champion. Tunney shook hands with the jurors, thanked them and faced the onrushing mob as he used to when king of the fisticuffers, smiling now and affable.

He clasped as many hands as could reach him, sneaked away for a moment to telephone the good news to his wife, the former Polly Lauder, of Greenwich, Conn., and then faced a crowd of several thousand waiting for him on the courthouse steps outside. He smiled for the cameramen, posed for the movies and then mussled his way out and into an automobile, back into retirement until he faces within a few weeks another suit, brought by Max "Boo Boo" Hoff, of Philadelphia and also dating back to his ring days.

Justifies His Stand, Says Tunney.

Tunney had only a short statement to make on the verdict.

"The decision was just," he said. "It certainly justifies the stand I have taken ever since this claim was made against me, in 1926."

Goldberg, the jury foreman, told Tunney as they left the courtroom:

"It couldn't have been anything

Pirates Send Sothern To Baltimore Orioles

Pittsburgh, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Pittsburgh National League Baseball Club today announced the sale of Dennis Sothern, utility outfielder, to the Baltimore Club of the International League. The amount of money obtained for the player was not revealed. Sothern was obtained from the Philadelphia National League Club during the last season in a trade for Outfielder Brickell.

Denny Sothern, a native of Washington, long was prominent on the local sandlots as a baseball and football player. He was signed by the Phillies three years ago from the Blue Ridge League, and, until traded at the tag-end of last season, was the team's regular center fielder. Sothern was noted for his fly-chasing ability and speed on the bases. With the Phillies he was a consistent, although not a heavy hitter.

N. Y. U. Style To Be Tested At Hilltop

Freshmen, Tutored in Violets' Methods, to Oppose Varsity.

Running Game of N. Y. Feared; G. U. Adds Plays.

By JACK ESPEY.

GEORGETOWN should know rather definitely what its chances are of defeating New York University Saturday in Gotham following today's scrimmage between the varsity and freshmen in Griffith Stadium.

For two days the freshmen, who, incidentally, compare favorably with the varsity in size and speed, have been learning the N. Y. U. plays and shift, and they are expected to present the Violet offense this afternoon with a fair degree of precision.

If the varsity stops the yearlings Georgetown will feel naturally that it has a good chance of winning Saturday. If the opposite occurs, then the Hilltoppers, especially the coaches, will go to New York burdened with worry.

The coaches are particularly anxious to see if the Violet running plays can be stopped. The ground attack of the New Yorkers is their mightiest weapon. It is doubtful that Georgetown can match its foe in the running game.

Line Improves in Last 2 Games.

Georgetown's uncertain line again will have its hands full, but the coaches are hopeful that it will pass the test as successfully as against Boston College and Michigan State, both of which showed powerful, swiftly moving running attacks. In the last two games the line has improved perceptibly with Muah Dubofsky, left guard, and Capt. Bill Morris leading the way.

Last year, it will be recalled, N. Y. U. owned a devastating offense built around off-tackle smashes, but the Hilltop line more than stood up against a terrific pounding. When its ground assault failed the Violet had nothing to resort to on the offense, for its passing game was wofully undeveloped.

Yesterday the Hilltoppers spent two hours drilling on new plays of their own in Griffith Stadium. These plays have purposely been saved for the forthcoming battle. New York scouts in earlier games have copied every G. U. play, but Saturday Chick Meehan's lads are certain to face something new. Most of the new maneuvers feature forward passes.

Phil Mooney, who has done creditable relief work at right half back, was the only Hilltopper not in uniform yesterday. His knees were given some nasty cracks in the Boston College clash. Head Coach Mills hopes that rest will permit Mooney to return to action in New York.

N. Y. U. Reserves Score Using Hilltop Air Plays

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, N. Y., Nov. 11.—If it's all the same to Coach Chick Meehan his New York University football squad would like to eliminate rest days between games. Monday the Violets were given the day off. Today they began working for the Georgetown game at the Yankee Stadium this Saturday and they put in one of the hardest and longest practice sessions of the current campaign.

Everything, seemingly, was tried and found wanting. Passing, kicking, defensive and offensive work were all a part of the more than two-hour workout today. For over an hour the varsity eleven, which saw its ranks changed frequently by substitutions, was at work in a drill against Georgetown plays, especially the forward passing attack as featured by the Hilltoppers.

In the middle of the field the reserve eleven had only moderate luck with its aerials. Then the two teams were taken down to the 20-yard line, the varsity defending and the reserves again tossing passes.

In this portion of the defensive session the white-shirted reserve eleven clicked oftener on its forwards and several were carried across the goal line.

Long Island U. to Play First of Charity Games

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Apparently a tiny college with a football squad of 23 men is going to steal the limelight from the big fellows and play the first game for the benefit of the unemployed.

Long Island University announced today that 50 per cent of the proceeds of a match with the Coast Guard Academy of New London, Conn., in Brooklyn Saturday night would be turned over to James Walker's committee on unemployment.

EASTERN END GAINS ON PASS AGAINST CENTRAL

NEW YORKERS WIN GOLF PURSE

Macfarlane and Cox Have Best Ball of 132 at Pinehurst.

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Willie Macfarlane, of Tuckahoe, N. Y., winner of the 1929 United States open golf championship, and Wilfred "Willy" Cox, of Brooklyn, N. Y., today won the eleventh annual Mid-South best ball match for professionals with a score of 132.

In the 36-hole event, the leaders turned in two rounds of 68 to give them the $600 first prize money. Macfarlane and Cox shot consistent golf, scoring 33 for each of the four nine holes.

Second prize money of $400 went to Jim Dante, of Madison, N. J., and Dan Williams, of Westfield, N. J., with rounds of 67 and 66 for a total of 133.

George Heron, of Westbury, Long Island, and Willie Klein, of Williston, Long Island, took third prize money of $300 with their score of 135, made up of a morning round of 68 and afternoon score of 67.

Fourth and Fifth Places Tied.

In a tie for fourth and fifth places with the aggregate of 136 and dividing the $200 and $150 awarded for those positions, came Roland Hancock, of Lynchburg, Va., and Palmer Maples, of Rocky Mount, N. C.; Herman Barron and Tom Creavy, a Port Chester, N. Y., team, and Tom Boyd, of Stapleton, Long Island, and Cyril Walker, of Ridgewood, N. J., a former national open champion.

Warner, Foe of Shift, Adopts Play for Line

Standford University, Calif., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Coach Glenn "Pop" Warner, nationally known as a bitter opponent of the shift system, has adopted a line shift for his Stanford Football Team, it became known today.

Under Warner's new ides, the line makes a quick shift from the "C" formation which featured the open, balanced line, into the old "A" formation, with the closed, unbalanced line.

Stoneham Reelected President of Giants

New York, Nov. 11 (A. P.).—Reports of a change in the organization of the New York Giants were dispelled today by announcement that Charles A. Stoneham had been elected president at a meeting of the stockholders of the National Exhibition Company, the corporate identity of the baseball club.

Stoneham thus will serve his twelfth successive term as head of the organization.

The members of the board of directors also were reelected. In addition to Stoneham, they are John J. McGraw, Leo J. Bondy, Horace A. Stoneham, Ross F. Robertson, Henry A. Ferguson and William G. Kendall.

G. U. Game Excursion Ticket Demand Heavy

Ellsop authorities report an unexpectedly heavy demand for the round-trip excursion fare tickets they are selling in connection with the Georgetown-New York U. game. Through the cooperation of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Georgetown officials will run a special train to the game, leaving Friday at 4 p. m. and returning Sunday afternoon. The tickets may be procured at the Hilltop athletic office and at Spalding's. Tickets for the game are being sold exclusively at the Hilltop.

Yale and Penn Open College Court Year

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Yale and Pennsylvania, the teams that played the first game of intercollegiate basket ball on record back in 1897, will open the Eastern intercollegiate league season at Philadelphia, January 3, it was announced today when the schedule was released.

Columbia, which won the championship last season, will make its first appearance on January 10 against Princeton, at Princeton. Dartmouth and Cornell, the other members of the six-team circuit, will open on the same night against Pennsylvania and Yale, respectively.

Football in 3 Schools Menaced by Rowdyism

Fresno, Calif., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Three California high school football elevens faced suspension orders today as a result of rowdyism during games and rallies.

Fresno Technical High School's football squad was ordered disbanded by the city superintendent of schools after an attack on a referee.

Leo Wadsworth, director of the California Interscholastic Federation, said Marysville and Yuba City High would be suspended and their annual game canceled as a result of rowdyism of students.

Missiles hurled at an automobile, supposedly by Yuba City students, blinded Oscar Whiteford, 15, Marysville, in one eye. A stone thrown at Allen O'Banion, 15, Yuba City, when he rode too near the Marysville bonfire, fractured his skull.

DEKUH STAYS ROUTE WITH STRIBLING

Crowd Boos 10-Round Bout; Italian Does Most of Leading.

By DILLON GRAHAM.

ATLANTA, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Arthur Dekuh, the 6-foot 4-inch Italian, held W. L. (Young) Stribling so well that the best the Georgia heavyweight could do here today was win a comfortable decision on points in ten rounds.

The tigerish attack which had flattened Otto von Porat, Phil Scott and K. O. Christner was missing, and the slow fight and frequent clinching by both men was booed on several occasions by the fans.

Dekuh outweighed Stribling more than 30 pounds and this advantage served him well. Dekuh weighed 226 and Stribling 191.

Dekuh Aggressor for Seven Rounds.

For seven rounds Dekuh was the aggressor, with most of the fighting done in clinches. The last three rounds found Stribling forcing the fighting, striving to add Dekuh to his long list of knockout victims. The big Italian took most of Stribling's blows on his shoulder and elbows.

In the last round Stribling landed a series of lefts to the head and rushed Dekuh to the ropes, but the New Yorker held on, kept his chin well protected and made Stribling shoot most of his punches to the body.

Despite a cold drizzling rain, which fell throughout the match, some 6,000 spectators watched Stribling in his first match in the South since his triumph over Scott. It was held in an outdoor arena in Spiller Park, home of the Atlanta Crackers of the Southern Association.

Although neither fighter landed a real damaging blow during the entire fight, Dekuh pounded Stribling hard about the body, while the Georgian also got in a series of body blows mixed with his shots for the chin.

First Three Rounds Are Fairly Even.

The first three rounds were fairly even, but Stribling gave Dekuh a shellacking in the fourth, although none of the thrusts were powerful enough to rock the Italian.

Stribling got his left to working consistently for a few moments in the sixth and peppered Dekuh about the head but all the blows were quick, short thrusts and carried little weight.

Again in the ninth and tenth Stribling rushed Dekuh to the ropes swinging both hands, but the Italian always managed to clinch and hold Stribling until he was out of danger.

Columbus, Miss., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Inclement weather forced Jack Dempsey to forego his intention of refereeing the Stribling-Dekuh fight in Atlanta today.

Dempsey had planned to take off for Atlanta this morning in Stribling's airplane, piloted by A. P. Ballard, but visibility was poor and the trip to Atlanta was abandoned, he announced.

Dempsey refereed a bout here last night.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

Special to The Washington Post.

ALEXANDRIA, Nov. 11.—Final action to determine the football champion of the Third District will be taken at Warrenton, Va., tomorrow, when representatives of Alexandria, Washington and Lee and Fredericksburg High Football Teams, now in a deadlock, appear before a neutral board to decide what course to take for the awarding of the title.

As the series now stands, each of these three teams has won two games and lost one. The Twins won from Fredericksburg, while the Yellow-jackets defeated Washington and Lee, and this club, in turn, won from the Alexandrians.

Three Principals Compose Board.

The board to decide on the action in this matter will be made up of the principals of Manassas, Warrenton and Culpeper High Schools. They will render their decision immediately after the session.

Alexandria and Washington and Lee High Schools favor a play-off of the games, the only logical course, while it is understood from reliable sources that Fredericksburg hopes to have the championship awarded to it. The matter is entirely in the hands of the Third District board, and the Virginia Literary and Athletic League can not take action. Their control is only over State championship encounters, or after a high school team has completed its district series.

Henry T. Moncure, principal of the Alexandria High School, will be the spokesman for the "Twins," while Principal Vanderslice and Athletic Director Driver will represent Washington and Lee High. Fredericksburg will have Athletic Director Neill to present its claims.

This matter is of vital interest to the football fans in the district and all are anxiously awaiting the verdict of the board of judges.

Celtic Basketers Meet Tonight.

The St. Mary's Celtics Basket Ball Team Wednesday night gathers at Hurahy's, King and Royal streets, for its first meeting of the season. Manager Jack Allen announced today Gwynn King, former Anacostia Eagle star, will perform with his club. All players are requested to attend this meeting.

An important meeting of the Pirate Athletic Club has been called for tomorrow evening by Manager Bill Hammond at the club headquarters on Queen street. All players are requested to be present.

George Gensmere, former star backfield man with the Virginia Athletic Club, will perform with the Del Ray Athletic Club in future games. Gensmere starred in the Columbia fray last Sunday.

Coach Hamilton has called an important practice for Thursday night and requests all players to be present. On Sunday the Red Birds travel to Washington to oppose the Palace eleven.

Drill for Iroquois A. C. Gridmen.

The Iroquois Athletic Club will drill each night at the signboard, head of King street, in preparation for Sunday's title game with Engine Company No. 3 on Haydons Field. These two clubs are battling for the 150-pound gridiron honors.

The Alpha Delta Omega Fraternity will place a court team on the floor this season. It is understood the boys will meet Central High School, of Washington, in their opening tusale on December 6.

Unheralded Half Back Runs 50 and 60 Yds. for Goals.

Eastern Takes Lead in 1st Period; Blocks Path of Tech.

FLASHING a brand of football that was a pleasing surprise to even its most ardent supporters, the Eastern High School Eleven defeated the tottering Central Team yesterday in the biggest upset to date in the scholastic championship series. Scoring in three of the four periods, tered an 18-0 victory before 2,500 Coach Mike Kelley's players regis-pop-eyed spectators.

As Tony Palmer and Phil Corridon, supported by a a hard-charging line, plowed, skipped and danced over landing second place in the final the chalk lines, Central's hopes of standings were irretrievably lost, and as the Cental stock crashed, Eastern's hopes of meeting Tech for the championship next Tuesday suddenly were realized.

Thus, in the space of two hours, Eastern rose from just a series participant to a title challenger. The decisiveness of its victory indicates that Eastern is not a challenger in name only. Tech coaches were in the stands alternately blinking their eyes and frowning.

Central's Heavy Line Outclassed.

Though it had been weakened by loss of valuable players through injury and scholastic deficiency, Central had not been expected to perform as poorly as it did. Its heavier lineman proved no match for the Eastern forward wall on either offense or defense, while only Ed De Listo in the backfield held his own. Central supporters swallowed a bitter pill, indeed. The individual hero of the game was the unheralded Palmer who scored touchdowns on dashes of 50 and 60 yards.

From the outset Eastern showed its superiority, ringing up a touchdown in the first period, and never was Central allowed to penetrate beyond the 15-yard line. In fact, Central threatened only once and that gesture in the third period went for naught as the Lincoln Parkers called a halt on their own 17-yard line.

Larry Pinckney, spearhead of Central's attack, played in spite of an injured ankle and it was evident. Aside from his passing he did nothing helpful to the Central cause. Even his passing proved a boomerang, for one of Eastern's touchdowns resulted from an interception by Palmer.

Eastern's line play was a revelation. Davis and McAboy, the ends, smashed many a Central run and seldom failed to hurry Pinckney and King on their passes and punts. Sborb at center wrought havoc on the offense, bursting holes in the middle of the Blue and White line through which the Lincoln Park backs ran with the speed of deer.

The first touchdown came early in the first quarter when McAboy ended a kicking duel between King and himself by blocking one of his rival's boots on the Central 12-yard line. Campbell recovered for Eastern.

Corridon Plunges Over Line.

Then Phil Corridon in six successive plunges carried the ball over the goal line. First at the left side and then at the right, this husky lad pounded away. Central braced at the 5-yard line but Corridon was not to be denied. Such vicious line-plunging has not been equaled in the 1930 games.

Central remained on the defensive most of the time until midway of the second quarter when Pinckney speared an Eastern pass on his 43-yard line. For a moment the Blue and White attack appeared to be functioning smoothly. But Pinckney and DeListo suddenly saw their line collapse and Eastern took the ball.

This was Palmer's signal and in a trice he sped through an opening as tackle that had been swept entirely clear of enemy hands. For a second he hesitated as the Central secondary closed in but with a clever piece of dodging he eluded them and reached the open with only Pelman near enough to make it a race. Palmer then displayed track ability to outdistance the lone pursuer. Feldman

Hoppe Leads Revolt of Stars Against Billiards Sponsors

NEW YORK, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Willie Hoppe, for years king of the professional billiard players and still holder of the 18.1 balkline championship, announced today he will challenge the control of the National Billiard Association by defending this title in a special match with Welker Cochran in New York next week.

Hoppe asserted the match was designed to complete a break with the association, which has claimed complete control of professional billiards, under the sponsorship of equipment manufacturers. The veteran said that in addition to Cochran he expected to have the support of young Jake Schaefer, the present world's 18.2 balkline champion, in the move for an independent organization.

Hoppe, Cochran and Schaefer, at various times, all have been salaried performers, playing under the direction of the so-called "trust," otherwise the National Billiard Association. Recently the policy of retaining the stars on salaries was abandoned, as a result of which, Hoppe declared, the players have decided to break off relations entirely and operate independently.

Players Buy Own Equipment.

They have gone to the extent of buying their own equipment, Hoppe announced, for next week's title match, to be played in twelve 300-point blocks at the Strand Academy.

Hoppe brought the 18.1 title back from France 24 years ago, after defeating the great Maurice Vignaux. Interest in this style of billiards, regarded as the most difficult of them all, lapsed and most of the competition among the outstanding players was at the 18.2 style. Hoppe dropped a decision to Schaefer five years ago at 18.1, but the National Billiard Association refused to recognize it as a championship match and Willie kept the diamond medal emblematic of the title.

INCEPTION, 25-1, WINS $10,000 HANDICAP IN UPSET

Choices Trail Outsider in Stake

William T. Is Second, Sun Beau Third in Feature.

Her Grace Sets Pace; Cannon, on Victor, Scores by Length.

PIMLICO RACE TRACK, Md., Nov. 11 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Inception, a 4-year-old Chestnut gelding by Sporting Blood—Chrysalis 2d, which Rigan McKinney bought last spring as a jumping prospect, raced to a surprising but not very thrilling victory in the twenty-second running of the Bowie Handicap, at one mile and a half at Pimlico this afternoon.

There were no thrills, because Inception, well ridden by Willie Cannon, led almost from the start, while the regrets of the race to the majority of the crowd of more than 25,000 was that Sun Beau, the heavily backed favorite, finished third, a head behind William T. The five other starters were beaten off.

Inception, Costing $15,000, Wins $9,400 in Race.

As Inception passed the finish line half a length in front of William T., with Sun Beau a neck behind, there were no cheers. These came when the animal's pay-off price was posted as $52.70 straight, $19.50 place and $7.70 show in the $2 mutuels. Inception, which cost his young owner $15,000, earned a purse of $9,400.

Eight went to the post, Petes Wrack and Grey Coat having declined the issue. There was only a short delay at the barrier and when Jim Milton sent them away Her Grace, which finished second in the Riggs Handicap a week ago, went to the front. Inception and William T. raced behind her heads apart, while Sun Beau was rated along with Erin and Dr. Freeland and Hot Toddy.

Rounding the turn into the stretch, Willie Cannon slipped Inception through on the inside and took the lead, while Coltiletti, allowing Sun Beau to step a bit, thundered into second place. Passing the stand the first time, Sun Beau was running a powerful race under wraps and even at the far turn it looked as though he could run over Inception at his pleasure. William T. was the only one of the others that looked to have a chance.

Punishment Takes Lead Entering Stretch.

Then Coltiletti called on Sun Beau a quarter of a mile from home. It may be that the impost of 130 pounds, or the route of a mile and a half was too much for him, or it might have been the combination of both. In any case he hung badly in the drive through the straight-away stretch, while Inception withstood the challenge of William T. gamely.

Audley Farms' filly Traufey, Adams up, got a close decision in the first race, for maiden 2-year-olds, when she beat G. L. Stryker's Trice a nose after a rough journey, in which Trice was the worst sufferer. Mrs. John D. Herta's Guide Left, away poorly, was third. The winner paid $14.30. Look By got two lengths advantage at the start. Twelve started and there was much crowding during the running. Workman, on Trice, gained much ground after his mount met interference.

D. McCaffrey's Pillory gelding, Punishment, withstood repeated challenges in the second to win by a length, and his victory made two straight for Jockey Adams. Princely Attention was second and Fair Bill third, a head behind the second horse. The winner paid $13.40.

Full Speed and Belmona left the gate in front, but on the back stretch Belmona had flopped and Punishment was moving up swiftly on Full Speed and took the lead entering the stretch. Brice, on Full Speed, and Watters, on Union Central, were called to stand and questioned, but not until the results had been made official.

Jefferson Livingston's Lebey won the Monkton Steeplechase, being well ridden by J. Lambert. The Sanford Farm's Jesirah was second, after her stablemate, Ivory II, had lost his rider. She overcame much interference at the last hedge by the winner and Messmate II, which finished third. Jesirah got the place by a high flight of speed, after vaulting the hedge. At the last jump Abdul II had a spectacular fall, in which Jockey Ball went over his head and bounced several feet, but got up again. Several jockeys were before the stewards after this race, but there was no disqualification. The winner paid $11.80.

Messmate set the early pace, Lebey second, and Jesirah a close third and there was little change in the positions until the finish, with the exception of Jesirah moving up to second. Lebey won by three lengths.

Judge Schilling Shows Way In Speed Contest.

Rudolph Spreckles won his first race here when Judge Schilling beat J. F. Scherr's 6-year-old sprinter, Jock, by a length in the Ruxton handicap, for all aged horses. Three lengths back, Lady Capulet was third. It was a speed contest.

Judge Schilling, the favorite, led all the way with Jock the contender. The Meathen had been withdrawn, and Bejshak, the rider of that stable, got the mount on Jock. The time for six furlongs was 1:12 flat. The winer paid $6.50.

Mrs. John D. Herta's filly, Valenciennes, in a sensational finish, passed the field in the stretch to beat the Wheatley Stable's Erin by a neck in the sixth. The Branncastle Farm's Molasses Jane was third and Dinah Did Upset fourth. The last named set the early pace until Erin went to the front, when Steffen began to move up from last on Valenciennes.

After the field had swung into the stretch, it still seemed impossible for Mrs. Herta's filly. The manner in which she ate up space in the final dash surpassed any finish of the meeting. The winner, running the mile in 1:43 4-5, paid $13.30.

STRANGE AS IT SEEMS —By John Hix

STRANGE, isn't it, that a living mausoleum exists in Noebdenitz, Germany? In yesterday's picture you probably wondered about the gnarled oak tree in which Hans von Thummel, famous German poet and statesman, was entombed. His casket was placed in a large hollow in its trunk, which was large enough to kill most trees. That tree, however, is still living and is over 1,000 years old. A tablet on the trunk bears Von Thummel's obituary.

Throwing a rolling pin 75 yards is a remarkable feat, more remarkable, perhaps, because Mary Pionteck, whose record throw won the New England championship, was, in one sense, an amateur. She was unmarried.

Farmer Habersaat, of Waupaca, Wis., has the right idea—that of raising baked potatoes. Burning peat beds did the trick. The fire crept beneath the spuds and did them to a turn. It's too bad the beds weren't larger. A few broiled tenderloins would have come in nicely.

The cylindrical sieve, shown yesterday, will not spill a drop of water, even has to be shaken vigorously under water in order to fill up. Shake well before using.

Today's pictures will be explained tomorrow. JOHN HIX.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—TRAUFEY, $14.30, 7.40, 4.70; TRICE, $6.50, $4.30; GUIDE LEFT, $4.20.

TRAUFEY raced LOOKBY into quick defeat, withstood a stout drive willingly through the closing stages and just lasted long enough. TRICE gained swiftly on the outside and was wearing the winner down at every stride. GUIDE LEFT was stoutly ridden all the way and had no mishaps. JIMMY D., prominent early, faltered in the final drive. ROYAL GUINEA could not reach the leaders when placed to a drive. LOOKBY stopped. WESTKO was never a factor.

SECOND RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 1:51. Off at 1:52. Winner, D. C. McCaffrey's ch. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—PUNISHMENT, $13.40, $5.40, $3.80; PRINCELY ATTENTION, $4.80, $3.60; FAIR BILL, $3.50.

PUNISHMENT, rated in near attendance of the leaders, went into the lead when ready, saved ground when in front and had no trouble to stall off PRINCELY ATTENTION. Latter, reserved off the pace, closed with good speed when called on. FAIR BILL, well up from the beginning, finished willingly for the final issue. BOWIE began slowly, trailed well back, but closed stoutly. BELMONA was made entirely too much use of for the first mile and stopped. REJUVENATION quit. FULL SPEED stopped badly.

THIRD RACE—Two miles. Purse, $2,000. Monkton Steeplechase. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, driving. Went to post at 2:21. Off at 2:22½. Winner, Jefferson Livingston's br. h. (a.), by All Bey—Lois. Trained by A. L. Denny. Value to winner, $1,400; second, $400; third, $200. Time, 3:48. (13 jumps).

Two-dollar mutuels paid—LE BEY, $11.60, $5.10, $4.10; JESIRAH, $2.60, $2.30; MESS MATE, $3.70.

LE BEY, fencing cleverly and kept well up, went to the front when ready, landed badly at the final fence, but recovered and came away smartly. JESIRAH, rated close up from the start, finished stoutly and may have been a keener factor had she not met with interference by MESS MATE II at the last fence. MESS MATE II fenced stoutly for the first mile, but weakened at the end. CANTERBURY had no excuse. CAWVOGE had no mishaps. ABDUL II was allowed to drop far out of contention for a mile and thereafter was given a listless ride. He fell at the last fence when a bold contender.

FOURTH RACE—Six furlongs. Purse, $1,500. Buxton Handicap. For all ages. Start good. Won handily; place, easily. Went to post at 2:58. Off at 2:58. Winner, Rudolph Spreckles' br. c. JUDGE SCHILLING, rushed to the front at once, saved ground for the first half mile, came out during the stretch run and appeared to have speed in reserve. JOCK, forced to offer the most early contention, was unable to gain during the final drive.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-half miles. Purse, $10,000 added. Bowie Handicap. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 3:33. Off at 3:35. Two-dollar mutuels paid—INCEPTION, $52.70, $19.50, $7.70; WILLIAM T., $11.60, $4.70; SUN BEAU, $2.80.

INCEPTION, showing keen improvement, took command under restraint, saved ground the entire trip and continued with rare courage when challenged through the final half mile. WILLIAM T., well placed and going smoothly, responded readily for the final drive and was gaining steadily at the end. SUN BEAU, forced to offer early contention under sufferance, weakened slowly under his heavy weight. HOT TODDY was poorly ruled. YARN could not menace the leaders at any stage. HER GRACE was held safe. DOCTOR FREELAND quit.

SIXTH RACE—One mile and seventy yards. Purse, $1,300. For all ages, allies and mares. Start good. Won driving; place, same. Went to post at 4:07. Off at 4:07½. Winner, Mrs. John D. Herta's gr. f. (3), by Stefan the Great—Duchess Lane. Trained by W. Knapp. Value to winner, $900; second, $250; third, $150. Time, 0:25 3-5, 0:48 2-5, 1:13 2-5, 1:39, 1:42 4-5.

Two-dollar mutuels paid—VALENCIENNES, $13.30, $5.60, $3.60; ERIN, $3.80, $2.30; MOLASSES JANE, $2.80.

VALENCIENNES trailed her field for the six furlongs, moved up fast approaching the far turn, came to the outside and, closing with a spirited rush, was up in the closing strides. ERIN followed DINAH DID UPSET closely, took an easy lead when called on, but was unable to withstand the winner. MOLASSES JANE, bottled up while racing on the inside down the back stretch, secured racing room when entering the home stretch and came gamely. DINAH DID UPSET weakened when put to a drive. BIDE A WEE could not keep pace.

SEVENTH RACE—One and one-sixteenth miles. Purse, $1,300; claiming. For 3-year-olds and upward. Start good. Won easily; place, same. Went to post at 4:36½. Off at 4:42½. Winner, R. P. Watts' b. g. Two-dollar mutuels paid—ESSARE, $11.40, $5.50, $3.10; SIGN OFF, $7.80, $4.30; SUN CRAIG, $2.70.

ESSARE outran his field to the first turn, displayed good speed and held his field safe the entire trip. SIGN OFF, slow to reach his best stride, finished fast, but could not menace the winner. SUN CRAIG, steadied along in early part, came again bearing the finish, but passed tiring horses. FLYING MAX had no mishaps. FIRST MISSION stopped.

Adams, Record Jockey, Will Ride For Geneseo

The contract of Jockey Albert Adams, sensational young rider whose record of nine straight winners during the Marlboro meet gained him a world's record, has been purchased from Jim Bean and George P. Mayberry, District horsemen, by A. Payne, of New York City, wealthy owner of the Geneseo Stable. The price was said to be $10,000.

Adams has changed hands more than once of late. Bean and Mayberry secured his services from J. Woods Garth, who was largely instrumental in developing the brilliant young jockey.

(Reg. U. S. Patent Office)

—Pimlico Selections—

By J. H. SNODGRASS.

PIMLICO, Md., Nov. 11.—The Pimlico Graded Handicaps have the place of honor on the program here tomorrow divided into three classes—"A," "B" and "C," each is at a mile and 70 yards and the purse in each is $1,500. The intention of the graded handicap is to sort out the horses, and place in each class those that are nearest on an equality, and keep out of one class horses that are of a lower grade. In this plan, the best horses are supposed to be grouped in grade "A," the second best in grade "B" and the least favored in class "C."

Twelve horses have been named for class A, which is fifth on the program. The Arden Farms-Marshall Field entry is selected to win. It is composed of SUN EDWIN and ESCUTCHEON. SUN EDWIN has quite a consistent record this season and in his last race he was beaten a length and a half by Questionnaire at Empire City. This was a race that would win this event, for there is no horse in this race comparable with Questionnaire. ESCUTCHEON, the other one of the entry, is a speedy filly, but was outclassed in the Riggs here on opening day.

E. R. Bradley's RUDDY BAUER is rated the contender. He won his last two races at Laurel, and should have little trouble landing the place in this event if the track remains fast. If it should rain, which now appears probable, he would be withdrawn. On the other hand, SUN EDWIN is a superior muddier. WILLIAM T., which ran second to Inception in the Bowie Handicap today, beating Sun Beau for the place, but he may have been used up considerably in that mile and a half race, and is a doubtful starter in this. But he is in light, and should he start, he never was better. NICOTINE might have an outside chance to get in the money. MONTANARO is improving.

Class "B," sixth race, has eleven eligibles. ADEQUATE is preferred. This Wheatley Stable filly is running in more ordinary company than usual. She has not won recently but she has been out of the money few times. The daughter of Pennant has 121 pounds up, but may be a better weight carrier than the others. SUN SHADOW seems next best. He has been close in recent races and McAtee will ride him. SYRIAC, by throwing out his last race, has a real chance and should be as good as third. At Laurel he beat Solace, which would be favorite in this race.

Class "C" of the graded handicaps, seventh race, goes further down the scale in quality and on an increasing scale of weights. NAYLOR, with 126 pounds up, is selected to win. Never noted as a weight carrier, this should prove a severe test for the R. H. Davis colt. But he has too much early speed for the others. PORPHYRY showed a good effort behind Brown Trap at Laurel and should be contender. He has run with better horses. AZIZ, which ran an impressive race Monday, may figure. She won that event by five lengths.

FIRST RACE—This number for 2-year-olds is at a mile and 70 yards. The Sagamore Stable's BACKGAMMON, which beat Magnifico at Laurel, looks best of the field, but MAJOR LANPHIER may make it a close contest. This son of American Flag ran second to Dark Hero, and should improve over that effort. OPPONENT, second to Anchors Aweigh at Empire City, may figure in the race. Improvement is expected of SPIRIT RIVER, badly ridden last out.

SECOND RACE—This race is for maiden 3-year-olds and upward. HONEY GROVE seems to stand out. He meets a cheap field and has been trying to beat good horses. He was beaten in one Laurel race a head by the fast Con Amore. SPICE looks best of the others.

THIRD RACE—The third race is a steeplechase, the Catonsville Purse of $2,000. STONEY LONESOME, which had won four out of his last five races before

G. U. Athletes Seek Credit For Marks

Wildermuth Applies for 100-Meter Recognition.

Sexton Seeks Record in Shot Put; Women Shatter Marks.

OUTSTANDING performances of Karl Wildermuth, sprinter, and Leo Sexton, field events giant, formerly of Georgetown University, are included in a list of 172 record-shattering track and swimming marks to be acted on by the Amateur Athletic Union in its annual convention here next week.

Applications for recognition of these performances as American standards have been filed in behalf of the athletes who made them and have been under consideration for some time by the national A. A. U. record committee headed by Louis N. Goldsmith.

Wildermuth's application concerns a time of 10.8 seconds with which he was credited at the Brooklyn College games in Brooklyn last January 18. This time equals that recorded by Bob McAllister, New York's "Flying Cop," in 1927. Wildermuth won the race from Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross.

Sexton Seeking Shot Record.

Sexton heaved the 12-pound leather-covered shot a distance of 56 feet 11¼ inches in the Manhattan College games in New York last March 3. He won the event despite considerable handicaps assigned his rivals.

Sexton's mark, if recognized, will not be set down as a record, but as a "noteworthy performance," the title applied to outstanding performances in events not included on A. A. U. championship programs.

The assault on records during the past year in track and swimming has caused the work of the record committee to be the heaviest it ever has experienced.

Largely because of the remarkable achievements of Helene Madison, 17-year-old mermaid of Seattle, Wash., and of Stella Walsh, Cleveland runner, the feminine athletes outdid the supposedly stronger sex in the number of records set in these sports.

Martinsburg Gives Wilson Big Welcome

Martinsburg, W. Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The folks in Martinsburg went down to the depot this afternoon and welcomed this town's best-known citizen home for the winter. Mr. Louis B. Wilson, Chicago Cubs' outfielder and leading home-run hitter of the National League summer, was met at the steps of his coach by his wife and young son and on the platform by a crowd of baseball fans.

"Hack" put on his best smile and gratned his full approval when approached by a committee seeking his consent for a "real public welcome." It will be given in the Martinsburg Public Square Thursday night as a testimonial of the community. Wilson did not discuss his plans for the coming winter, but he will probably spend it hunting. He was delayed in his return home by a vaudeville engagement in Chicago.

BATES BEATS COLBY.

Lewiston, Me., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Bates College today defeated Colby, 14 to 0, to win their second successive Maine State college football championship. Sid Farrell, Bobcat full back, scored both touchdowns in the third quarter with runs of 79 and 27 yards.

CENTENNIALS DRILL.

The Centennials will practice tonight at 8 o'clock on Terminal Field. All players are to report at North Capitol and New York avenue at 7:30 o'clock.

GREAT FOOTBALL WEATHER, HEY BRADFORD? GOIN' TO TH' GAME SATURDAY?
I AM NOT!
I SAW A GREAT GAME LAST SATURDAY—STORM KING VS. RIVERDALE. TH KIDS WERE ONLY 15 OR 16 YEARS OLD. THERE WAS A KID NAMED PIERCE MAC NAIR WHO SURE COULD PLAY FOOTBALL
I THINK IT'S AN OUTRAGE TO PERMIT BOYS OF THAT AGE TO PLAY THAT BRUTAL GAME! SOME OF THEM ARE BOUND TO BE KILLED OR MAIMED FOR LIFE!
IT MAKES ME SICK EVERY TIME I READ ABOUT THE MONEY THEY PAY THESE COACHES FOR TRAINING A GANG OF BOYS TO KICK A BALL AROUND A FIELD! AND LOOK AT THE MONEY THE PUBLIC WASTES ON THESE GAMES!
THE REASON I'M NOT HOBBLING AROUND ON CRUTCHES I ATTRIBUTE ENTIRELY TO THE FACT THAT I NEVER PLAYED FOOTBALL
BRADFORD J. SNEER, WELL KNOWN HARDWARE MERCHANT, WAS FOUND ON LINDBERGH AVENUE YESTERDAY MORNING BADLY INJURED. THE POLICE BELIEVE HE WAS STRUCK BY A HIT AND RUN DRIVER OF A STEAM ROLLER. PHYSICIANS AT THE MERCY HOSPITAL, WHERE MR. SNEER WAS TAKEN, STATED THAT IN THE EVENT HE RECOVERED HE WOULD PROBABLY BE CRIPPLED FOR LIFE.

PINDER SEEN AS VIRGINIA REGULAR

Relief Back Expected to Make Trouble for Generals.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Nov. 11. Ben Pinder is one of Virginia's relief backs who probably will see much action in next Saturday's game with Washington and Lee on Lambeth Field. Pinder, whose home is in Richmond, came to Virginia by way of Episcopal High School. Last fall he carried the burden of the attack with the "Daffodil" eleven, but this season he has been with the varsity and has been threatening to break into the starting line-up for the last few games.

Against Pennsylvania it was that Pinder distinguished himself by carrying over a touchdown, the first the Cavaliers have scored against the Quakers since 1901. But since that game he has been carrying around a Charley horse that has kept him from doing his best in action.

Played Five Game Against V. P. I. Team.

Pinder went into the V. P. I. game last week just in time to aid in the 74-yard march of the Cavaliers for their second touchdown. And he played first-class football during all the remainder of the contest. He is a hard-charging ball carrier and an accurate passer in addition.

This Richmond lad has seen more skill on the diamond than on the gridiron. He played third base for the Cavalier nine last spring and was generally rated as the best man in the infield. He'll be back on this beg again next spring, playing under Gus Tebell, who is now instructing him as assistant coach in charge of the back field.

Pinder is not a big man, for he weighs only 158 and stands 5 feet 8 inches; but he is a fine natural athlete, with an aggressive spirit when in competition—which counts much more than mere poundage.

"Fives" Eleven Beats Greenbrier Midgets

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 11.—One thousand gridiron fans saw the Fives outclass the Midget Team from Greenbrier Military Academy here this afternoon, 26 to 6, and thus obtain revenge for defeats sustained at the hands of the West Virginians in previous years.

The lone touchdown made by the visitors followed a fumble on the Fives' 5-yard line in the final quarter. Stier made the score. The only other threat made by the West Virginians came at the close of the first half, when Greenbrier rushed the ball to the 10-yard mark. Here Davis intercepted a pass and raced 75 yards.

Generals Drill for Virginia Game Saturday.

Special to The Washington Post.

LEXINGTON, VA., Nov. 11.—It might have been Armistice Day to the rest of the world today, but the football men at Washington and Lee knew no peace as Head Coach Gene Oberst drove the Generals through a stiff two-hour scrimmage as a gesture toward perfecting an offensive for the all-important tilt with Virginia Saturday at Charlottesville.

Although Monk Mattox, the Washington and Lee back field ace, was still absent from drill, it is believed here that he will be able to swing into action against the Cavaliers at Charlottesville.

Few Injuries Received In Maryland Game.

Monk was injured in the Kentucky game, when an old eye wound was further cut, and the same injury was opened again against St. John's. The Gobblers further impeded Mattox's play when a vicious tackle sent the Washington and Lee back from the field with a bad knee.

All last week, Coach Oberst gave Mattox plenty of rest, and he did not make the Maryland trip. It will be Mattox's last opportunity to show Virginia gridiron fans that he is on a par with Southern Conference ball toters, for the Generals close their season with their next game, Thanksgiving Day, at Durham, N. C., with Duke.

The squad came out of the Maryland game with but minor bruises here and there. The make-shift backfield of Jones at quarter; Martin and Colins, half backs; and Mitchell, full-back, did not click against the Old Liners. Coach Oberst will further experimnet against the possibility of Mattox's not playing, and he will endeavor to find a combination that will work.

G. W. PLANS SHIFTS IN LINE-UP

Capable Reserves to Get Chance Against Albright.

SOME of George Washington's reserves who showed to advantage in the New York Aggies game last week will get a chance to prove their worth under more trying conditions next Saturday when the Colonials collide with the capable Albright eleven at Reading, Pa. The loss by injury of Joe Carter, half back, and Lyle Sturtevant and Fred Mulvey, ends, creates an opening for the subs.

Sammy Berkowitz, Jules Venesky and Harold Jones, half backs, and Johnny Fenlon, end, who disported cleverly against the New Yorkers, are quite certain of seeing plenty of action at Reading. While the opposition furnished by the Aggies was decidedly weak, still this quartet evidenced real ability.

Berkowitz Likely to Start Against Albright.

It is likely that Berkowitz will start against Albright, with Venesky and Jones being held in reserve. Berkowitz, who scored three touchdowns against the Aggies, has one big handicap. He weighs less than 140 pounds, which is at least 10 pounds too light in college football. Both Venesky and Jones are heavier but not quite so talented.

Fenlon, formerly a half back, will start at right end where Mulvey and Sturtevant alternately have been holding forth.

The Colonials underwent a hard scrimmage yesterday at the Tidal Basin with the freshmen opposing them on the offense with Albright plays. Head Coach Pixles was not pleased with the results, but was hopeful that the varsity would show improvement today and tomorrow when the same procedure will be followed. Tomorrow's practice will wind up the Colonials' rough work and they will depart for Reading Friday morning.

Tulane-Georgia Furnish Dixie's Feature Grid Game

ATLANTA, Ga., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Pointing for one of the crucial tests which will determine whether Tulane's record shall show two successive seasons without defeat, Coach Bernie Bierman plans to use every trick in his collection Saturday against the powerful Georgia Bulldogs. The game, from the standpoint of championship bearing, will be the gridiron feature of the week in the South.

For two weeks the Greenies have been pointing for Georgia, with brief intermissions for contests with Mississippi A. & M. and Auburn. The team, judged from present indications, will be in top shape.

Coach Harry Mehre of Georgia had his varsity down to hard work again today after allowing them a period of comparative rest on Monday.

Auburn, Miss. Aggie Game Outstanding.

Another of the week's football high lights will be the engagement at Birmingham in which Auburn's Plainsmen, buffeted about the conference for the past four years, have bright hopes of scoring their first conference victory since 1926 against Mississippi A. & M.

Not since Sewanee was downed, 9 to 0, in Montgomery in early November of 1926 have the Tigers of the Plains tasted the sweets of a conference triumph, but comparative records rate the Auburn team as stronger than Chris Cagle's hapless Maroons.

Under Chet Wynne, Auburn has shown more power, drive and spirit this year than in any recent season.

Armistice Day found three pairs of S. I. A. A. teams engaged in association warfare, but conference elevens were working toward their week-end skirmishes, several of which will have important bearing on State and sectional titles.

Just as several of his cripples were returning to form, Coach Bob Neyland finds another so badly bungled up that he will be unable to play against Vanderbilt Saturday at Nashville. Bill Cox, substitute full back, splintered a bone in his leg in the Carson-Newman game and probably will be out for the rest of the season.

Carolina Elevens Meet In State Battles.

Carolina teams were preparing for State battles. Duke worked on new plays to be used against North Carolina State, while North Carolina perfected its attack to use against Davidson.

Another important State battle is slated in Virginia as the Cavaliers tackle Washington and Lee. Virginia Polytechnic has its annual game with Maryland.

After a day's rest Monday, Wallace Wade had his Crimson warriors back in line again today for the Louisiana State encounter Saturday, while Florida, in fair condition after the hard struggle with Alabama last week, prepared for Clemson.

SCRIMMAGE FOR V. P. I. ELEVEN

Poly Also Drills to Stop Maryland's Aerial Game.

Special to The Washington Post.

BLACKSBURG, Va., Nov. 11.—The V. P. I. Cadets forgot all about Maryland's trio of touchdown kings today and unlimbered their own heavy artillery in long scrimmage session. In fine trim after their home-coming rampage at the expense of Virginia, the cadet gridders sought to keep their attack going at the gait that rolled up three touchdowns in the final half last week.

The Polytech third team, for which the 1930 football season has been mostly one scrimmage after another, yielded ground stubbornly before the same line and the same back field that faced the Cavaliers.

Heavy Tech Backfield In Action.

Many members of the V. P. I. corps were on the sidelines, tuning up for the double invasion of Norfolk, where the cadet regiment will watch the Poly Team in its battle with the Old Liners. Now that the Gobbler attack has at last reached gale proportions, the corps is preparing its week-end maneuvers with quickening step and is ready days in advance to descend on the Tidewater city and cheer itself hoarse in victory or defeat.

The heavy Tech back field—Capt. Hooper, Owens, Howard and Hardwick—was again in action today. Bus Hall and Phil Spear were out in uniform, but the coaches kept them at light work for fear of further injury. Both should be ready for duty in the annual Tidewater battle, as should Bill Grinus, the big sophomore tackle, who played such sterling football against Washington and Lee week before last.

The coaches are keeping all ailing reserve strength under wraps this week to be sure that replacements are ready to fill the gaps if the regulars give way before the powerful Byrd eleven.

Poly Drilling to Stop Old Line Aerials.

But all the work is by no means on the offense. The Gobblers have had a siege every day by a make-believe Maryland team. They are learning the pet touchdown makers of Curly Byrd, the "Fox of College Park," who foxed the Techmen a year ago to the tune of 25 to 0. For 30 minutes every day, the Tech eleven is drilling its pass defense against the flying aerials of Bomey Berger and Chalmers. The final part of the week will be given largely to bolstering the defense to withstand the strong game of the Byrdmen, and to rehearsing the whole array of Poly plays.

ftung himself at the speeding Easterner at the goal line, the end of a 50-yard gallop.

Palmer's second touchdown stopped a flurry of desperate Central passes in the fourth quarter. Pinckney had made considerable headway with his aerials when he heaved a lone one intended for Murray, Central end. Palmer, diagnosing the play perfectly, cut in ahead of Murray and intercepted the ball on his 40-yard line. He broke immediately for the side line. Pinkney, trying to "cover up," offered him trouble about 15 yards from the goal but with a tricky side-step he left the Central defender behind and got home unmolested.

McAboy missed all three of his opportunities to add extra points with placement kicks.

NAVY DRILLS ON AERIAL DEFENSE

Special to The Washington Post.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., Nov. 11.—Navy coaches drove their charges through another defensive scrimmage this afternoon, the main idea being to check the overhead game which Southern Methodist is expected to unleash in the tilt in Baltimore Stadium Saturday. The Middies were far from alert in their defense against Ohio State aerials last Saturday and the Mustangs are reported to be greater adepts in this style of attack than are the Buckeyes.

As the team took the field today, the back field quartet was composed of Bauer, Kirn, Gannon and Hagberg. Gannon was in for Joe Tschirgi, who is the chief casual at this time, and who may not start against the Methodists. Tschirgi was badly shaken up early in the Ohio State fracas when he was tackled hard and low simultaneously, after he had broken off tackle.

Byng, D. C. Boy, Seems Sure Of Wing Berth.

With Weston Byng, Washington youngster, now taking a part in offensive play of the team, he appears certain of his berth on the right flank. Byng is on the receiving end of many passes and besides he is doing some of the heaving. He exhibited his cleverness as a passer against Ohio State, although none of his heaves was completed. His throwing is deceptive to the enemy.

Either Torgeson or Elliott may displace Steffanides on the other wing. Both showed decided improvement in last Saturday's battle. Improved form of Tuttle has given him the call over Black at center. The rest of the line will be intact for the argument with the Mustangs, with Capt. Bostrom and Bryan at the tackles, and Underwood and Gray guards.

Bullet Joe Kirn did fine work in the dummy scrimmage against Methodist passes as emulated by the scrubs, intercepting a number of them and batting down others.

All-Marines Held To 0-0 Tie By Citadel

Roanoke, Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The Citadel and All-Marines football teams fought scorelessly here today in a game whose lack of color was well supplied by uniformed spectators and military bands.

Scoring opportunities were rare and with the exception of a single occasion neither team had the power to penetrate the 20-yard lines. That was when the Citadel Bulldogs reached the 7-yard line, there to be held for downs.

Unable to push over a touchdown, the Bulldogs tried a 30-yard drop kick by Capt. Wilson for field goal, and although it soared high, it missed the uprights by inches.

In the final quarter the Marines likewise attempted a field goal, Gotke trying one from placement at the 30-yard line, but it was low and far off line.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB FROM 1 TO 4 POINTS

SALES SLUMP SHARPLY

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—An armistice in the hammer-and-tongs selling of stocks gave the market a chance to recover its breath and part of its losses today.

With a technical recovery, some of which failed to hold, prices closed 1 to 4 points higher. The average advance of 2 points was the largest since October 24. It embraced virtually the entire list, with the exception of the amusement shares and some of the rails.

Although the market gave evidence that at least a temporary climax had been reached in short selling and liquidation, its movement throughout the active session was erratic. Yesterday's rally carried through the opening, but this advance was surrendered before noon under an attack against the motion picture stocks and two or three popular investment issues, notably American Telephone and National Biscuit.

Shorts Hasten to Cover.

Early in the afternoon pressure was again lifted and shorts covered with some haste, pushing quotations up 1 to 6 points. Part of this gain was lost before the close.

The softening of prices in the late trading coincided with a report that steel operations had declined 4 per cent in the past week. This estimate placed the operating ratio at slightly above 43 per cent and when it was published U. S. Steel, which had climbed to 142¾, slid back to 141⅛, where it closed, up 1⅛.

The Chicago grain market was closed for the holiday, so that Wall street had to depend on Winnipeg for its wheat news. Futures there lost 3 to nearly 4 cents a bushel. Cotton in New York rose 69 to 80 cents a bale net. Bonds were slightly steadier, but irregular.

Weakness of American Telephone and National Biscuit was cut back to pattern followed by the market before the most recent general break, when special stocks were singled out.

American Phone Recovers.

In some quarters it was pointed out that yields on such issues are still high, compared with other quoted values, but it was also suggested that the large offerings merely represented the sale of grade stocks to protect poorer ones. On the afternoon advance, American Telephone recovered 4 points of its 5-point break and Biscuit made full recovery of a 3-point loss before slipping back at the close.

Wall street's theory that much of the selling has been liquidation of security loans by banks, especially "country" institutions, lacked confirmation in the Federal Reserve Member Banks' condition statement, which revealed a $24,000,000 gain in that item contrasted with the declines of the past month. The increase, however, could be attributed to borrowing for the month-end and was not taken as an indication of a change in trend. It is believed probable that further liquidation in these loans will be forthcoming, although the central banking authorities have reported that the condition of the accounts is generally very satisfactory.

Industrial stocks made the best showing of the day. Westinghouse, General Electric, American Can, General Motors and United States Steel strongly resisted the spasmodic selling elsewhere. Fox Film tumbled 4 points and closed near the bottom. Warner Bros. reached a new low.

Southern Railway Rallies

Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central, Rock Island and New Haven were soft. Atchison, New York Central, Southern Railway and Pennsylvania rallied vigorously, although final prices were under the best.

Allied Chemical's extreme gain of 6 points was reduced to 2. American Can, Du Pont, General Electric, General Motors, Johns-Manville, Standard Oil of New Jersey, American Power & Light, Consolidated Gas and United Corporation were up 1 to 2 net, while Detroit Edison and Peoples Gas rallied more than 6 each. Coca Cola, Case and Auburn Auto closed 4 points higher. Coppers were firm on reports that progress was being made toward a reduction of output. The day's total sales were 3,334,020 shares, more than 1,000,000 under yesterday's volume, but above the recent average.

Foreign exchanges, again irregular, were featured by easiness of the French franc, which had been near the gold export point. Selling was firm.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—A further decline in cotton at the opening of the market here today was promoted by relatively easy Liverpool cables, but after selling off to 11.00 for March or about 11 points net lower, prices rallied during the afternoon on trade buying and covering. Contracts became comparatively scarce on the upturn and March sold up to 11.32 in the late trading, closing at 11.30 net advances of 12 to 16 points. The general market closed very steady at net advances of 12 to 16 points. The opening was steady at a decline of 4 to 7 points under overnight selling orders which came partly from the South and were probably combined with some selling on the relatively easy showing of the English market. New crop December sold off to 10.87 and May to 11.35 before the end of the morning making net losses of 8 to 11 points on the active positions. The decline met an increased trade demand at these figures, while the selling tapered off and a decidedly steadier tone developed during the afternoon. Covering or rebuying by early sellers contributed to the advance which was also encouraged by the steadier tone of the late stock market. New December sold up to 10.96 and to 11.58 making net advances of about 13 to 15 points on the active months and closing quotations were within a point or two of the best.

Rather a nervous and unsettled sentiment was in evidence during the morning owing to the early weakness of the market and the weakness of the grain market at Winnipeg. There was some buying on a bullish construction of the standard cloth statistics for October which were published after the close of the market yesterday showing a decrease of 10.6 per cent in stocks on hand and an increase of 22.9 per cent in unfilled orders, however, and the market met increased support on the decline. This absorbed the offerings and contracts were comparatively scarce during the afternoon, while the buying was supposed to include some purchases of the spring months for the cooperative marketing interests in the South.

Liverpool cables reported hedging and liquidation in that market. Exports today, 27,006, making 2,592,205 so far this season. Port receipts today, 88,678. U. S. port stocks, 3,861,321.

CREDIT MEN REPORT GAIN IN COLLECTIONS

Washington Association Is Told of Improvement by National Group.

SIX PER CENT RISE CITED

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

With no little satisfaction, the National Association of Credit Men, reports to members of the Washington Association of Credit Men, a further improvement in the collection situation, collections throughout the country being at least 6 per cent better than they were a month ago. The improvement, which is most encouraging, appears to be due, the bulletin states, to a general application of a more conservative credit policy and the use of rigorous collection methods.

Of the total of 108 local associations reporting for October, four rated collections as "good," 65 "fair" and 34 "slow." This compares with one "good," 57 "fair" and 43 "slow," in September.

The present economic situation of the country will prove a valuable asset to life insurance salesmen for future years as well as right now, according to the latest bulletin of the District of Columbia Life Underwriters Association, which continues, "when life insurance companies render statements to the States insurance departments at the close of the calendar year, the high degree of solvency of this type of financial institution should prove beyond comparison their financial safety."

Life Underwriter Classes.

Chartered life underwriter classes have been formed by the association and several groups are progressing with the study program for the next examination scheduled for June, 1931. Slowly but surely, association officers state, the ranks of those entitled to the designation of "C. L. U." or chartered life underwriter, will be increased and the American public will become educated to request that their insurance problems be handled by such men.

Urging that those eligible plan to attain this achievement, association officials remind prospective students that if they have not the required high school credits, they should plan for and obtain them.

Cash dividends received by stockholders in domestic corporations in October totaled $549,981,526, compared with $397,096,633 in September and $257,437,545 in August. Electric light and gas companies led the list in the major divisions with $93,594,-191 and rails followed with $61,649,-097, the analysis by Standard Statistics Co. of New York reveals.

Farmers Using Electricity.

There are now 2,635 of the 49,140 farms in the District of Columbia and Maryland that are served with electricity, a survey just completed by the Bureau of Business Conditions of Alexander Hamilton Institute reveals. This is an increase of 17.3 per cent since 1929. Of the 193,723 Virginia farms, 10,286 are served with electricity, a gain of 33.3 per cent since last year.

The local life insurance fraternity welcomes the return to Washington of Roynane Waldron, formerly manager of the Bankers Life of Iowa. Mr. Waldron is now general agent of the Penn Mutual, succeeding Thomas Crowley.

A new firm taking over the real estate interests of Waggaman & Brawner, Inc., of Virginia, to be known as Waggaman & Brawner, Inc., of Delaware, was announced yesterday. John F. Brawner will head the firm.

Curb Review

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Utility shares rallied vigorously in today's curb market after a further period of unsettlement during the earlier hours of the session.

Some of the oils and industrials also made fair recovery, but the lightly traded issues were again irregularly lower. The day's turnover aggregated 804,800 shares.

American Gas & Electric recovered 5 points. Electric Bond & Share closed 2 higher. Insull Utility Investment gained 2 points in active trading, but Middle West closed off ⅛, and Midland Utilities lost 3 in a small turnover. Associated Gas A recovered about 2 points, and United Light A 1 point. American Superpower gained ½ in active trading. In the high-priced group Commonwealth Edison rallied 6 and Duke Power 10 in a few transactions.

In the oils Cities Service moved up more than a point, closing at 18⅛. The preferred gained 2¼. Arkansas Natural Gas A, controlled by Cities Service, also gained a point. Humble Oil & Vacuum gained about 2 points, and the Standards generally were firm. Pacific Western rallied 1⅝.

The copper shares were firmer, reflecting further unofficial reports that producers were making progress with a world-wide curtailment plan. Noranda & Hudson Bay improved fractionally, and Newmont sold up more than a point. In the more active industrial issues Diamond Match gained 2 and Deere nearly 4. Columbia Pictures, however, declined more than 2, to a new low, in sympathy with weakness in the amusements on the big board. Ford of Canada A gained a point, but Ford, Ltd., slipped back a fraction.

In the holding and investment company group, United Founders slipped off to 9½, a new low, but closed at 9¾, off only ⅛. Goldman Sachs dropped 1½, to a new low at 71½, and closed at 8. Utility and industrial and Ungerleider Financial gained about a point each.

TONE OF BOND SALES IMPROVES SLIGHTLY

Foreign List Ruled by Lower Trend and Industrials' Index Declines.

BROAD RALLY IN RAILS

New York, Nov. 11 (A.P.).—The tone of the bond market was slightly improved today as best grade domestics again reflected the firming influence of easy money rates.

Industrials, however, reached a new year's low in the averages and a lower trend dominated the foreign section. Governments held at the high level of the year.

Selling was less pronounced, the load being lightened by the mild rally that developed in the share market. Uncertainty over the outlook for industry still influences the trend of medium grade issues, and the spread between the yields on these issues and gilt-edged seasoned bonds is rather wide.

Industrial corporation bonds now are selling at the lowest level in several years. The average for ten industrials dropped today to 90.3, which compares with a year's high of 94.9 and 91.3 a year ago when drastic declines were precipitated by the panic.

Changes in Rail Group.

Investment inquiry influenced a broad rally in a few railroad bonds. Baltimore & Ohio 5s D, Atchison general 4s, St. Paul 5s of 1975, and the adjustment 5s of 2000; Erie 5s of 1975, Missouri Pacific general 4s, New York Central 3½s, St. Louis, San Francisco 4½s; Southern Pacific 4½s (Oregon line), were rails showing marked improvement.

Baltimore & Ohio refunding 5s, Canadian Northern 4½s, Lehigh Valley 4s and New York Central 4s were off a point or more. Most of the rail group showed fractional changes, with a slight majority on the constructive side.

Cincinnati Gas & Electric 4s were an active feature of the utility group, sagging three-eighths. American Telephone bonds fluctuated narrowly. Philadelphia Co. gold 5s sold off three-quarters and North American Edison reacted fractionally. California Gas & Electric 5s attained a new year's peak.

National Dairy Recovers.

National Dairy 5½s, one of the high-grade industrial group which is widely held, was steadier after dipping a point in the previous session.

Stock privilege issues dipped into new low ground during the morning but firmed with the upturn in equity issues, although some failed to participate in the recovery. General Theaters 6s closed 1¾ lower at a new year's low. Atchison 4½s and American Telephone 4½s were fractionally higher, and a broad rally developed in Philadelphia & Reading Coal & Iron 6s. The bond closed at 85, a gain of 2¾ on the day.

Prices of Latin-Americans continued to sag and the trend of Europeans was irregularly lower. Bolivian 7s dipped 2⅝, Chile Mortgage Bank 6s and Peru second 6s 2 points each and Sao Paulo State bonds were generally lower. German bonds were the market leaders, the 7s holding steady but the International 5½s lost five-eighths. They sold at 74½, only five-eighths above the year's low.

ADVICE ON INVESTMENTS

By CHARLES W. STORM.

National City Bank.

A. S.—Being a holder of twenty shares of National City Bank stock which I bought at $400 a share, I would like your advice now as to what I should do. Would you advise me to switch into some other stock, where I could faster regain my loss, or how long do you think I will have to wait in order to do this? Please advise what I should do, as I really am in need of some of the money.

Answer—This column never advises concerning speculative market operations such as would be entailed in making a switch from National City Bank to some other stock; neither does it ever venture to predict future market movements in any security. For one situated as you, who is in need of money, you should never engage in the buying or selling of securities, but should keep your money in the bank, where it will draw a fixed and steady income.

A short time ago it was stated that substantial purchases of National City Bank stock had been made by Henry Ford interests. Purchases, it was said, had accompanied increasingly close relations between the institution and the Fords. This naturally is regarded as a favorable indication. Aggressive expansion policy has placed this bank in a most prominent position in the banking field, with extensive foreign connections providing a world-wide service.

As of December 31, 1929, total resources of the bank were over $2,200,000,000. Deposits of $1,649,554,000 were equal to 6.9 times capital, surplus and undivided profits, and 15 times capital or $110,000,000. Earnings during 1929 increased about 17 per cent over the preceding year, reflecting the high interest rates prevailing, as well as large economies effected.

After deducting a contingency reserve and making year-end adjustments, net income of the bank, including dividends paid by National City Co., as well as earnings by City Bank Farmers Trust for the last six months of the year, were equivalent to $5.78 a share on stock outstanding as of December 31, last, or about $4.23 a share on average capital.

These earnings indicate that the dividend requirement for the year of $4 per share was amply covered. However, the stock returns only a very small yield, even at present low prices, but at the same time, it is regarded as secure. Without attempting to forecast the future, it is only fair to presume that when general business conditions improve and the securities markets as a whole assume a definite upward trend, National City Bank stock will regain at least a portion of its sharp decline.

American Steel Foundries; Wheat.

T. B. D.—I desire some information regarding American Steel Foundries and Cream of Wheat Corporation.

Answer—American Steel Foundries represents an equity in a strong company, but the outlook calls for no immediate improvement in earnings. In addition, it is doubtful if the $3 dividend will be fully earned this year. The stock must be classed as a speculative investment.

Earnings of the Cream of Wheat Corporation have increased steadily the last five years and profits for 1930 are expected to be about or par with those of last year, when $3.13 a share was earned. Dividends are $2 per year, in addition to which two 25-cent extras have been paid this year. The stock may be regarded as an attractive speculative investment issue suitable for the long-term investor.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ARLINGTON BRIDGE APPROACH ARGUED

War Department's Refusal Leaves Virginian Road Uncertain.

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

Whether the State of Virginia will have an approach road to the new memorial bridge will depend entirely upon the Federal Government, according to a statement made yesterday by Chairman H. G. Shirley, of State Highway Commission, at a meeting of that body held ni Orange, Va. The statement was made to Senator Frank L. Ball and other Arlington County delegates who appeared before the commision to urge the allocation of the funds for the construction of the Lee boulevard and John Marshall highway approaches to the new bridge.

"The War Department refuses to permit the State to build the first section of the road leading from the bridge," said Shirley, "and declines to build the road itself."

Meanwhile, the State apparently intends to go ahead with the construction of its portion of hte Lee boulevard, having allocated $100,000 last year for this purpose and having tentatively allocated another $100,000 for the same purpose for the coming year. Construction is expected to begni as soon as a few remaining details connected with rights of way are completed.

Congress Bill Pending.

A bill is now pending in Congress authorizing the Department of Agriculture to construct the first 2 miles of the highway. If that bill is not enacted during the coming session of Congress, Chairman Shirley indicated he would be at a loss to know by what means the State highway approaches to the new bridge could be made effective in time for the official opening.

Other requests presented by the Arlington County delegates were as follows:

First—For the construction next year of that portion of John Marshall highway between Clarendon and the Porter Woods. This request was supplemented by resolutions adopted recently by the Arlington County Civic Federation.

Second—The adoption by the State of approximately 1 mile of road along Four Mile run, connecting Glebe road with the Washington-Richmond highway.

Third—The adoption of the balance of the John Marshall highway to the corporate limits of the Town of Falls Church. The first section of this highway, beginning at the Porter Woods and extending westward through Clarendon and Ballston a distance of 2.7 miles, was adopted two years ago.

This leaves approximately 5 miles of the county's mileage yet to be designated by the State, and the Arlington County representatives were requested by the commission to file a brief on or before December 1 relative to the designation of the remaining mileage.

Those attending from Arlington County were State Senator Frank L. Ball, County Directing Engineer C. L. Kinnier, Ashton C. Jones, president of the Arlington County Chamber of Commerce, and Arthur Orr, president of the Straight-to-the-Bridge Boulevard Association.

With plans and specifications rapidly nearing completion by the architect, A. F. Thelander, bids are to be called for the construction of the $25,000 Community Methodist Church, to be located at the intersection of Virginia avenue and Courthouse road in Aurora Heights according to an announcement made yesterday by Clarence R. Ahalt chairman of the building committee.

The building will be of brick. It will contain a large Sunday school auditorium with classrooms for four separate departments; a large church auditorium and a kitchen.

Chairman Ahalt stated that the rapid growth of the congregations of the church and the Sunday school within the past eighteen months has made it necessary to begin the erection of the new building as son as possible. The Sunday school during the past eighteen months has reached an enrollment of more than 285 persons with an average attendance of more than 200 and still growing.

The church membership has in the past eighteen months grown from 44 to 140 persons Zoning Ordinance Desputed.

Judge Bryan Gordon, counsel for Max Bregman, who had noted an appeal to the circuit court from the decision of the police court, where he was fined for violation of the county zoning ordinance, withdrew the appeal yesterday when Bregman failed to appear.

Aroused over the failure to have the case brought to a head, citizens in the vicinity of the storage yard, which Bregman is charged with having maintained, are planning to bring the matter to the attention of the county zoning appeal board.

It was learned last night from a member of the appeal board that the matter will be brought up at the next meeting in order to learn whether there is any way in which the ordinance can be enforced. When the case was brought before the police court a second time, it was said, it was dismissed on the grounds that Bregman had obtained a permit to erect a building on the site.

The Arlington County Monarch Club will hold its weekly meeting tomorrow at the Ashton Heights Women's Clubhouse. A. B. Honts will preside.

Gas Main Requirements.

Meeting last night in the Jefferson District Firemen's Hall, the Jefferson District Citizens' Association voted to call upon the public utility commission of Arlingtn County to make an investigation as to certain requirements of the Rosslyn Gas Company in connection with the installation of gas mains in this section.

J. C. McClellan was appointed chairman of the public improvement committee to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Fred Lyons. Chairman McClellan was instructed to ask the utility commission to investigate a notice from the gas company to the effect that an installation charge of 40 cents per foot from the main to the meter is to be made.

He was also instructed to ask the commission why certain streets have been left by the company in the present condition.

The corresponding secretary was instructed to write to the State highway commission and request that a red light be installed at the intersection of the Washington and Richmond highway and Addison avenue similar to the one at the intersection of Frazier avenue and the highway.

The association voted to join the Arlington County Civic Federation. The president announced that he will appoint the delegates in the next few days.

Mrs. J. H. Criswell, of Clarendon, was elected president of the Women's Society of the Clarendon Baptist Church at its annual meeting held yesterday at the church. Other officers elected are Mrs. R. V. Hannah, first vice president; Mrs. Lena Haislep, second vice president; Mrs. Thomas Jones, secretary; Mrs. E. H. Harris, treasurer; Mrs. Elton Ferguson, councilor, Young Women's Auxiliary; Mrs. N. C. Jones; Kate Cox White Circle, Mrs. R. V. Hannah, and Elizabeth S. Wiley Circle, Mrs. L. B. McEachern.

The Arlington Rotary Club will hold its weekly luncheon meeting tomorrow at 12:30 o'clock at the Washington Golf and Country Club, with A. F. Thelander presiding.

The tax equalization board of Arlington County will hold a public hearing at the courthouse today at 10 o'clock to consider claims for adjustment in tax assessments.

The Parent-Teacher Association of the Woodrow Wilson School at Fort Myer Heights held its monthly meeting at the schoolhouse yesterday afternoon. The ways and means committee reported plans are proceeding for a dinner to be given at the schoolhouse the evening of December 12.

VIRGINIA HIGHWAY PARLEY IS CALLED

State Ready to Make Use Immediately of Federal Funds, If Advanced.

WORK IS SUMMARIZED

Richmond, Va., Nov. 11 (A.P.).—Gov. John Garland Pollard and State Highway Commissioner Henry G. Shirley will meet with Harry Flood Byrd, chairman of the Virginia Drought Relief Commission, tomorrow to discuss Virginia's highway plans in the event Congress next month makes some porvisions for advancing Federal road allocations as a relief measure.

Chairman Byrd will be told that the State is ready to use any extra Federal road appropriations on the shortest possible notice.

Gov. Pollard says preliminary surveys have been completed, routes determined, and every preliminary step has been taken ot make immediate use of any special drought road funds that may be advanced by Congress.

$4,000,000 Ahead of Program.

Meanwhile, the State is $4,000,000 ahead of the regular State highway program. The acceleration of the highway work has been designed to give employment to workers during an anticipated crisis.

Commissioner Shirley is just completing a series of allocation conferences throughout the State to determine highway construction plans for the next fiscal year.

In the fiscal year 1930 the 48 States and Hawaii, with the aid of Federal funds, completed improvements on 9,949 miles of Federal-aid highways, according to records of the Bureau of Public Roads of the United States Department of Agriculture, which cooperates with the States in highway development.

The amount of Federals funds disbursed during the year on all active road and bridge projects amounted to $75,880,963, about $6,200,000 less than for 1929. Of the total amount for 1930, approximately $2,500,000 come to Virginia.

In the Federal aid system at the close of the year there were 193,049 miles of highways, 84,012 miles of which had been improved with Federal aid.

Three Classes of Mileage.

The mileage improved during the year with Federal aid was divided into three classes: 7,317 miles, upon which no Federal funds had previously been spent, were classified as initially improved; 2,011 miles, previously improved to some extent with Federal aid, were improved further by additional joint work of the States and Federal Government; and 21 miles, built in previous years and since subjected to traffic in excess of the anticipated volume, were reconstructed and improved with more durable surfaces. These 21 miles were the first to be constructed under the Federal aid plan.

With the authorization of Federal funds for each of the years 1931, 1932 and 1933 increased to $125,000,000 the bureau anticipated an increase in mileages improved. When the $75,000,000 originally authorized for 1931 was increased by the apportionment of an additional $50,000 in April, the States immediately responded by increasing the allotments to definite projects to $102,498,084 for the fiscal year.

The apportionment of the additional $50,000,000 of Federal funds authorized for 1931, according to the Bureau of Statistics increased the number of men employed and road work.

Bowl Worth $2,000 Will Be Hunt Prize

Given to Middleburg Club for Best Mount Ridden to Hounds.

Special to The Washington Post.

Middleburg, Va., Nov. 11.—A silver bowl, valued at $2,000, has been given for the Middleburg Hunt by an unannounced donor, to be offered for the best hunter ridden behind the Middleburg hounds. The date for determining the winner has been set tentatively for February 22, Washington's birthday. The horses will be shown over natural hunting country.

Details of the competition remain to be worked out. It is likely, however, that an entry fee will be charged, the money to be applied to the purchase of two pieces of plate, one to be presented to the owner of the winning horse and the other to be given the rider, both to become the permanent property of the winners.

The bowl, said to be one of the most attractive ever offered for a test of horses in the Old Dominion, will remain the property of the club.

ARMISTICE MARKED BY ALEXANDRIA POST

C. C. Long and Col. Deems Are Principal Speakers at Day's Ceremonies.

ARMORY SITE OF DANCE

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU,
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The principal Armistice Day celebration in Alexandria was that of Alexandria Post No. 24, American Legion, held at Gadsby's Tavern, the home of the legion, the main feature of which was a tribute to the Unknown Soldier, by Charles Colfax Long. He was followed by Col. Clarence Deems, jr., professor of military science and tactics in the Alexandria High School.

The annual pilgrimage of Alexandria Post to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier was made yesterday by a committee and auxiliary, headed by Commander Sidney Weil and Mrs. Evelyn Knight, president of the auxiliary.

The ceremonies at Gadsby's Tavern were followed by a dance at the Armory sponsored by the legion post.

The Alexandria High School assembly celebrated Armistice Day in a program directed by Miss Corinne Reardon, a member of the faculty, with Hugh Travis, a member of the football team of the High School, presiding. F. Clinton Knight, city postmaster and past State commander of the legion, delivered an address, and recitations were given by Gorman Ridgely and Chilton Bruin. Mrs. Kirk sang a solo and "America" was sung by the assembly, accompanied on the piano by Miss Ethel Berkow, a student.

A social session was held by Alexandria Lodge of Elks after the regular meeting Monday night, at which several candidates were initiated. Talks were made by Dr. Robert South Barrett, Judge William P. Woolls and Harry F. Kennedy, of Alexandria, and Howard Lamkin, of Baltimore. James Reece Duncan, exalted ruler, presided.

The exalted ruler appointed a ladies' committee composed of Leopold Ruben, J. E. Greismer, George W. Kimball, H. E. Hinken and A. L. Peake. It is planned to give a number of dances and other entertainments, including frequent ladies' night celebrations. Among the entertainments will be a charity ball and a masked ball.

Emmett Stout, 20 years old, who was charged by the police with turning in a number of false fire alarms, was given a suspended sentence of ten days in jail by Judge William S. Snow. Judge Snow sustained the contention of Attorney F. G. Duvall, made at the trial, that an alleged confession of Stout should not be admitted as evidence, since Stout claimed it had been made after long-continued questioning by the police and on a promise of a light sentence.

HIGHWAY HEARING IS HELD IN ORANGE

800 ATTEND ASSEMBLY

Special to The Washington Post.

Orange, Va., Nov. 11.—A crowd estimated at 800 persons attended the hearing of the State Highway Commission for the Culpeper District held here today in the auditorium of the Orange High School. All thirteen counties in the district were represented, each county having contesting delegations over the distribution of mileage under the Porter Rhodes bill. Forty-three projects are submitted.

In the discussion of 1931 allocations the counties interposed title of or no objections to tentative allocations, but were unanimous in their request that work begin at once, that the unemployment situation might be in a measure relieved.

Commonwealth's Attorney A. Stuart Robertson presented Orange County's claim and asked that the mileage alloted Orange County be applied on the route from Orange to Barboursville connecting with the Spotswood Trail. In support of this project, Mr. Robertson said it is one of the most valuable routes in the county as a farm-to-market and through feeder road and that it furnishes access to many places of historical interest, including Montpelier and the home of Gov. James Barbour.

C. O'Connor Goolrick, of Fredericksburg, former State senator, representing the city and chamber of commerce of Fredericksburg, spoke in the interest of Route 32 between Gordonsville and Orange. Col. Daniel L. Porter, Judge A. T. Browning, E. H. De Jarnette, jr., of Orange, and T. W. Ross, of Gordonsville, were among others who spoke in behalf of this route.

Louisa County, with a delegation of more than 100, made a strong plea for the route leading from Fernclift, near the Fluvannah County line through Louisa to the Jefferson highway, and thence connecting with Route 32 or the James Madison highway. Advocates for this project included Col. John Q. Rhodes, W. Earley Crank, P. B. Porter, J. A. Kent and W. C. Bibb.

Senator N. B. Early and others spoke in behalf of Greene County, while Albemarle and advocates of Route 28 were represented by John S. Battle, Hollis Rhinehart, J. B. Andrews and Dr. Wilbur Nelson. Spokesmen for Madison County were Frank S. Walker, Woodberry Forest, Claude Bowers, Culpeper, and Dr. J. B. Early, Madison; and for Culpeper County, S. M. Nottingham, C. M. Bowers and Messrs. Bell and Gaines, the two latter representing the Chambers of Commerce of Culpeper and Warrenton, respectively.

Guilty Looking Auto Yields Cargo of Rum

Special to The Washington Post.

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 11.—A word to the wise: Check up on your appearance before you motor through this city. Because, he said, they looked guilty, Chief of Police S. B. Perry gave chase to two men who sped through Fredericksburg in an automobile. Overhauling his quarry several miles south of here on the Richmond-Washington highway the chief examined the car and found it to contain 100 gallons of liquor.

The two occupants, J. E. Toney, 27, and Raymond Smith, 23, of Richmond, arraigned in Police Court, were sentenced to 90 days on the road and fined $100 each.

FAIRFAX PREPARING FOR HUNTING SEASON

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Fairfax, Va.
Phone Clarendon 2334-W-2.

Elton R. Holbrook, deputy county clerk, has announced that he will be in his office at Fairfax Friday evening after 6 o'clock for the accommodation of persons wanting hunting licenses and who are unable to get to the courthouse during regular office hours. The hunting season for most small game opens Saturday in Fairfax County and many are expected to take advantage of the opportunity of the first day's hunt. There will be no open season on Hungarian partridges or ringneck, golden and silver pheasants and it will be unlawful to hunt turkeys and grouse in Fairfax until further action by the State Game Commission, Deputy Holbrook announced.

Other regulations of hunting in the county, which have been published by the State authorities, are as follows: The open season for quail and rabbit from November 15 to December 31, inclusive, bag limits on quail 15 and rabbits 10 a day; ducks and geese, from November 1 to January 31, 1931, bag limit 15 in the aggregate of all kinds and not more than 30 in a person's possession at any one time; brants, 8 at one time; geese, 4 a day and not over 8 at any one time.

It is forbidden to kill either woodduck or swan. Season on woodcock November 15 to December 15, bag limit 4 a day; Wilson or jacksnipe, November 1 to January 31, bag limit 25 a day, and doves September 1 to December 15 with a bag limit of 25 a day. County Game Warden A. B. Carter has also issued a warning to all hunters to use great care about fires, as a fire destroys more of the wild life than the hunters themselves, he states.

The volunteer firemen of the town of Fairfax have found a place to house their equipment until the department is able to finance the building of its own quarters. The members have been assured that they can use the small garage building in the rear of the drug store on Mechanics street until that time. Since the organization of the department and the purchasing of the modern fire-fighting equipment, it has been a difficult task to find a place suitable for keeping the engine during cold weather.

The firemen state that due to the present economic conditions occasioned by the summer's drought and the resulting loss of crop production, they have had trouble in meeting the notes for payment on the engine, and until the last note, which is due next summer, is paid, they do not feel it advisable to attempt to build their own quarters.

The firemen are trying to collect unpaid pledges from residents of the vicinity toward the upkeep of the department, and during their travels in the country served by them they are appealing to the people to contribute as much as possible at the present time.

Members of the volunteers class of the Southern Methodist Church at Fairfax will celebrate the fiftieth anniversary of its foundation with a banquet this evening in the Sunday school rooms of the church. All former members of the class have been invited to attend. The guests of honor will include the Rev. and Mrs. Harnsberger, of Mount Airy, Md., founders of the class; the Rev. and Mrs. L. B. Atkins, of Sudley, Va., the former pastor of the church; the Rev. and Mrs. R. A. Rice, the present pastor, and Mrs. Thomas Groover, of Washington. Preparations have been made for 60 guests.

The dinner committee consists of Mrs. Fay Beckwith, Mrs. Elsie Belstel, Miss Virginia Haines and Miss Jacqueline Pfalzgraf. The entertainment committee includes Miss Roma Dupp, Miss Edna Jerman, Mrs. Mary Mickelson, Mrs. Edna Bennett and Miss Lucille Rice. Miss Mary Cullen, Mrs. Dollie Smith and Miss Mavis Cobb will be in charge of the decorations.

The Fairfax County home demonstration agents advisory council will hold its quarterly meeting today at the home of Mrs. A. Harmond Roberts, near Accotink. The members of the council from Mount Vernon district will act as hostesses.

The Women's Auxiliary of the St. Mary's Church at Rixey will meet this afternoon in the church. The members of the auxiliary will pack clothing and canned goods to send to the tuberculosis preventorium for children at Dyke, Va.

The Fairfax County Teachers Association will meet this evening in the auditorium of the Oakton High School at Oakton. Miss Nancy Edwards, Miss Bertha Hibbs and Miss Agnes Donaldson have been apointed by the president, Miss Dorothy Otley, to nominate four delegates to the State meeting, one from each of the primary, intermediate and high school faculties, and one principal.

The Volunteer Fire Department at McLean has elected officers to fill vacancies created by an amendment of the by-laws. John Carper was elected second assistant chief; C. W. Triplett and Albert Gorham, captains; John W. Preston, assistant fire marshal; Jesse Dailey, Audrey Dailey, Willard Dailey and Joe Farver, lieutenants; James King, Otto Voight, Marvin Poole and Charles Magarity, nozzlemen.

A luncheon and business meeting of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church at Oakton will be held this afternoon at the home of Mrs Verna Pobst on the Lee higway at Hatmark

The School and Community League at Dranvesville will meet this evening in the school house. A special entertainment program will be given.

Louise Koontz has been elected president of the newly organized Art Club of the Clifton High School. Lucille Johnson was selected as vice president and Tilla Tidwell as secretary-treasurer.

Dear Gus: If what you say is true now is the time for me to get a bout for the world's championship with him. Urge immediate action before he shows any signs of improvement. THE KID.

* * * * *

My Dear Kid: I am fixing everything as fast as possible. Saw President Hoover, Senator-elect Morrow, Mustapha Kemal, Senator Borah, Mussolini, Henry Ford, Mahatma Gaudhi and the Four Marx Brothers today. They are in our corner. I am doubtful about Secretary Stimson, J. P. Morgan and the Rockefellers. GUS.

* * * * *

Dear Gus: How do the Van Sweringens, Queen Mary, Prime Minister MacDonald, Simeon Fess, Gov. Roosevelt, Vice President Curtis and the Emperor of Abyssinia stand? And is the champion any worse? THE KID.

* * * * *

KID: Queen Mary and the Emperor of Abyssinia are in our corner, but I can't get a statement from the others. My uncle is taking care of Ambassador Dawes and Bishop Cannon. I think Alice Longworth and Ruth McCormick are square shooters and will be with us to a finish. Since I wired you last the champ lost his right arm in automobile accident. Have conference with Stalin of Russia today. GUS.

* * * * *

Dear Gus: Delighted to hear about champion losing right arm. I think this is the time for me to meet him. Have you seen No. 6 and Mr. X? THE KID.

* * * * *

Dear Kid: I am troubled by the attitude of George F. Baker, Charlie Schwab, Gen. Pershing and Lady Asquith on the bout. I think Farrell, of the Steel Corporation, is in our corner. Charles Evans Hughes is in our corner. GUS.

P. S.—Have reason to think Nicholas Murray Butler, Al Smith, Justice Holmes and Owen Young are in our corner.

Dear Gus: Don't you think the ring will be pretty crowded? THE KID.

* * * * *

Dear Kid: Not considering the shape the champion is in. GUS.

ALICE IN HOOVERLAND.

The Hoover and the G. O. P.
Were walking hand in hand,
They wept like anything to see
Such quantities of sand:
"If there had not been such a slide,"
They said, "It would be grand."

"If seven maids with seven mops
Swept it for half a year
Do you suppose," the Hoover said,
"That they could get it clear?"
"I doubt it," said the G. O. P.
And shed a bitter tear.

A GAME LOSER.

MR. SIMEON FESS says the election result was without significance to the Republican party. Prohibition, the tariff and unemployment were not issues, he states. He won't be convinced until the party's defeat is unanimous.

Johns Hopkins University doctors state that the germ causing the common cold is too small to be isolated and studied. This will give you some idea what little chance the average pill has to hit it.

YEGGS ROB COUNTY BANK IN FLUVANNA

Postoffice Is Looted at Utica Robbery Attempt Made at Port Royal.

NITROGLYCERINE IS USED

Special to The Washington Post.

Charlottesville, Va., Nov. 11.—For the second time within three weeks yeggmen last night visited Palmyra county seat of Fluvanna. This time they robbed the Bank of Fluvanna one of the half dozen buildings left standing when flames swept that village last spring. On October 21 the Paymyra postoffice was torn open by explosives, and robbers escaped with cash and stamps valued at more than $600.

Residents of Palmyra heard an explosion about 4 o'clock this morning, but the robbery was not discovered until the cashier visited the bank at 8 o'clock. Yeggman jimmied the front door of the building, used nitroglycerine to shatter the safe, and made away with certificates, life insurance policies and other documents. All of the bank's cash and negotiable securities were contained in a large vault which was left untouched.

Sheriff L. F. Campbell took up the trail today and called in detectives of the American Bankers Association.

Fredericksburg, Va., Nov. 11 (Special).—Thieves looted the Mica (Caroline County) postoffice Friday night of $100 in cash and numerous valuable papers and 48 hours later made an unsuccessful attempt to rob the Bank of Port Royal, 9 miles distant, in the same county.

Desk drawers had been opened and papers scattered in the bank, but nothing was reported missing. A pocketbook containing checks stolen from the postoffice were found half a mile from Mica, but failed to shed light on the identity of the robbers.

COUNTY GROUP ASKS ROAD IMPROVEMENT

Prince Georges Board Urged to Get Action on Link of Soil Highway.

SCHOOL BOARD MEETS

Need for the immediate reconditioning of the unfinished stretch of the Clinton - Piscataway road was stressed yesterday by a delegation of citizens which appeared before the commissioners of Prince Georges County. Most of the road is now gravel, but about a mile of it is still dirt.

The county commissioners already have recommended to the State Roads Commission that this mile be finished, and the commission has approved the work. It is too late in the year, however, according to the State body, to begin the work, which can not be carried on in winter.

The delegation, mostly residents of Piscataway, then asked that work be begun and as much of it done as possible before cold weather sets in. Grading and graveling can go along together, which will at least shorten the unfinished stretch. The commissioners agreed to ask the commission to do this.

The board of education at its monthly meeting yesterday, decided to try to buy land for the addition of an auditorium at the Hyattsville School and to start with condemnation proceedings if its offer is refused. They will tender $1,500 to H. L. Howard for a plot of land beside the Olive Street School. This failing, they will start the legal action for the procurement of the tract, which is necessary for the addition.

Colored residents of Avondale and Upper Marlboro also appeared before the board, asking the construction of new colored schools in these towns. No action was taken on the requests. Upper Marlboro had been offered a site for the proposed building, but it was decided to be too far out of town.

A part of the new Riverdale School will be opened with a house-warming Friday night at 8 o'clock. While the building is not finished, four rooms and the auditorium are ready for use.

Nicholas Orem, county superintendent of schools; J. C. Moore, president of the parent-teacher association, and Max Vollberg, mayor of the town, will address the meeting. E. B. Denford, chairman of the building committee, will be master of ceremonies, and children of the school will have part in the exercises.

Music will be furnished by the Prince Georges County Citizens Band, with a solo by Mrs. May Willis Baker, teacher of music in the Mount Rainier School. Bird H. Dolby will present to the school a flag given by the Junior Order of American Mechanics.

The invocation will be delivered by the Rev. Keith Custis, and Dr. C. A. Cary, a member of the board of trustees, will make the address of welcome. Senator Lansdale G. Sasscer also has been invited to attend and speak.

The Prince Georges County Municipal Association will hold its regular meeting in the Firemen's Hall in Brentwood tomorrow night. This is the first gathering of the association since its rather heated discussions of politics during the recent campaign. It is possible that the question of future attitude of the body toward politics will be discussed tomorow night.

An average of five homeless and unemployed wanderers are housed every night in the Hyattsville Jail, according to Albert Anderson, chief of police. Many of them are aged men, who are unable to find work. Chief Anderson said. He gives them a place to sleep and a breakfast, and when possible, gives them work.

With the jail and the furnace room of the Municipal Building, there is a place for ten men to sleep in warmth and comfort. So far, however, the maximum has not applied for lodging.

In spite, or because of the defeat of the G. O. P. in the recent election in the county, the Riverdale Republican Club has decided to become a permanent organization. J. Wilson Ryon continues as president of the body, which will hold its future meetings on the first Monday of every month.

Committees which were appointed are: Constitution, Karl Krause, William C. Wedding, Mrs. Eva Chase; entertainment, Walter E. Hardester, Rubin J. Gordon, Mrs. Karl Krause; furnishing the new headquarters, E. S. Aldridge, Mrs. Herbert P. Mitchell, William C. Wedding.

Among the new officers chosen by the Cheverly Citizens Association is Bert H. Wise, who will serve his third term in that position. Other officers chosen are Fred Gast, first vice president; E. Donald Preston, second vice president; Thomas C. Borden, recording secretary; William R. Gaither, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Willie A. Link, treasurer, and O. Watson Lambert, director of the Cheverly Players.

Five volunteer fire departments in the metropolitan area were called out last night to fight a forest fire along Good Luck road in the country back of Riverdale. The efforts of the firemen were aided by a light drizzle which began to fall about the time the third alarm came in.

Companies responding to the fire were Cottage City, Mount Rainier, Brentwood and Bladensburg.

Farmer and Sons Hurt.

Seriously injured yesterday morning when the automobile in which he was riding with his two sons collided with a machine containing three colored men on the Beallsville pike, near Dawsonville, Ernest P. Ricketts, 65-year-old retired farmer, of Darnestown, Md., was reported early this morning at Georgetown University Hospital to be considerably improved. Physicians said he was injured internally.

Porter Ricketts, 31 years old, a son, sustained a broken leg, cuts and bruises, while the other son, E. Clayton Ricketts, 34 year sold, was cut on the head and badly bruised. All of the injured were treated by Dr. Upton D. Nourse, near whose home the accident occurred. Clayton iRcketts, a veteran of the World War, was later removed to Walter Reed Hospital, while his father and brother were taken to Georgetown.

Montgomery County Policemen Roy Bodmer investigated the accicrashed on a curve, probably due to one of them traveling at an excessive speed. The second car was occupied by Robert Diggs, John Ivory and Moses Fibbs, all colored, who were going to work. They are employes of the Maryland State Roads Commission. None of the colored men was injured other than slight scratches and bruises.

The application of several residents of the Travilan neighborhood for a franchise to serve the communities of Travaliah, Hunting Hill and Dawsonville with electricity, was received by the Montgomery County Commissioners at their regular weekly meeting in Rockville yesterday. The application was signed by C. Thomas Stearn, Thomas T. Garrett, Dr. Upton Nourse, J. Leslie Woodfield and Charles O. Falkenwald. The application was taken under advisement.

A joint meeting of the Rockville courthouse building committee and the Montgomery County Board of Commissioners is scheduled for next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, at which time consideration will be given certain details in the construction of the courthouse which have arisen since work on the structure was commenced. The architects, Deloe Smith and Thomas Edwards, are to be present at the meeting. The principal matter to be discussed is the floor plan.
